RED ARMY FALLS BACK TOWARD ROSTOV

INSTALLATION OF 170 PARKING METERS BEGUN

Employes of the city service department and of the Dual Parking Meter Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla., were engaged in placing between 170 and 175 new parking meters along four of the leading traffic arteries in the downtown area today.

Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell said this morning that installation of the new units will be completed by Wednesday barring unfavorable weather conditions. The meters are to go into use as soon as installation of each units is completed.

To Make Total of 275

When installation is completed about 275 units will be in operation. One hundred units were first placed in operation in August, 1940. Since then more than $22,000 has been collected, City Auditor Elmer Shaw said today.

The units are basically the same as the original group. Part of the group are for two-hour parking, whereas all of the original units were one-hour meters. Some one-hour units will be added to the existing group, Safety-Service Director Caldwell said.

The two-hour units can be distinguished from one-hour units in that the four-foot standards, made of galvanized steel piping, are painted blue. The one-hour units are fastened onto an aluminum coated standard.

Superior Work

L. E. Tompkins of Cleveland, district sales representative of the Dual Parking Meter Co., is in Marion this week to supervise installation of work.

Installation of the units follows action taken by city council several weeks ago approving purchase of additional meters. Areas in which the meters are being placed was also decided by council.

The following areas for two-hour meters were established:

West Center street—from Oak to Orchard.

One-hour parking areas are:

SOY FOUND CHAINED IN MOUNTAIN HOME

Little Hope Held for Two-and-a-Half-Year-Old.

By The Associated Press

PARSONS, W. Va., July 20—Doctors and nurses sought today to save the life of a small boy who acted just like a little scared animal after he was found chained in the attic of his mountain home.

A physician reported the two and a half-year-old child was in critical condition, suffering from malnutrition and body sores, and expressed the belief the tot could not survive. He weighed only 15 pounds when found.

State Police Corporal G. W. Bush said there was no indication [illegible] among the child, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lougary of Hillsville, had been punished, or for what reason he was chained.

State police and department of public assistance officials found the boy, a large rope about his neck and shoulders.

Four other children in the family, an older girl and a year-old boy, were reported by the physician to be "perfectly normal" and apparently not mistreated.

Cory Busch said the parents, both about 24 years old, had been arrested on a warrant charging cruelty and placed in the Parsons jail.

TO RECOMMEND NEW TAX BILL

House Committee Decides in Favor of 90 and 40 Per Cent Proposal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 20 — The house ways and means committee, in a last-minute change of attitude, decided today to recommend to the house a 90 per cent excess profits tax and a 40 per cent combined normal and surtax on corporations.

Shortly before the $6,143,900,000 revenue bill came before the house for final passage, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the committee announced that it had abandoned its previous schedules of 87½ per cent on excess profits and 45 per cent on normal and surtaxes for corporations.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), a committee member, had served notice he would make an attempt on the floor to obtain the 90 and 40 per cent rates, but he said the committee's new rates were satisfactory to him.

The committee took no action on the question of post-war credits for corporations based on their excess profits taxes—a provision once approved but later discarded.

Doughton expressed the opinion that these last-minute changes would make little difference in the bill's total revenue, but that "in the long run, our changes will increase revenue because they will let corporations continue to live and that will mean more employment and more dividends."

Thus, the heaviest tax bill in history, estimated to boost federal taxes to the unprecedented level of $23,000,000,000, seemed assured of passage during the day and speedy transmission to the senate, where Chairman George (D-Ga) of the finance committee has arranged to open hearings Thursday.

The measure would take $19 of each $100 of taxable income of individuals in the lowest brackets and $45 on each $100 of the taxable income of corporations plus 87½ per cent of their so-called "excess profits."

RAF BOMBERS HIT AT NORTH GERMANY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 20 — Four-engined bombers of the Royal Air Force raided northwest Germany last night, including submarine building yards at Vegesack, the air ministry announced today.

Vegesack is 10 miles northwest of Bremen.

"Three of our bombers are missing from these operations," the air ministry said.

The blow against northwest Germany was the fourth in as many days, having been preceded by three daylight smashes against the Ruhr and submarine construction centers at Luebeck and Flensburg.

Yesterday by daylight RAF fliers in Boston bombers attacked targets in the German-occupied Lille and Berthune areas, including power stations at Chocques and Montagarbe.

WPB Establishes New Buffer Zone for Gas Supplies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 20 — A "buffer zone" of 162 counties lying west of the eastern seaboard rationing area was created by the war production board today in which gasoline deliveries will be cut 25 per cent starting at 12:01 a. m. (Eastern War Time) Wednesday.

The cut in supply is designed to prevent rationed motorists from crossing the boundary line to get unlimited motor fuel.

In addition, the WPB announced that deliveries to filling stations in seven western New York counties would be cut 33 1/3 per cent immediately and that on August 22 these counties would be brought into the ration zone. These counties are Niagara, Erie, Orleans, Genesee, Wyoming, Monroe and Livingston.

The new "buffer zone" takes in all the other 83 counties of western, New York and all of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia where curtailment was in effect during winter months and then lifted, and 76 additional counties in eastern Tennessee and Alabama and western Florida where there has been no previous curtailment.

The service station "curfew"—which forbids stations from remaining open more than 12 hours a day and 72 hours a week—was extended to the buffer zone.

Under the curfew regulation, motor fuel may not be delivered to vehicles outside the prescribed hours, even for "preferential users" as defined by the ration order, but may be made after hours for military use or for emergency use affecting life, health or property. Each filling station may determine its own operating hours, which may include night and Sundays so long as the 72-hour weekly restriction is observed.

The order prescribed that no motor fuel of any sort could be shipped from the ration area for use outside that area.

Hospital Legislation Before Council Tonight

Legislation prepared as a major step toward erecting a temporary addition to Marion City hospital will be presented for action by city council at a special meeting tonight at 7:30 in the municipal building.

An ordinance and a resolution have been prepared by Robert A. Kelly, assistant to Acting City Solicitor R. M. Wilhelm.

The ordinance authorizes the hospital building commission to apply for federal funds to remodel the present hospital and build a temporary addition and to employ an architect. The resolution approves the contract of employment with the architect.

Two Men Killed In Ordnance Plant Blast

By The Associated Press

CLIFTON FORGE, Va., July 20—Two men were killed and several others injured early today in an explosion in one unit of the Virginia Ordnance Works at Glen Wilton near here.

Making munitions, the plant is operated by the Hercules Powder Company for the army.

The workmen killed were W. M. Hill, 35, and Lawrence Moss, 40.

Police Chief J. W. Huffman said four others were taken to Clifton Forge and Ohio railroad hospital here.

BRITISH TAKE 4,000 CAPTIVES IN DESERT WAR

Army of Nile Tightens Grip on New Positions West of El Alamein.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, July 20 — Capture of 4,000 axis prisoners in the hard fighting of the past week was announced by British headquarters today as the army of the Nile tightened its grip on newly-won positions west of El Alamein and the RAF swept through swirling dust storms to deliver fresh blows to the enemy.

At least six tanks were knocked out of action by British fighter bombers on the southern sector of the 40-mile front and many enemy aircraft were smashed by a heavy bomber attack on a German airdrome west of the battle area, a communique said.

Five enemy planes, attempting to land during the raid, were reported shot down by British fighters escorting a strong force of light bombers which carried out the assault.

Biggest RAF Raid

The attack, near El Daba close behind the front, was described as one of the biggest ever carried out by the RAF against an enemy desert airfield. About a third of the German aircraft on the ground was reported destroyed or damaged.

Four of the planes shot down as they were attempting to land were big Junkers 52 transports used by German Marshal Erwin Rommel to bring in reserves from across the Mediterranean. The fifth was a dive bomber.

Heavy bombers of the allied air force made a simultaneous daylight attack on the axis supply port of Tobruk. Only one British plane was reported lost in these operations.

Dust storms which hampered operations in the air also apparently kept land activity to a minimum, for British headquarters made no mention of fighting on the ground front yesterday.

There were indications that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, unsuccessful in all attempts to regain lost ground, was regrouping his forces for a large-scale resumption of the desert battle.

Reports from the front said that during the past 48 hours the Germans had withdrawn at various places to straighten lines dented by British advances—the most pronounced along the coast and in the central sector.

Consolidate Positions

The British took advantage of the situation to consolidate their own positions.

A British communique yesterday reported that Indian troops had advanced slightly along El Ruweisat ridge in the central sector and held their gains against a counter-attack by enemy tanks and infantry.

On the southern end of the front, just above the salt marshes of the Qattara depression, imperial forces also made some progress following up an axis withdrawal, the communique said.

Little activity was reported, however, along the coast, where Australian troops maintained positions at Tel El Eisa—the "Hill of Jesus."

Aleutian Island Attempt Seen As Last Jap Effort

BY KEITH WHEELER

(Copyright, 1942, Chicago Times, Inc.)

AT SEA WITH THE PACIFIC FLEET, (Delayed) — Kiska Harbor may earn a place in history as the dreariest tomb ever to receive the corpse of an invader's hope to conquer the world.

It may be that Honshu's hopeful little men have chosen the foggy bay under the black peaks of Kiska's hills to launch their last serious attempt to invade and conquer the United States.

It now seems more likely they have chosen a place to die.

Despite repetitious punishment by American bombers they are doggedly assembling in Kiska.

Already the emperor's high-powered ships are going down at their moorings, victims of bombs falling day and night along the Aleutian ocean.

The big PBY Catalina flying boats first located the Japanese in Kiska Harbor June 10. The Japs had captured or otherwise disposed of 10 American weather observers stationed there.

Next day the first flights of navy Catalinas and army fortress and B-24 Liberators began freighting bombs to Kiska.

The weather at Kiska was better than usual—cloudy and overcast with only ravellings of fog blanking out stretches of sea and land below.

The Catalinas slid across the mile high peak of Kiska Volcano, and down on the ships in the harbor. That day one heavy cruiser, two light cruisers, a single destroyer and half dozen transports lay anchored there.

First Attack

Five Liberators launched the first concentrated attack. They came down to 1,800 feet where they could see to work. The Japs threw up an umbrella of anti-aircraft and one Liberator caught a chunk apparently in the bomb load. He was there in formation one second and the next he came apart in a roaring blast that rocked the other planes.

The remaining four planes avenged the loss, for as they left, one heavy cruiser lay flaming in the harbor, hit squarely by heavy bombs.

Before the day was over the Catalina caught a submarine on the surface enroute, dropped a load of heavy bombs and the sub broke up and sank.

Another Catalina got two near misses on a large destroyer with 500-pounders and another did the same with a light cruiser. Near misses as defined by bombardiers are bombs close enough to work serious damage.

In the harbor that day three of the Japs' huge Kawanishi four-engine flying boats lay moored, evidence the enemy intends to stay. One Catalina dropped low and strafed the cumbersome flying hayracks, leaving them burning.

One Catalina came away with more than 100 bullet holes and shrapnel cuts. Another, attacked by six Japs, got away but was so badly shot up it sank while landing.

The Japs showed signs of discouragement and their ships began to get under way. A "Cat" delivered its load on the moving ships and flew on out to Attu, the last island in the chain. Many landing boats were drawn up on the beach and tents were pitched on the tundra shore.

The bombers noted evidence the Japs planned a permanent occupation. Signs of construction work were seen and shorebased fighters rose from Kiska to meet the American craft. The harbor was empty of ships that night, but next day they came back, ap-

U. S. BOMBERS HIT AIR BASE

Blast Japanese Airfield at Canton, Leaving Six Fires and Hitting Planes.

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 20—United States bombing planes blasted a Japanese airfield at Canton Saturday, planting their bombs among some 60 planes on the ground and leaving six great fires blazing, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

In a second attack the American airmen bombed Linchwan, Linchwan, Japanese base in Kiangsi province. All the planes returned safely from both raids.

Chinese forces, inflicting major setbacks to the Japanese drive aimed at the heart of China from the southeast, have recaptured the seaports of Wenchow and Juian in Chekiang province and broken the invaders' hold on a 15-mile strip of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, the Chinese high command announced yesterday.

The reports of these successes after a long series of Japanese gains was greeted here as the best news in weeks from the warfronts.

Both Wenchow and Juian, 13 miles to the south, were reported captured last Friday less than six days after their occupation by the Japanese in a thrust which extended across the length of Chekiang from Hangchow in the north.

The communique said that in Kiangsi, inland province which adjoins Chekiang on the west, the Japanese took flight from Hengfeng after firing the town but that the flames were extinguished by Chinese troops who marched in Saturday.

It added that Iyang, railway town 15 miles west of Hengfeng, was captured early yesterday by forces attacking from several directions.

After losing the two towns and with them their domination of the Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line the Japanese attempted a new thrust from Kwangfeng, in eastern Kiangsi, but were declared repulsed. Hengfeng fell to the Japanese on July 1 and was the last town on the railway to be captured in their drive to close the gap between their east and west columns.

In still another victory, the Chinese said their troops captured Yenshan, southern Honan, yesterday after a five-day battle and that an attack was in progress on the nearby Japanese base at Sinyang. Yenshan is about midway between the Yangtze and Yellow rivers.

Scioto Ordnance Plant Production Manager Arrives To Begin Duties

Another high-ranking executive of the U. S. Rubber Co. staff that will operate the Scioto Ordnance Plant for the war department has arrived in Marion to begin his new duties.

He is John M. Miller, 47, who came here from Providence, R. I., to become production manager for the war plant. He will be in charge of all manufacturing operations.

He brings to his new job a background of 22 years of experience in the rubber industry, the last 18 of which have been spent in charge of plants making all types of rubber products.

He studied mechanical engineering at Notre Dame. He saw overseas service in the first World war as a lieutenant in infantry.

FLASH FLOODS TAKE 11 LIVES

Waters of Three Rivers in New York and Pennsylvania Run Rampant.

By The Associated Press

RIDGEWAY, Pa., July 20 — Violent flash floods rolling through north central Pennsylvania and New York today took at least 11 lives and damaged or destroyed hundreds of homes, business establishments and industrial plants.

Railroad roadways and highway bridges were washed out. Traffic was paralyzed. Power and telephone service was disrupted. There were fires, landslides and disease threats.

The flood waters swirled from the upper tributaries of the Susquehanna, Clarion and Allegheny rivers in Pennsylvania. The Allegheny winds northward through southern New York before turning southwest to its junction with the Ohio at Pittsburgh.

Hardest hit were Port Allegheny, Austin, Wharton, Ridgeway, Emporium and Johnsonburg in Pennsylvania and Olean, Portville and Salamanca in New York.

At Port Allegany, where six persons were reported drowned, the Allegheny smashed into the Free Methodist church while 150 persons were attending a conference. They clung to trees, rooftops and floating wreckage until rescued. Fire broke out later and destroyed the church.

L. N. Lukehart of Alexandria, Va., general field representative of the Red Cross, took charge of relief operations there. He reported the flood was so swift "huge chunks of streets" were torn out.

An earthen dam broke at Austin, sweeping away several homes and knocking others from their foundations.

Waters mains, electric and telephone lines were destroyed. A flood there in 1911 took more than 80 lives. No loss of life had been reported today.

A wall of water eight feet high swept through Johnsonburg, damaging Canastea Paper Company factory.

Three persons were reported drowned at Olean, N. Y., where the Allegheny rushed over a third of the city. A thousand persons were driven from their homes.

The dead as reported by coroners and newsmen:

At Port Allegany—The Rev. Edna Parkas of Duke Center; Mrs. Margaret (Maurice) O'Connor, 70; Mrs. Delia Mitchell; Irene Groll; a three-months-old girl named Babola, and John Scott.

At Johnsonburg — Cyrul Habergar, 38.

NAZIS THROW HEAVY FORCE INTO FIGHTING

Germans Capture Don River Bridgehead in Hard Hand-to-Hand Fighting.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 20—The Red army fell back toward Rostov in the battle of the Don steppes today as the Germans rushed up superior numbers of men, tanks and other weapons in a determined bid for that key to the Caucasus.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was assembling all his available forces in an orderly retreat for a stand somewhere along a 40-mile sector from abandoned Voroshilovgrad to the battleground south of Millerovo.

While the stage thus was being set for a new struggle, the Russians reported significant new successes around their anchor bastion of Voronezh to the north which now resembled a doubled first in the German flank.

Hand-To-Hand Fighting

In hand-to-hand fighting the Russians took one main German bridgehead across the Don at Voronezh after a heavy defeat of the invaders' 75th division.

Other counterattacking defenders of the city grappled with the Germans south and west of Voronezh on the banks of the Don.

(This appeared to mean that the Germans had been driven back from the city's environs on all sides. Previous dispatches indicated the Germans had been routed to the north of the city and held at bay to the south but had held on to the western outskirts. Voronezh is about 10 miles east of the Don.)

The Red army above Rostov, while yielding ground slowly, refused to let its lines be broken despite the fury of German armored attacks, dive bombing and parachutists landings. In its rear, said Russians dispatches from the front. These asserted that the forces which retreated from Voroshilovgrad were being absorbed in an orderly manner into the main forces.

Meanwhile it was reported that the Russians had had time to bring up help from the strong armies garrisoning the northern Caucasus to bolster Timoshenko's fighters, who have been retreating for 10 days in the area between the Donets and the Don.

Nazis Approach Junction

The Germans, in possession of Voroshilovgrad 100 miles north of Rostov and pounding the Russian steppes south of Millerovo on the railway, apparently were approaching the junction of the railway and the Donets river at Kamensk, 85 miles north of Rostov.

The Russians, after blunting for the moment the Nazi drive eastward toward the Volga, did not minimize the threat and were throwing everything available, including American and British tanks and planes, into the fight.

"Our men are still sacrificingly and courageously mauling the enemy," the Russians said of fighting south of Millerovo. It was admitted Soviet troops had withdrawn to fresh positions after the Germans threw new infantry and tank formations into the battle.

Today's mid-day communique acknowledged the Germans were continuing their advance south of Millerovo and the Russians reported a new withdrawal in one sector there "under pressure of numerically superior enemy forces."

However, in another sector of the Millerovo battle, the Russians said they had broken up a German wedge, killing more than 1,200 Germans and destroying 15 tanks, 10 guns and 60 machineguns.

Magazine Says Insufficiency Next Winter Is Certain.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 20 — The magazine Steel reported today "the most disquieting feature" of the industry's drive to meet all war needs "is practical certainty of insufficient scrap supply next winter."

Such indications already are appearing, the trade publication found, and "some operators believe the pinch will be felt as early as October. Current consumption to sustain near-peak steel output is using all available tonnage and insufficient reserves will be accumulated. Already melters who had been able to lay down some stocks are using them to maintain production."

Structural steel fabricators "losing much work by curtailment of building construction, are turning to subcontracting on products for which their equipment is suited. Lighters, barges and pontoons are among products they have taken over in quantity and numerous assemblies for shipbuilding are being made in fabricating shops."

Ingot production advanced ½ point last week to 98 per cent of estimated national capacity. The Wheeling district climbed 6 points to 83½ and Youngstown was up 1 to 96. Cincinnati last 3½ points to 88½ per cent, Cleveland ½ point to 94½, Detroit 4 to 85 and Pittsburgh 1 to 94.

2 Marion Cadets at Navy's New Pre-Flight School

Two men from Marion have reported for duty as cadets at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school at Iowa City, Ia., for the first phase of the 12-month naval aviation training course, according to a news report from the navy public relations office in Cleveland.

The Marion men are William E. Houk, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Houk of 497 Wilson avenue, and James L. Chaney, son of Mrs. Carrie M. Chaney of 609 East Center street.

At the Iowa base the cadets will undergo three months of strenuous scientific physical conditioning that is designed to make U. S. navy fliers the most physically perfect group of fighters in the world. They also will learn the fundamentals of navigation, military formations and drill, and naval procedure and customs.

Busy Schedule

From reveille at 5:45 a. m. until taps at 9:30 p. m. the cadets' days will be filled with athletics, physical drills, marching, and classes in such subjects as gunnery, meterology, mathematics and physics, plane recognition and naval history.

Capt. David C. Hanrahan, USN, the base commanding officer, and Lt. Cdr. Bernie Bierman, USMCR, former coach of the University of Minnesota football team directs the physical training program.

All cadets are eligible to compete on varsity teams. The teams that represent the base will meet the cream of collegiate and military competition. The football team will play Nebraska, Missouri, Notre Dame, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, Kansas, Ohio State, Northwestern and the three other pre-flight schools this fall.

Leads Toward Commission

Wood-chopping, ditch digging, calisthenics, long hikes, all kinds of sports and obstacle racing will be used to harden cadet muscles.

After the three months' course, the cadets will be given 10 days leave. They will then report to a naval reserve aviation base for three months of preliminary flight training, followed by six months of training at advanced bases. Upon graduation the men will be commissioned as ensigns in the naval reserve.

This Week in the Sky

THIS WEEK the moon is ripening from quarter, on the 26th to full one week later. At the same time it is reaching the point at which it is closest to the earth, 223,800 miles (the astronomer's word is "perigee"). The combination of these circumstances will make the full moon one of the brightest to be seen in a year. On Sunday night, the 26th, the moon will be near perigee and just one day short of full. If the local weather is favorable, this would be a fine week-end to plan a moonlit excursion or an evening in the park.

This will be a good time to notice how the brilliance of the full moon puts down the light of the stars. We often hear that the stars shine by day but this cannot be verified without a telescope. Too full moon, at this time, is powerful enough to blot out of the sky all but the brightest stars, giving a good chance to see the halfway point between daylight and darkness. The first magnitude stars Arcturus and Vega will still be visible, if the weather is clear, but the rest of their constellations will be almost washed out by the clear gold bath of the nearby moon.

UNITED STATES WPB WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

An Emergency Statement to the People of the United States

How can you help? The answer is on this page. I hope every American citizen will read it and act on it.

D. M. NELSON, CHAIRMAN, WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

A crisis exists in our war production program which can be solved only by the patriotic cooperation of the American people.

We are faced with a serious shortage of steel scrap, rubber and other vital materials.

This shortage must be filled.

By "scrap" we mean the ordinary Junk which today is lying in the barnyards and in the gullies of farms; in the basements, attics and garages of homes and stores throughout the country.

The steel industry operates on the basis of half-and-half—about 50 per cent metal from pig iron and 50 per cent remelted scrap metal.

Therefore, about 50 per cent of every tank, every ship, every submarine and every gun is made of scrap iron and steel.

The steel industry has been rapidly stepping up its production—from 67,000,000 tons in 1940 to a record-breaking 83,000,000 tons in 1941. Production in 1942 is already ahead of 1941, but we need to get production up to the industry's full capacity of 90,000,000 tons—a total equal to the output of the rest of the world combined.

This volume of production cannot be attained or increased unless an additional 6,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel is obtained promptly.

We are faced with the fact that some steel furnaces have been allowed to cool down and that many of them are operating from day to day and hand to mouth, due only to the lack of scrap.

The rubber situation is also critical. In spite of the recent rubber drive, there is a continuing need for large quantities of scrap rubber.

We are collecting every possible pound of scrap from the factories, arsenals and shipyards; we are speeding up the flow of material from automobile graveyards; we are tearing up abandoned railroad tracks and bridges, but unless we dig out an additional 6,000,000 tons of steel and great quantities of rubber, copper, brass, zinc and tin, our boys may not get all the fighting weapons they need in time.

Fortunately, the material exists in America's great "mine above the ground."

There is enough iron and steel on farms alone, if used with other materials, to make:

Twice as many battleships as there are in the whole world today, or Enough 2000-pound bombs to drop three per minute from big bombers incessantly for more than three years.

Locating and collecting this scrap is going to require a canvass of every house and every farm. Even one old shovel will help make 4 hand grenades.

We have set up the machinery for this, but it is not perfect. It is a problem that can be licked only by American resourcefulness, American organization ability, American muscle and American will to win.

We now have in every state a State Salvage Committee of volunteers working directly under the governor.

Under these state committees we have county committees and local committees. We have special industrial committees working with executives of plants in 421 industrial centers.

In rural communities we have the County War Boards.

These committees can tell you the quickest way to get your Junk into action.

In behalf of the governor and the state committee we urge every committee to organize itself into a band of "Salvage Commandos."

You can either sell your scrap to a Junk dealer or you can give it to a charity, which in turn will sell it to a Junk dealer who performs an important function by sorting it, grading it, packing it and shipping it to the right place.

We urge local charities and civic organizations to cooperate with the Local Salvage Committee and devise a plan of action and collection.

We urge the scrap dealer to cooperate as fast as he can in the collection and shipment of materials.

We urge industrial executives to appoint Salvage Managers who have both the responsibility and authority to salvage obsolete machinery, tools and dies.

We urge every farmer and every householder in America to act at once.

Go over your premises with a fine tooth comb. If you have already turned in your scrap, look again—you'll probably find more.

If you do not have enough of your own to warrant someone coming after it, form a neighborhood pool, or take it yourself to the nearest collection point.

If there is an old heater or boiler in your basement too heavy for you to move, get your neighbors to help you.

This is a People's job. It is something you can do without interfering with other war work or personal duties.

It is not enough to pile up a little stuff and expect somebody to come and get it. Most of the work is being done by patriotic volunteers with inadequate facilities. They need your help in collecting scrap material in the largest possible amounts and in getting it to the right place.

It is a direct and personal obligation to all of our boys on all fronts.

You may think, "My little bit" won't help, but your "little bit" multiplied thousands and millions of times can create a mountain of raw material which can actually turn the tide.

HOW SCRAP IRON AND STEEL GO TO WAR

The steel used in our war machines is made by melting together

1. Pig Iron (about 50%)
2. Scrap generated in the steel plant in the process of steelmaking (about 25%)
3. Scrap purchased from outside Junk sources (about 25%)

We have plenty of iron ore to make the pig iron needed. But our furnaces operate faster when there is plenty of scrap to mix with the pig iron.

This so-called "scrap" which goes into the furnaces to make the steel for tanks, ships and guns is actually refined steel—with most impurities removed. Some of the finest quality steels are made 100% from scrap.

The iron and steel scrap which you collect is bought by the steel mills from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

... Oh, please." She was trembling ... and panicky lest she forget.

"Can't you talk a little louder?" Two seventy-three what street?"

"Morton."

"Yes."

"In twenty minutes."

"That's not time enough." She was grasping at straws now because she had to get to Joyce. "I'm not dressed." She waited, afraid to press the point and yet knowing twenty minutes was not enough.

"Okay," the voice said. "A half hour; no longer. And get this. No tricks. Come alone. . . . Understand?"

"I'm to come alone."

"If you don't, if you stall me, I call the cops."

"I'll be there," Delia said; then stopped, aware that she was talking over a dead wire.

Hysteria

She left the motor of her car running, sped up the two flights of stairs without waiting for the elevator, and thumped on the door. When she saw the knob turn she said, half aloud. "Oh, thank God!" and then the door was opened and Joyce was there.

"Then envelope, Joyce! Oh, I'm so glad you're here."

"You got the call?"

Delia wanted to scream. Would she stand there forever? Couldn't she see what it meant?

"Oh darling, hurry!" she pleaded. "Give it to me. If I'm not there by thirteen minutes after ten he may be gone."

Joyce started to protest, but stepped quickly to the desk and opened the drawer.

"But can't you tell me?" she said. "Have you called Jack Fenner? Where are you going?"

"Morton Street."

"Alone? But you can't."

"I have to."

"You haven't called Jack Fenner," Joyce said sharply. "And you're got to, Delia. He's got to go with you."

"There isn't time. And the man said I must come alone or—"

She broke off, seized the envelope and thrust it in her coat pocket. She had started for the door before Joyce could take her arm.

"I'm going with you," Joyce said, and opened the closet door.

Delia stamped her foot in exasperation and tried to pull Joyce aside. "I won't have it. I tell you. You're not going." Tears of vexation brimmed in her eyes and then Joyce opened the door and was talking fast, her chin firm and eyes resolute.

"I'm going, Delia. I won't even get out of the car. You can meet him by yourself, but I'll drive you there. We should hurry, shouldn't we? There can't be much time."

In the car Delia said: "I'm sorry I lost my temper."

"You didn't, really," Joyce said. "But I had to come."

Delia fell silent and watched the panorama of lights slide past the car windows. The city was taking on new character now. Gradually the welter of little neon signs became more widely spaced until there were none at all save those on all-night drugstores and greasy-looking sandwich shops that posed as restaurants. Presently Joyce turned right and then they were in a street where even the drugstores could not flourish.

"We're nearly there," Joyce said. "This is Morton street."

Delia sat up. Even by daylight the street must have been a discouraging prospect; at night it had become an avenue of emptiness and shadows, where three- and four-story brick buildings marched along in unbroken ranks and the street lamps on the corners served only to make the middle of the block more obscure.

The Number

"It's the next block, I think," Joyce said. "See if you can find a number on one of those stores."

The car was throttled down as far as it would go now, and when they crossed the intersection Joyce shifted into second so that they might move even slower.

"Yes," she said presently. "This is it. I just saw number 220."

"Park anywhere," Delia said. "Not too close, Joyce."

The car nosed in toward the curb and came to a stop in the middle of the block.

She looked at her watch. It was five minutes after ten.

Joyce cut the ignition and switched off the lights. For a few seconds they sat there without a word, and Delia could look down along the empty sidewalk to the next corner.

"Well," she said, and reached for the door handle. "It shouldn't take me long."

"You're sure you don't want me to—"

"Quite. The rest should be easy. Room 24, he said." She felt a hand press hard on her arm and for just an instant her determination wavered; then the moment passed and she was all right again. She put her hand on Joyce's and pressed it, and found herself on the pavement. "I'm glad you came," she said. "I needed you."

"And if you're not back in five minutes."

"Ten, Joyce. Make it ten."

"All right," Joyce said.

"And then you'd better call the police. You're not to follow me, no matter what you think."

She shut the door and went along the empty sidewalk, snuggling her coat more tightly about her, telling herself she was silly, melodramatic, talking about the police, and what to do if she did not come back within 10 minutes. There was no sense in that. The man wanted the envelope, not her.

Above a doorway she saw the figures 264 and realized that the numbers did not run consecutively, but jumped ahead at will. Stepping from the curb, she started diagonally across the pavement, her shoes clicking loudly in the surrounding quiet.

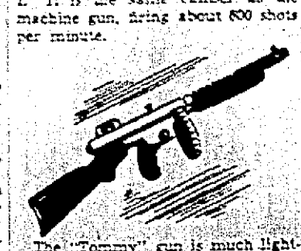
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Thompson sub-machine gun is one of the most effective war weapons. The "Tommy" gun was made famous during the Capone racketeer era although it was used somewhat extensively in World War I. It is the same caliber as the machine gun, firing about 600 shots per minute.



The "Tommy" gun is much lighter than the machine gun and is fired from the hip or shoulder and costs $150 each. Most people, buying War Bonds every pay day, could pay for one of these sub-machine guns for the Army or Marine Corps. Help your community top the War Bond Quota. — U. S. Treasury Department

Canteen Service Issues Appeal As Needs Increase

Contributions to help finance the upkeep of the canteen for service men at the Union depot would come in mighty handy right now, a chat with Mrs. Eugene B. Willey, head of the several hundred women workers, revealed recently. Organizations have been generous and so have individuals, but with service men in large number going through the city almost daily, the drain on the treasury is heavy.

The fact that many organizations which contribute generously are not meeting during the summer months works a hardship, Mrs. Willey explained. Last week was one of the busiest since the canteen opened, with the records showing that several hundred men were "treated" to refreshments in one day alone.

Everyone is willing to help and the women are most appreciative, to say nothing of the appreciation expressed by the soldiers. Members of the Rotary club went on a "bread and milk" diet at one of their meetings recently and the luncheon check went to the canteen.

Going into the canteen treasury also will be funds realized on a dance revue to be staged Thursday night, July 23, at Central Junior High school by Miss Jayne Melby and her dance pupils. The entertainment, "Dance Revue of '42," will include solo and ensemble numbers and song and dance sketches.

A photostatic letter, believed the first of the new communications to reach Bucyrus, has been received by Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bronson from their daughter, Miss Juanita Bronson, 25, a nurse with the American forces in Ireland.

Miss Bronson, a second lieutenant in the army nursing service with which she enlisted three years ago, went to Ireland in January with the first group to leave the United States for foreign service. She was graduated from the Mt. Gilead High school in 1935 and from Grant hospital school of nursing in Columbus.

RICHWOOD FAIR OPENING NEAR

Variety of Exhibits and Concessions Await Formal Opening Tuesday.

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, July 20 — The Richwood tri-county fair will open tomorrow morning for four days with many special features and exhibits planned.

The fair board has contracted with the Hubbard Midway shows, the largest ever scheduled for Richwood. The shows consist of nine riding devices, 12 shows and a group of concessions. Among the shows are two of especial interest, the motordrome and Jules Jacots Monarchs of the Jungles.

Trained Animals

The Jules Jacot Monarchs of the Jungles feature lions, tigers and bears, which have been trained by a man in an abandoned school house at the edge of Bucyrus. The entertainment given by these animals takes place in a large steel arena erected for the purpose and Jules Jacot in directing the animals is one of the few animal trainers who carries no arms into the arena for his protection, fair officials said.

On the midway will be a glass house, crazy house, oriental village, circus side show, war exhibit, monkey show and palace of illusion in addition to rides of many types.

According to officials of the fair board, exhibits will be more extensive than in previous years. In the agricultural department there will be many displays from victory gardens and the fine arts building will feature in addition to art and needlework a number of relics of olden days, including quilts and handmade bedspreads. There will also be a display of spinning wheels and old-time pottery. A large stock and pet exhibit has also been scheduled.

Horse Racing

Opening on Tuesday afternoon, horse racing will be featured.

The fair board announced today that the carnival would hold over until midnight Saturday with the gate receipts for Saturday going to the army and navy relief fund, to which a large portion of the entire income from the midway has been allocated. The fund is for the relief of orphans and widows of the present war. Mr. Hubbard, manager of the shows, is sub-chairman for the organization and has given a certain percentage of his income from the show each week this season to the cause.

HENNEY & COOPER

To Help Keep America In Fine Fighting Fettle, Conserve Precious Rubber and Metal;

So Here's 4 Ways To Save Ourselves Money and Trouble

To Do a Vital War Duty That's Double--

4 Ways To Help Ourselves While We Help Our Doughty Yanks Get More Guns, Planes, Ships and Tanks

1. Fasten electrical extension cords wherever possible to baseboards, instead of running them under rugs or through doorways where they may be stepped upon, their insulation damaged and their life shortened; and also where eventual "short circuits" in them may burn expensive rugs. The wire in all cords is copper, a precious war metal, and the covering of many is "rubber."

2. Have frayed or worn places on ALL cords, whether extension, lamp, or appliance cords, repaired promptly, so "short circuits" will not occur to result in replacement of "blown fuses," and perhaps render the cords unusable.

3. Prolong the life of automatic heat regulators and heating elements in irons by sparing them from use whenever possible; turning the irons off, for instance, when answering the door or telephone.

4. Attach portable appliances—particularly heating devices, irons, toasters, percolators, etc.—only to wall, floor or range plugs, and NOT TO LAMP SOCKETS. Ordinary lamp sockets, made for only 300 watts or less, are "overloaded" when attached to such appliances which use from 350 watts to over 1000 watts. This breaks down the socket's mechanism, shortens their life, and renders them rather unsafe.

Reasonably careful attention by all of us to the above four points will greatly lessen our own inconvenience caused by blown fuses with the resultant interruption to our electric service. It will also lighten the expense of premature replacement of fuses, cords and appliances.

The big, the important, yes, the vital thing, however, is of course that much rubber and metals can thereby be diverted without hardship to anyone into a swiftly swelling stream of guns, planes, ships and tanks for those quickly thickening ranks of fighting men known the world 'round as "The Yanks."

"That's O.K. with us soldiers. You've got your part to play, just as we have ours. You've got to make the stuff—and we've got to deliver it.

"But just a second . . . maybe it's none of our business, but, say, are you throwing your money around?

"Here's something straight from the shoulder. You see, we soldiers want to feel that we're not fighting alone—that you're behind us—every one of you, man, woman and youngster.

"How? Listen . . .

"How many WAR BONDS are you buying? Are you in on the Payroll Savings Plan? If you're not, you'll get in—won't you? This is your war—isn't it? We're fighting for you, aren't we?

"So look . . .

"When they come around to you, at your job, and ask you to put aside TEN PERCENT of your earnings every payday—a dime from every dollar—you'll do it, won't you—for us?

"You'll get a WAR BOND every time you've saved $18.75—and that Bond will build up, year by year, to $25 in ten years.

"So you're helping us and protecting yourself at the same time by your savings. Can't beat that, can you?

"We've got to have guns and planes, and tanks, and ships and bullets—and you've got to pay for them—from your own, voluntary WAR BOND savings.

"Invest a dime from every dollar in us—and keep it up, week after week, month after month. Then count on us to blast hell out of the Japs, the Huns, and their whole bloodthirsty gang.

Globe Circlers

ONE of the few clues the war department permits soldiers in foreign service to use is "below the equator." Many parents have received messages saying, "Have arrived safely in a country below the equator," leaving them about as much in the dark as they were before.

Their uncertainty is deepened in many cases by their own hazy recollection of the equator's position, which usually is guessed at as being much farther north than it actually is. Instead of knowing instantly that a soldier below the equator is almost certainly in Australia, New Guinea or New Zealand and would be a long, long way from India (even the southern tip) if he were sitting astride the equator, they wonder vaguely about the possibility of Africa, for instance. Of course, one of the standard ways to become a successful gambler is to trick someone into betting that there is more of Africa in the southern hemisphere than there is in the northern. Two thirds of the dark continent is in northern half; the fighting in Egypt is at approximately the same latitude as San Diego. South America, on the other hand, lies almost entirely below the equator, but the war hasn't reached South America—yet.

Alaskans Can't Be Blamed

THE show-me experts who can't see any merit in unified command for the armed forces won't like the appeal from Alaskans for one-man control of the army, navy and air corps in their part of the world. No doubt they'll be able to beat the Alaskans to a frazzle in an argument.

But of course the Alaskans at this point are facing something a lot tougher than pitty-pat debating tactics. In the normal expectancy of war, they will be attacked sooner or later by the Japanese. They are beginning to think about saving their skins.

It's a significantly unfunny thing, but whenever the time comes for doing or dying it doesn't matter two whoops in a padded cell who won the argument in the case of unified vs. divided command of the armed forces. The thing then is to get something done in a hurry, which calls first of all for the presence of someone who can issue orders and get results. The Alaskans don't relish the prospect of another Pearl Harbor to prove that what is everybody's responsibility becomes nobody's responsibility.

No Cheers

DUE to geography, not lack of interest, it scarcely has been noticed that a resolution favoring open rebellion against Great Britain has been proposed for adoption by the All-India Congress party.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, moreover, is quoted as saying there is no more room for negotiation—that Great Britain either will recognize India's independence or it won't.

Fortunately, the United States, which has troops in India, hasn't been put on the spot. As far as the All-India Congress party's resolution preparers are concerned, United States troops are welcome, at least while Japan continues to threaten India's security. British troops are welcome for the same purpose. But meanwhile it is the fixed purpose of certain strong leaders to press for independence from Great Britain with all the resources at their command. If India falls into Japan's hands as a result, that is one of the risks of trying to be independent.

This should raise hoarse cheers, perhaps in the land of the free, but somehow the idealism of the case fails to jell. It is too much like a committee of Filipinos proposing a resolution for the immediate independence of the Philippine islands. Independence is a state of being, not a theory. Indian independence from Great Britain under the circumstances is an absurdity unless accomplished by independence from Japan.

Mutual Embarrassment

THE Finns, it may be imagined, are embarrassed because it has become necessary in the course of events to give them an official fishy eye. Well, the embarrassment is mutual. It's one of those things, as they say in diplomacy.

The main thing wrong with the Finns is that they live too close to Russia. Everything they think or do is conditioned by that fact and with excellent reason. They expect nothing from Russia but trouble, and they've never been disappointed.

It wasn't their war debt payments that made America a soft touch for their appeals when Russia trampled over them. It was the fact that a little nation was being shoved around. Now, since Russia is fighting Germany instead of helping it, Americans are supposed to excuse all its misdeeds. But it's far easier to forget that Finland now is allied with Germany in the war against Russia than to forget that Finland only a few years ago thrilled the world by its valiant battle against Russian invasion.

This is one of the realities of war that can't be catalogued simply as good or bad. Finland, like some others, deserves a listing of its own. It was and still is—in the middle.

News Behind the News

New Secret Weapons, Real Fighting Zeal Accumulated for Second Front.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 20—Mr. Roosevelt has not been emulating Hitler and bragging about any new secret weapons but the Nazis will see some which will knock their eyes out when the second front is opened. The Japs have seen a few already.

When the details of the befogged battle of the Aleutian Islands are let out, for instance, you will learn how the fighting army air corps sprang a new land based torpedo plane on the Nipponese (the first such ship in history), and accomplished much more damage than has yet been officially claimed. The Japs already know of this new weapon. They found out the hard way.

The Jap invasion fleet in the Aleutians figured that all they would have to contend with were naval planes which, naturally, have to be much lighter to operate from carrier decks. These land based torpedo craft carry an unprecedented projectile which leaves no doubts as to sinkings when it hits. Where they came from the Japs do not yet know.

This is only an inadequate example of what is coming on land, sea, and in the air. An official of the inventors council testified to a congressional committee the other day that the army, navy and marine corps had let $640,000,000 of contracts on their recommendation. The inventors council is a committee set up by Mr. Roosevelt to consider all the sensational innovations of warfare conducted by mechanically minded Americans. His testimony, therefore, means nearly two-thirds of a billion dollars of new secret weapons will shortly appear on our side in this war.

These include extravagantly imaginative missiles and weapons that have never been seen before outside of Sunday newspaper supplements—and some not seen there.

Not only are new and old weapons coming along better than satisfactorily, but every one around here has begun to realize our boys have fighting zeal greater than any one else has shown in this war. The Nazis have it, too, unfortunately, especially when they are winning. The Russians have it when they are losing. Our troopers have it, winning or losing.

No more significant news was ever passed down the line than that contained in spots of the Midway battle communique, which gave final proof that our men will go anywhere. Look at that communique again and you will find that, first, four army torpedo bombers went in against the Jap armada; two came out. Six Marine torpedo planes went in next; only one returned.

In the face of this terrifying experience, 16 Marine dive bombers, nevertheless, dared that devastating fire; only eight returned. The first experience would have been enough for the Italians. The second and third might have finished even the Reds and Nazis. But then, 15 naval torpedo planes took off to dare it again and not a single one returned.

After this, carrier based torpedo planes braved another attack, and wrecked much that was left of the Jap fleet. And in a final attack, we lost two out of four flying fortresses, and again a single flying fortress carrying brave air force General Tinker.

That is the way we got the Jap fleet. No better evidence can be drawn from all American history that Americans have superior fighting spirit, still.

More Evidence

More evidence can be plucked from any incident of the skirmishes so far as additional indications of what is to come when the second front is opened.

In the battle of the Java sea, four flying fortresses carried a tail gun for the first time. The Japs had become accustomed to going after the tails of our big ships since they found at the outset of the war this part was least well protected. The pilot of one of the fortresses became perturbed during the battle, when he heard the Jap Zeroes zooming in upon the tail of his ship and the rattle of their machine gun fire against it. That happened three or four times, before he called back to his rear gunner and asked, in an exasperated voice, why did the gunner not knock off those Zeroes before they could unleash their machine gun fire. The gunner's classic reply was:

"Hell, captain, they look so pretty when they explode."

Like his forefathers at Bunker Hill he had been taking their fire until they got close enough for him to split their gas tanks open with his counter-fire. He had shot down three this way when the captain spoke, and got six in all.

Will Go Anywhere

Detailed accounts of the Doolittle bombing of Japan show his boys flew under telegraph wires and under the branches of trees, sometimes only 10 feet off the ground.

Indeed, yes. Our boys will go anywhere.

Scotch Are Great People

American War Reporter Finds a Story in Edinburgh.

By LOWELL BENNETT
American War Correspondent

EDINBURGH, July 20—There's a story circulating up here about an American army pilot who flew under the famous Forth Bridge the other day. Nobody can tell you the name of the flier, and U. S. air authorities frown very perceptibly when they're asked about the incident.

But Edinburgh loves the story. Maybe it's because they love the AEF and because they love their Forth Bridge. At any rate it's proved to them that the boys of America's second army in Britain are fellows after their own heart.

The Forth Bridge, it should be explained, is one of Scotland's greatest pride. It was built over half a century ago, is still the seventh biggest in the world, and still stands as a monument to Scottish engineering. The distance from the water to the first support is about 60 feet so it must have been some trick to get an army bomber to swoop under it.

Even old inhabitants of Edinburgh—who have seen it thousands of times—stand looking up at the bridge and telling each other its history. "It's painted all the time," they tell visitors with pride in their voice "ever since it was finished we've been painting it. And as soon as it's finished at one end we start over again at the other."

As a matter of fact, as far as can be determined the only time they stopped painting the bridge was for half an hour on a morning in October, 1939. That was when six German bombers tried to make a target of it. The incident produced quite a sensation here and visitors can still hear the story as it happened yesterday.

Wee or no wee, Scotland is still very Presbyterian, still very sober and very serious. Stories about the Scots being misers and hoarders have been denied publicly, often enough. But the Scots don't like to waste money has been proved to the write, very forcefully.

Before arriving in Edinburgh we sent a telegram. "Expect arrive about three this afternoon," was written on the telegraph form. (At 9 cents a word you can write pretty long telegrams without worrying too much about the money.) But the operator would have none of it.

"Expect arrive 3 p.m." is what he changed it to. Same three words, he declared, only cheaper—three pence.

And Scots wonder why their reputation for stinginess that Scottish humor is the world's oldest joke. Isn't it probably true that the "Scots wa' hae" that no one ever used to hear this century anyway? Well, it seems that when Bonnie Prince Charlie was leading the English a good few years before George Washington was made our first President, all the different clans, or family groups wanted to fight on his right flank.

The right flank, it would seem, is the most honorable part of the line on which to fight. Anyway, when Charlie's team lined up for the kickoff, everybody hustled over to the right side and it got pretty crowded. The boss intervened and tried to persuade some of the clans that it would be a good idea to have a left flank too. But it was no soap.

The inevitable happened. The clans started to fight amongst themselves. In fact, as it later turned out, they spent so much time fighting each other that the English walked right through Scotland and the war was over.

Everybody blamed the other guy. The Campbells were accused of helping the English. The MacGregors were accused of being fifth-columnists. And even to this day there are oldsters who remember that "we got cheated out of the right flank and don't get along with their neighbors too well." But it's mostly historical now nowadays.

Another famous tradition of Scotland is the country's shepherds and collie sheep-dogs. Just outside the town of Kinbuck, on the road to Edinburgh, we passed a shepherd with his flock. The inevitable sheep-dog was dutifully watching a scattered flock of sheep with their shaggy bear clouds of wool almost dragging on the ground.

In all their books we've ever read about it shepherds always have bag-pipes and long crooked sticks. This one had a crook. But instead of a bag-pipe believe it or not he was toting an accordion!

And he wasn't playing "Loch Lomond" or "The Road to the Isles" as in the story books. As we passed by we could catch a few strains of a considerable peppy un "Beer the Beaune."

Down further south in Edinburgh—a city that seems to have become even more metropolitan than London with the hundreds of United Nations troops on leave—we found Free French, Polish, Norwegian, Dutch, Canadian, Australian and even some American soldiers and sailors learning about Scotland.

Stubborn Scots that they are, shopkeepers here have steadfastly refused to learn any more languages and instead are teaching Scottish to all the troops in these parts.

It seems odd to me to hear Czech and Polish troops speaking English with a pronounced Scottish accent. But it was even more odd to see three Free French soldiers on leave—wearing kilts and swaggering along very proudly and very happily on Edinburgh's main street.

A PROCEEDING BEING FOLLOWED WITH INTEREST

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, July 20, 1932.

Bud H. Lawson planned some drastic action to protect himself from thieves following the theft of his eighth bicycle the preceding night. He had already taken the precaution of carrying the bicycle to the hall near his second floor office, but the thieves followed him upstairs and took the vehicle.

Will Rogers in his daily news report wrote: "If any country wants to pounce on Japan now is the time, for every able-bodied Japanese, man, woman and child, is here to compete in the Olympic. There is hundreds of 'em. The Swedes and Germans can't step without tramping on dozens of 'em."

The Palace theater, closed for several weeks, was to be opened on Aug. 7, Manager A. W. Wolf announced.

Friends of John Dodd Jr., 16, were boosting him for some kind of a hero's award after he had routed a prowler from the first floor of the Dodd home on Franklin street the preceding night. He had just gone to bed in an upstairs room when he heard the intruder. He armed himself with his father's army revolver and started down stairs. The intruder fled.

Charles Sanders, 29 Negro, was found guilty of first degree murder for the death of Green G. Miller, DeCliff grocer. The Marion county jury which returned a verdict after nearly three hours of deliberation recommended mercy, automatically fixing the penalty of life imprisonment.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, July 20, 1922.

While reports from Washington stated that the combined coal and rail strikes had caused a loss of $533,000,000 to workers, employes and American industry generally, state authorities in Michigan announced they would take over the coal mines in the Saginaw district and operate them.

Mrs. C. W. McClain, Mrs. C. C. Fisher, Mrs. Frank H. Keller, Mrs. J. A. Dodd and Mrs. A. O'Hara were hostesses at a bridge luncheon at the Marion Country club.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Cottrill of West Fairground street.

Mrs. K. D. Hochstetter entertained the W. A. W. club at her home on Park boulevard and arrangements were made for a meeting in August with Mrs. Asa Queen of East Center street.

Harry Shunk, an old timer in the show business, who for many years had traveled with Al G. Fields and numerous other organizations and had retired to his old home at Cardington completed plans to go back on the road with a tent show. He was to present it for the first time on the Aronhalt lot in Marion the coming week.

Named for Wiley Post

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY—The man who traveled high and wide to make many a contribution to modern aviation—the late Wiley Post—will fly again by proxy.

To the wars will go an all-Oklahoma squadron of navy fliers to be known as the "Wiley Post Tornadoes" in honor of Oklahoma's most famous pilot.

Navy recruiters sought out Mrs. Post and obtained permission to name the squadron. When the word was passed there was a siege at the recruiting office. Recruiters culled 91 from the flock of applicants and sent them to Athens, Ga., for training.

He Learns Capital's Ways

$100,000-a-Year Man Finds Washington Strange.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, July 20—Capital madhouse:

A few months ago, he was making nearly $100,000 a year as a Wall Street executive and director of several corporations. Now he is a government official, laboring in the war effort.

"I used to think all those stories about confusion on the Potomac were just flights of reportorial fancy," he said as he sat down at the table. "But, man, did I find out.

All Set To Work

"Three weeks after I arrived in town and had been given an office, a push-button, two secretaries and nothing to do, a friend arrived from New York and tried to find me. He called the WPB, the OEM, Lowell Mellett's information bureau, the White House and the Treasury. They all said, 'I'm sorry but he doesn't work here.' They were right in a way.

"I never have learned the names of my secretaries. It's not worth the effort. I come to work in the morning and there's a strange young lady at one of the desks. I look at the number to be certain I'm in the right office. Then I look at the young woman again. 'I'm the new secretary,' she says.

"And when I ask what became of the old one, nobody knows. One day I came back from lunch and had two new ones.

"One morning, I came to work early—I couldn't sleep—and I had a new office. The only trouble was nobody could tell me where it was located. It was four o'clock in the afternoon before I found it.

"Man when you call up a government official and his girl says 'I'm sorry, he's in conference,' you believe her. This is a conference government.

"They are easy to describe, because they are all alike. One official says, 'Joe, what do you think about the price of tenpenny nails in Timbuctoo?'

"Joe doesn't think anything about anything, but he'll take it up in the conference that is going to be held day after tomorrow and he'll let us know at the first conference held next week.

"Henry intones the conference into consternation by announcing that he has something very definite on the girdle and garter situation. It is that at Tuesday's conference he is going to get the preliminary figures on a preliminary girdle and garter figures at that time and after a period of deliberation, we can discuss preliminary plans at the first conference following.

"After a couple of hours of this, the conferees fly blind through tobacco smoke until they find the door beam and rush off to see what each drew in the way of new secretaries."

(Author's note: The above is almost a verbatim report of a new government war official, who for obvious reasons must remain nameless. It really isn't that bad, but the poor fellow had just come from a conference. A week later, I was in his office and he was working like fury and he had learned the names of both secretaries. One had been with him ten days. The other was a veteran of two weeks.)

Cafe Chansant

Forget the Name but Remember the Great Artists Who Began Career in Fred Train's Club.

By DAMON RUNYON

FRED TRAIN'S, 2308 Wabash avenue, Chicago, was the alma mater of some of the finest of all the "saloon singers," or what the Les Copeland called "back room entertainers" of another generation.

Over the door, as Bill Halligan remembers it, Train had a sign, "Cafe Chantant," but no one ever noticed it or, if they had, would not have known what it meant. It was the popular name out of all the stage stars of that era.

The late Jack Barrymore, Pauline Frederick, Dave Montgomery, Richard Bennett, Ted Carle, Nat Willis, Nora Bayes, Pete Dailey and scores of other famous thespians dropped in at Train's whenever they were in Chicago. It was there that Bob Adams was playing the piano and singing.

Adams wrote a number of popular songs, some of them being "Not Because Your Hair is Curly." He also turned out "The Sweetest Girl in Dixie." He went to London with Bob Allen and the pair became famous there as "The Two Bobs." The last I heard of Adams he was running a pub at Maidenhead.

Halligan thinks Sidney Gibson, mentioned in this column the other day, was the cleverest of all the entertainers around Chicago in those days. He worked at Train's and his top song was "I Want A Man Like Romeo." He had style, all his own. Train's seems to have been a spawning ground for song writers. Aside from the number Halligan recalls who were piano players there.

PERCY WENRICH wrote "Put On Your Grey Bonnet." Herbert Ingraham was the author of "Won't You Waltz Home Sweet Home With Me," "For Old Times' Sake," and "I Would If I Could But I Can't Because I'm Married Now." This last was sung by Mabel Hite, great vaudeville performer, who was married to Turkey Mike Donlin, mightiest of John McGraw's Giants long ago.

Fred Fisher, who died recently and who wrote "If The Man In The Moon Was A Coon" and "I've Said My Last Farewell—Toot-Too-Goodbye," graduated from piano playing at Train's and elsewhere to his own publishing house. Halligan also places Ted Snyder at Train's as a "key pounder" and Ted, who wrote numerous song hits, likewise entered the publishing business with Irving Berlin and Harry Watterson as partners.

Then there was Bernie Adler, who wrote "That Lovin' Rag," which is interesting because it was probably the first ragtime melody with lyrics. It was written before the more famous "St. Louis Blues." The latter is said to have been an instrumental number at first, the lyrics being added later. It remains to this day the greatest of the so-called "blues" songs.

TRAIN'S was what would be called a night club in these times. He brought in some great performers in his heyday, among them the Hedges Brothers and Jacobson from San Francisco. They were singing "Some Of These Days," which was to become a sort of theme song with Sophie Tucker.

Mike Lyman, now a wealthy restaurant operator, remembers that Train died in the basement of his establishment and it was then taken over by Roy Jones. A porter employed there could never afterward be induced to go into the basement.

All old timers agree that Lee Lloyd, who worked in Train's, was one of the greatest of all entertainers in his era. He was originally a ballad singer but switched to comedy as offering a wider field and went to San Francisco with another "sawdust canary," as Halligan puts it, known as "The Porterhouse Kid." He knew "Porterhouse." He worked in silent pictures for D. W. Griffith. Lloyd hooked up with a piano player named Hart and they became a sensation as "Tom's Cabin" a spot opposite Golden Gate Park run by Gallagher and Namara.

BUT Sandy MacNaughton took them away from Gallagher and McNamara and put them in a place on the beach that he called "The Breakers." They made so much money they opened a place of their own and continued to prosper. Martin Beck saw Lloyd and Hart in vaudeville, opening him at the Colonial in New York, but Lee was not the success on the stage that he was in a cafe. He died, I believe, in San Francisco.

Gas Samples Count Up

By The Associated Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—After the Missouri state highway commission protested that it "seems a shame in war times" to destroy gasoline sent in by dealers for a state test, the attorney general ruled that no law would be violated if the surplus gas, after testing, was put in state cars. Samples total about 200 gallons a month.

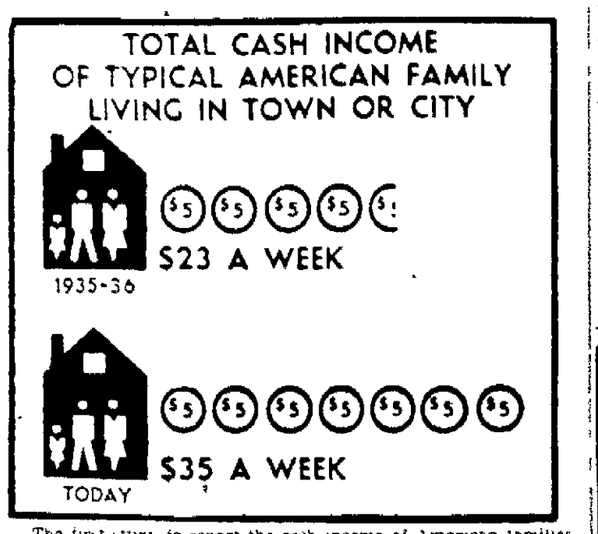
SEEK NEW PROTEIN USES
By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 20—Director A. R. Olpin of Ohio State university's research department reported experiments under way seeking new industrial uses for protein extracted from farm products. He said the project had "important war implications" but did not elaborate.

Cash Income of American Families Rising, But Half Earn Below $35 a Week



The first study to report the cash income of American families, excluding farmers, has just been completed by the Gallup Poll. It shows that the typical family living in a town or city today makes $35 a week as compared to about $23 six years ago.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. July 20—In these lush days of war prosperity one-half of the nation's non-farm families have a total cash income of less than $35 a week.

This fact is revealed in an Institute survey which is the first study to be reported on family cash income as of 1942 and the first to show the impact of the war on family cash earnings.

The $35 average is a fact for politicians in both parties to ponder and for post-war planners to keep in mind. It underlies the whole public drive for social security and must be reckoned with in programs for taxation, wage fixing, rent and price ceilings and other economic controls.

DR. GALLUP

While there have been sharp increases in family income in recent years, and particularly in the last year nevertheless the new buying power has not been spread evenly throughout the population. Approximately six out of every 10 families have an income no larger than a year ago and one in every six actually has a smaller income.

Although American family income and standard of living are the highest in the world, the United States is still a nation of small wage-earners. Not only do one-half of the families earn less than $35 a week, but 80 per cent, the survey shows, earn less than $60. One in every five have less than $20 a week.

The meaning of the facts will be clear to tax experts in the Treasury Department. When taxation on the upper 20 per cent reaches the point of diminishing returns, the burden will have to be progressively transferred to those earning under $60 a week.

Only 7% Over $100 Weekly

The Institute's study on income was conducted among a cross-section of the approximately 28,000,000 non-farm families. If farm families were included the income figures would be lower. But cash income in the case of farmers is only part of the income picture because of the fact that farmers raise much of their own food.

The survey results, showing total family cash income from wages and all other sources, are as follows:

Cash Income of Non-Farm Families

7%	earn	$100 a week or more
13	"	$ 60 — 99.99 a week
22	"	$ 40 — 59.99 a week
17	"	$ 30 — 39.99 a week
19	"	$ 20 — 29.99 a week
8	"	$ 15 — 19.99 a week
7	"	$ 10 — 14.99 a week
7	"	Under $10 a week

Mediamn average—$35 a week, or $1,800 a year.

The income of typical non-farm families has increased considerably in comparison with studies in earlier years.

In 1935-36, official estimates of the median average non-farm family income were approximately $23 a week, or $1,200 a year, as compared to $35 a week at present.

Increase Uneven

While this is a substantial increase, nevertheless the new buying power which it represents has been unequally distributed.

For example, if you are a skilled worker, it is more likely that your family income is higher compared to a year ago than that it is the same. But if you are an unskilled worker or a businessman, your income is likely to be about the same as last year, or it may even be lower.

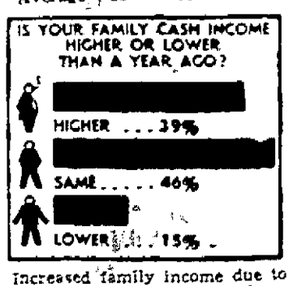
The impact of the war on family income is revealed in the replies to another question in the Institute survey.

"Is the income of your family higher or lower today than it was a year ago?"

Persons of all occupations, including farmers, were included in this survey. The national totals indicate that about four in every ten American families have a higher income.

The results by occupation follow:

	Higher	Same	Lower
Professional men	40%	46%	46%
Business men	31	54	15
White Collar	41	45	14
Skilled workers	46	40	14
Semi-skilled	41	41	18
Unskilled	31	54	15
Farmers	45	45	10
National Average	39	46	15



Increased family income due to war prosperity has not been evenly distributed throughout the population. The Gallup Poll results illustrated above show that while 39 per cent of families say their income is higher than a year ago, the rest, constituting 61 per cent, say it is either the same or lower.

ovgrad apparently was ordered to prevent an encirclement of the defenders along the Moscow-Rostov railway south of Millerovo.

Picture Brighter

Around Voronezh, the picture was brighter for the Russians. Dispatches from that front reported Soviet forces were improving their positions and delivering counterblows of increasing strength. To the south, a Soviet unit moved into an "important inhabited locality" after a three-day attack, and a violent battle for another German bridgehead on the Don was reported in progress.

The show of strength at Voronezh and German reports of large Russian troop concentrations in that region seemed to indicate that a Russian counteroffensive of considerable scope was in the making.

The increasing tempo of aerial warfare was indicated in a Russian announcement that 211 German planes had been destroyed in last week's fighting against Russian losses of 136 planes.

The Germans were reported to be making increasing use of their parachute troops and the Russians said that in one sector, apparently south of Millerovo, a "German parachute party which landed in the rear of our troops was completely annihilated."

A battalion of German infantry attacked a Soviet unit in the Kalinin region, northwest of Moscow, but the Russians beat off the attack, today's mid-day communique said.

Of the fighting near Voronezh, the communique said a day-long battle in a populated place resulted in victory for Russian infantry and tankmen.

Ingenuity Is Something We Have

There's a pretty general belief that Americans have a lot of native ingenuity. That's true. It's going to help us win the war, because it's going to help us—all of us—get along very nicely on what we have.

We're not going to have all the new things we would like to have, but we'll manage, and manage well. The self-reliant spirit of the pioneer still lives in this country.

ARMY BOMBER HITS JAP TRANSPORT IN KISKA

Five Cruisers

By night Kiska's harbor held five heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, ten destroyers, two submarines, nine cargo and transport vessels, and a dozen Kawanishi flying boats, seaplane and land-based observation and fighter aircraft haunted the murky sky. Other ships were sighted arriving from the south.

The fog closed in tight and stayed most of the day and bombers had to drop their loads through mist. When the mist rolled back two Catalinas dumped heavy bombs on a destroyer and light cruiser. All were punishing near misses.

...there loads through mist. When the mist rolled back two Catalinas dumped heavy bombs on a destroyer and light cruiser. All were punishing near misses.

Other bombers, working over the harbor, discovered more evidence of a permanent establishment when ack-ack fire from the ships got support from gun emplacements on the hills.

The Catalinas worked around the clock, flying through the dusk of daytime and the weird half light of the short night.

The first bombing flights June 17 found something new in the way of trouble. Nobody had seen the Jap carriers for several days but now carrier Zeros were working over the island. It seemed to indicate the carriers' close proximity but no contact was made during the day.

Several attacks on Kiska were driven off by Zeros but others got through.

The fight goes on through the gloom of night and the practically identical gloom of day. No battle ever fought witnessed conditions so viciously unfriendly to both sides.

Thus proceeds the war of the mists. When it ends the Japs dream of conquest may well end with it.

Army Post Hears Shrill Voices of Women Troops

The big parade of WAAC was not scheduled until today, but nearly 200 who reported last night got their first real taste of army life at 5:45 a. m. today in the you've-got-to-get-up reveille bugle call.

Russian Defense Strategy Viewed by War Analyst

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The Hitlerites continued their slow but inevitable advance on the southern Russian front during the week-end and their occupation of the railway junction of Voroshilovgrad greatly increases the threat to Rostov, western gatepost of the Caucasus, some hundred miles to the south.

The saving grace from the Allied standpoint rests in the fact that the Red withdrawal is orderly and their fierce resistance is draining the life-blood of the enemy. The gods of war still gamble the Soviet's vast spaces against Herr Hitler's short and fleeting time.

Can the Bolshevists hold the German invasion until the winter, or some fortuitous military development, makes it too late for the Nazis to break into the Caucasus this year? The Red position is exceeding grave, but the Allies have a right to hope that Hitler can be held.

The Russian rear-guard is putting up a heroic fight to give the main body of troops a chance to get set to make a stand.

The Nazi advance in the great eastward bend of the Don river is spectacular, but don't overlook the situations at Voronezh, a strategical railway junction on the Don river to the north of the main advance. There has been protracted and fierce fighting there, and the reason is this:

It is apparent that Hitler's strategy for his great drive against the Caucasus provided that he hold his line on the north while he smashed at the southern extremity with his great army of a million fresh troops. Voronezh is the anchor to which Nazi General Von Bock wants to attach his left wing, for the Russians may launch a counter-offensive from this point, endangering Von Bock's left flank and his entire battle line. And the Nazis themselves report heavy Red concentrations near Voronezh, indicating the possibilities of such an offensive.

Because of this we may expect the bloody conflict to continue for possession of Voronezh. If the Reds are able to maintain their positions, we may see a Soviet counter-blow launched through there in due course. The time for such an attack would not seem to be ripe yet. That will come, if at all, when the Germans have penetrated deeper, thereby increasing their heavy losses in men and material and lengthening their lines of communication.

Two other great battles will develop before long, if the Nazis are able to keep up their present progress. The first is likely to be for Rostov, which lies close to the mouth of the Don river, near the sea of Azov. The other will be for Stalingrad, on the Vogla river almost due east of the main spearhead of Von Bock's offensive.

However, Hitler still has a long way to go to Stalingrad, and then he is certain to have a colossal fight on his hands to reduce the city. All these things take time, and time is one thing which the Fuehrer lacks.

This Sailor Looks For Black Cat for Luck

By International News Service

NEW ORLEANS—Gale McGrath, ordinary seaman, isn't sure whether Number 13 is lucky or unlucky.

In a series of coincidences that would be unbelievable in fiction, McGrath has been on three ships at sea when they were torpedoed.

Each time the torpedoing occurred at midnight on the eleventh of the month.

Each time he has taken to the lifeboats and survived, although 31 of his 38 crewmates were killed in the first torpedoing.

And each time his station number was thirteen.

McGrath, a Columbus, O., native who now lives in New Orleans with his mother and his two daughters, can't figure out whether that "thirteen" brought him bad luck, so that he was torpedoed; or good luck, so that he survived.

Returning to New Orleans after the last torpedoing, McGrath said he was ready to sign on for another voyage as soon as he could find a black cat for a mascot.

DEFEND NELSON RUBBER PLAN

Administration Backs WPB Chief for Centralized Synthetic Production.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 20—The administration defended Donald M. Nelson's centralized control of the synthetic rubber program against a senate farm bloc attack today but found the farm group strengthened by Republican support.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said he would fight a motion by Senators Thomas (D-Okla.) and Gillette (D-Iowa) to bring before the senate tomorrow a measure to establish an independent rubber supply agency whose director would be given wide authority to facilitate the production of the synthetic product from grain alcohol.

On the other hand, Republican Leader McNary of Oregon said he would support the bill.

Nelson said he opposed the measure because it would divide responsibility for the success of the synthetic rubber production program. As war production chief, he assumed full responsibility himself.

He insisted he intends to do everything he can to speed the output of synthetic rubber from all sources. However, he has opposed the construction of new grain alcohol production plants on the ground that they would take vital materials needed in the manufacture of guns, ships, tanks and planes.

In its formal report on the bill, the agriculture committee said the "undisputed evidence" of its hearings was that "the quickest way to bring about the production of synthetic rubber, with the use of the least amount of critical materials, is from the conversion of alcohol from grain or forest products to butadiene (the principal ingredient necessary for the manufacture of synthetic rubber.)

"There is no explanation by any responsible officials of why this country is setting up a program for the production of synthetic rubber gave consideration only to untried laboratory experiments from petroleum which will require twice the time and many times the critical material needed to produce the same synthetic rubber from alcohol."

WAR STRIKES TROPICAL ISLES

Romantic Lands Affected as Mars Spreads Arms Over World.

By International News Service

SUVA, FIJI—Although many of the war-weary have sometimes longed for a South Sea Isle in which to escape grim realities, repercussions of today's worldwide conflict have affected the once peaceful, tropical islands of the Pacific.

Not the least among these are the lush Fiji Islands, whose approximately 205,000 residents have been hit hard by the war.

Blackouts, curfews, gasoline shortages, scarcity of fish, mosquitoes and curfew regulations are some of the problems which the colonists are meeting with a grimness seemingly out of place in this peaceful island in the south Pacific ocean.

Since the outbreak of war in the Pacific, the Fiji Islands have been plunged into almost nightly blackouts. Because burglars and prowlers took advantage of the blackouts, the government imposed a curfew in three populated areas—the Suva-Davuilevu-Nausori triangle, Nadi-Lautoka district and Momi region.

Require Street Permits

If residents want to peek at the tropical moon after 11:30 p. m. they must have permits to be on the streets. So far these permits have been issued only to government officers on duty, civilian defense personnel, firemen and physicians.

However, residents in the affected areas feel the curfew will cause little hardship as social life on the island has been on a wartime basis for many months.

War has brought a shortage of fish to Fiji. Residents would immediately exhaust all supplies when a load came into the market, bringing great disappointment to the natives whose staple article of diet is seafood. The government has now issued an order prohibiting the sale of any fish exceeding four pounds in weight so that future supplies may be properly distributed.

Food Storage Problem

Shortages of gasoline have brought restricted deliveries of ice. This, in turn, has presented a problem in food storage. The Fiji government discovered the tropical climate and meatless days do not mix.

Soon after Pearl Harbor, two days out of each week were designated as "meatless." However, with the restricted deliveries of ice, it developed more meat was being wasted through improper storage than through conservation.

The "meatless" restriction was relaxed and the public may now buy their meat five days a week.

To say the all of the mosquito nuisance is keeping pace for years the island's health department has been waging intensified campaign on them, being particularly evil at dawn.

McNutt To Fix Policy on Students in Draft

WASHINGTON, July 20 — Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt said today the government would announce soon a definite policy on college men in the draft and coordination of America's 1,800 colleges and universities with the war effort.

George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, had charged the government with failure to use the institutions. Zook wrote McNutt, the secretaries of war and navy and draft headquarters that this "failure" had confused students and educators.

McNutt said he had not yet received the letter, which had also been sent to the press.

Woman Held in Jail After Taking Capsules

A 24-year-old woman was lodged in Marion County jail Sunday after being found in an unconscious condition at 3 o'clock yesterday morning on the lawn near Vernon Heights boulevard just east of the Harding memorial.

Deputy Sheriff Ross McGinnis and city policemen L. E. Kirts and Marion Tatham took her to the City hospital where it was found that she had taken an overdose of sleeping medicine. Several unused capsules were discovered in her purse.

Having been treated at the hospital she was removed at 9 a. m. to the jail where she has made several attempts to injure herself and has caused considerable property damage.

Investigation showed that she had taken a taxi at 1:15 and after arriving at the boulevard had changed into a wedding gown and veil, which she was wearing when found.

Cleveland Beats Bosox Twice, Moves to Home Field To Await Yankee Visit

Dodgers, Pounded Twice at St. Louis Sunday, Hold Only Six-Game Lead; Cincinnati Reds Split with Giants.

By The Associated Press

It may be only a ball yard but there's no place like home, especially to the New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers, who are finding the path toward major league pennants rockiest in foreign climes.

The Yankees, who found the going tough last time on the road, concluded an enjoyable home stay yesterday by walloping the Chicago White Sox twice and extending their winning streak to nine games. Scores were 9-2 and 12-0.

Tomorrow they open another swing through the dangerous western sector, armed with a 10-game lead which the Cleveland Indians helped them compile by knocking off the second-place Boston Red Sox twice, 10-7 and 4-0.

Brooklyn's National league pace setters, who stop off on their way home tonight to make up a game with the Pittsburgh Pirates, found the Cardinals somewhat tougher in St. Louis than they've been at Ebbets Field.

Cards Upset Dodgers

The Dodgers were more than holding their own on this trip until they visited St. Louis, where the Cards grabbed three games out of four, including yesterday's double defeat which reduced the margin between the two to half a dozen games.

The Yankees, meanwhile, produced the surprise of the season when they suddenly lost one of their machine, picked up another, and rambled merrily on.

Catcher Buddy Rosar, elevated to a regular starting post because of Bill Dickey's shoulder injury, jumped the club and went home to Buffalo to try for a policeman's job, leaving the Yanks with only one able-bodied backstop, rookie Ed Kearse.

But the Yanks promptly signed Rollie Hemsley, who was cut loose by the Cincinnati Reds only two days before. Hemsley caught both games yesterday. Joe DiMaggio extended his batting streak to 17 games with his 14th homer, a double and two singles.

At St. Louis, the Cardinals beat Whitlow Wyatt and the Dodgers, 6-5, in the opener but it took an 11th inning homer by Enos Slaughter to decide the nightcap, 7-6, and each team lost a valuable hand.

Crashes Into Wall

Pete Reiser, Dodger center fielder and current major league batting leader, crashed into the wall attempting to field Slaughter's smash inside the park and was taken to a hospital. Physician said he would be kept several days for treatment of a moderate concussion.

Mort Cooper, who pitched his 12th win for the Cards in the first game, suffered a recurrence of an old arm ailment and retired in the eighth inning. He was told to remain out of action a week or 10 days.

Elsewhere in the National league, the Pittsburgh Pirates moved into fifth place ahead of the Chicago Cubs by beating the Boston Braves, 8-7 and 8-0.

Bucky Walters pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 triumph over the New York Giants in one game, but the Giants tripped the Reds and Johnny Vander Meer, 4-3, in the other.

Chicago and Philadelphia divided their doubleheader, the Phils winning the first game, 8-5, and the Cubs the second, 8-4.

The St. Louis Browns snapped a five-game winning streak for the Washington Senators, taking a double bill, 5-3 and 6-3.

The Detroit Tigers halted their six-game losing streak by downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1, but the A's bounced back to take the nightcap, 4-3.

Indians One Game Behind Bosox

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 20 — Returning today from eastern hunting grounds, the Cleveland Indians found themselves only one game behind the second place Red Sox.

Cleveland's double-header victory over Boston at Fenway Park yesterday gave the Tribe six triumphs in 11 games along the seaboard, but failure to win a single game in New York dropped them 11 games out of first place. That is where they will be when they open their 15-game home stand against the World Champions tomorrow night.

The Redskins captured yesterday's opener 10 to 7, but had to go 12 frames to get it, whereas Mel Harder captured a 4 to 0 night-capper on three hits. The second game was called at the end of seven innings by Beantown's Sunday law.

The Tribe led 7-4 when the Bosox came to bat in the home half but Boston rallied for three runs and tied up the game. There was no more scoring until the Tribe broke loose in the 12th inning. Kenny Keltner and Jeff Heath opened with doubles, and Heath advanced to third on a wild pitch. He was held there while Les Fleming was thrown out, but Roy Weatherly got to first on a walk.

Ray Mack then drove in the second run of the inning with a single, and Weatherly advanced to third base. Denning bunted near the mound, and Weatherly scored when Catcher Bill Conroy dropped the throw. It was more than enough to win the game, for the Red Sox went down in order.

Harder's victory in the second game was accomplished without his glasses, which he removed because of the humidity. Otherwise the veteran was not bothered.

TAM O' SHANTER GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS IN CHICAGO TODAY

$2,500 Prize, Golf's Biggest Stake, Awaits Open Champion.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 20—Seven days of historical club-swinging began today at the Tam O'Shanter golf club.

Right through until next Sunday night the nation's leading amateur and professional golfers are going to be settling so many different championships and competing for so many different trophies and prizes that probably only the sponsors, themselves, know the exact score.

"We've got it all worked out," they say. "We not only will have a Tam O'Shanter Open champion and a Tam O'Shanter amateur champion before this is over, but we'll also have a Tam O'Shanter glamor king. Furthermore, we'll have a crowd of 40,000 out here next Sunday.

A couple of hundred amateurs began playing the first of two qualifying rounds this morning. They play another tomorrow to decide the 64 match players who get together Wednesday.

The money boys qualify Wednesday for a 72-day for a 72-hole open tournament starting Thursday.

Thursday the amateurs will go right on knocking each other off in match play, but they will be competing in the open, or medal play championship, along with the professionals.

The open championship carries the biggest money prize in the game today, 2,500, with second place drawing $1,700. The winning amateur will receive a trophy plus $100 in defense bonds. A special cash prize of $500 will go to the player judged the "most glamorous"—amateur or professional.

Eighty-five percent of the net proceeds are destined for the army emergency relief fund, with 15 percent going to the P.G.A. benevolent fund.

MASSILLON BOY HIGH IN MIDWEST SHOOT

Breaks 150 Consecutive Targets To Beat Adults.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, July 20—Fourteen-year-old Charles Weeks of Massillon, broke 150 consecutive targets to turn back adult competitors and win the all-gauge crown at the fifth annual Midwest skeet shoot yesterday.

He tied Dr. J. H. Nichols of Cleveland and Anthony Zugates of Indiana, Pa., by breaking 100 of 100 in the opening round. Then the youth upset Zugates in the first shoot-off, the Pennsylvania missing two of 25. Both Nichols and Weeks got them all. In the second shoot-off, Weeks knocked down 25 more, but Nichols missed one.

The women's championship was won by Mrs. Potter Palmer III of Chicago, who broke 98 of 100. Mrs. Palmer and Larry Smith of Chicago won the two-man title, getting 197 of 200.

On a score of 459 of 500, the five-man championship went to Dr. Nichols, Ed Adams of Toledo, Ray McFarren of Wooster, David Grate of Alliance and A. E. Hart of Cleveland.

PUBLIC LINKS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP BACK ON SPORTS CALENDAR

Streamlined Tourney To Be Played Over Toledo Course.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 20 — Ohio's 1942 Public Links golf championship, on a streamlined war-time basis, was back on the sports calendar today after being canceled two weeks ago.

Ray Pennell, secretary of the state association, said the 36 hole course classic, trimmed from 72 to 36 holes, would be played Sunday, Aug. 16, at Toledo.

The men will stage their title drive over the Heatherdowns course, while the feminine contingent competes at the Ottowa Hills course, first municipal layout in the country.

"With so many of our boys in defense industry," Pennell said, "we just couldn't expect a big field for a two-day 72-hole tournament, so we decided to slash it to 36 holes, cut the entry fee in two, and give war bonds and stamps as prizes.

"In addition, every boy who appeared in either of the last two tournaments, and who is now in the armed services, will be sent a carton of cigarets, to be paid for out of tournament, state or district funds."

Pennell said the entry fee for men would be $2.50, and for the women, $2. The field will be limited to 125 men, with non-Toledo entrants getting preferred starting times to assure their getting home in time for work Monday. An amateur - amateur is booked Saturday afternoon, for entrants seeking an early look at the course.

Several weeks ago the annual "pay as you play" event was erased from the schedule after a survey showed 40 per cent of the regular participants were in the armed services, and another 30 per cent engaged in war industry.

Toledo district officials, however, urged that the meet be held, even if on a restricted basis, to assure its continuity, and the state association finally concurred.

Mrs. Thelma Linster of Mansfield is the women's champion Dick Rnyan of Columbus is the men's titlist.

Jack Stephenson Sixth Among Tackles in All-Star Poll.

BY LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

FOR the first time in his long athletic career, Jack Stephenson, currently Marion's No. 1 football idol, is asking for a break.

The husky son of Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephenson of 488 South Vine street today, through the medium of this column, thanked the hundreds of Marion friends who cast their votes for him last week and added an appeal for more Marionites to get on the band wagon.

The game, an annual football fixture, is unusual in that the fans, rather than a group of coaching wizards, decides the personel of the team which will face the Chicago Bears in Soldiers' field, Chicago, the night of Aug. 28. The Bears won the right to meet the All-Stars by virtue of their world's professional grid title won last fall.

So far Marion groups have been exceptionally instrumental in aiding Stephenson's campaign. More than 2,100 signatures were placed on petitions in downtown stores last week. Additional petitions are being circulated today and plans to canvass the industrial area are now being completed.

In addition all three Marion service clubs — Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary — will be asked to sign petitions at their weekly luncheon sessions this week. Members of each of the three groups also will be asked to distribute petitions.

By Wednesday, the committee in charge of the local campaign, hopes to have about 200 petitions in circulation in addition to 3,000 single ballots.

Marion's quota in the "Stephenson for the All-Star Game" drive is 20,000 votes. Only a little over one-tenth of this figure has been raised so far, but activity this week is expected to send the local total to around 20,000.

Up to midnight, Saturday Stephenson had received 21,378 votes, placing him sixth among 35 tackles nominated in the poll. This is one notch above his position midnight, Friday, when he had received 9,851 votes.

Voung ends midnight, Friday. The eleven players leading their respective positions will comprise the All-Star squad. Coaches are obliged to respect the fan vote, unless a player is injured or for any reason is unable to accept election to the squad. In such cases the man next in line in the national voting standings fills the vacancy.

Despite a gain of 15,458 votes, Jack Stephenson slipped to eighth place in a field of 35 tackles nominated for the All-Star game. Up to midnight last night Stephenson had received 36,836 votes. Al Blozis (Georgetown) heads the field with 92,754. Alf Bauman (Northwestern), Clarence Herndon (Nebraska), Paul Lillis (Notre Dame), Norville Wallach (Missouri), Urban Odson (Minnesota) and Jim Daniell (Ohio State) all have more than 40,000 votes.

MARION HAWKS DOWN TIFFIN, 15 TO 12 AT LINCOLN PARK

Joe Roseberry Allows 10 Hits as Locals Blast 19 Safeties.

The Marion Hawks climbed back into the Ohio State semi-pro league spotlight yesterday at Lincoln park, by tripping a favored Tiffin Mud Hen team, 15-12, on 10-hit hurling of Joe Roseberry. The Hawks blasted a total of 19 base knocks off Funk and Huffman.

The Hawks spotted Tiffin an eight run advantage in the first two innings and then slowly gained back the deficits. A four run rally in the sixth frame assured the local win.

Canton Terriers Third in Mid-Atlantic Loop

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., July 20—The Canton Terriers advanced to the third berth of the Mid-Atlantic league standings today, and Dayton slipped to fourth.

The Terriers did it by whipping Springfield 4 to 3 yesterday. They got all their runs in the first two innings and then staved off a threatened Cardinal rally in the ninth when the visitors loaded the bags but couldn't deliver.

Dayton lost to Charleston, 6 to 3, and Erie and Zanesville split. The Tars took an afternoon game 6 to 3, and the Cubs the nightcap 6 to 4.

Red Birds, Indians Split Double Bill; Toledo Drops Two

By The Associated Press

The baffling Brewers of Milwaukee have started moving up in the American association after a big boost yesterday during which they pelted a parade of St. Paul pitchers with a total of 36 hits to sweep a doubleheader.

The only other team to make a twin killing was Louisville. Toledo being the victim on scores of 8 to 0 and 5 to 4.

The Brewers' Salvo of power set down the Saints 14 to 12 and 13 to 5. The double victory left Milwaukee in third place, one-half game behind Columbus and three behind the league-leading Kansas City Blues.

The Blues, after beating Minneapolis 12 to 9 in the opener, dropped the second, 6 to 2. Indianapolis tripped Columbus, 4-3, in a 10-inning opener but bowed, 5-3, in the second engagement as Harry Brecheen registered his eighth straight victory.

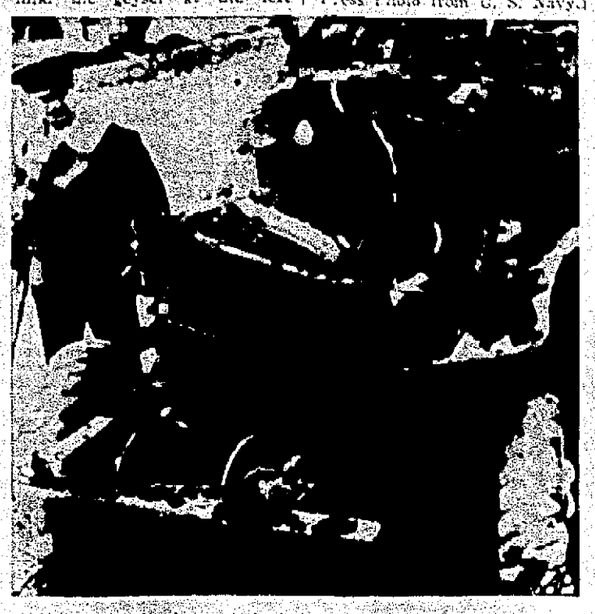
Navy Releases First Pictures of Jap Attack on Dutch Harbor

When Japanese bombers attacked Dutch Harbor, U. S. naval base in Alaska, they were met with anti-aircraft fire that kept many of their bombs falling wide of the mark. These geysers represent bombs that fell harmlessly in the harbor. The ship in the background behind the geyser at the left stayed off attack with continued machine gun fire. (Associated Press Photo from U. S. Navy.)

Japanese bombing planes had been there once when this picture of the attack on Dutch Harbor was made—witness the burning oil tank in background. But these marines were alert in their trenches for another attack. (Associated Press Photo from U. S. Navy.)



This twisted piece of junk was a U. S. Army truck before Jap shrapnel struck home in the raid on Dutch Harbor. The picture was released by the U. S. Navy.

DR. H. L. BELL UNION SERVICE SPEAKER

Gives Sermon on "Life's Foolish Rivalries."

Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of Central Christian church, spoke at the union church service held in Epworth Methodist church Sunday night. He spoke on "Life's Foolish Rivalries," emphasizing the fact that multitudes of people permit their possessions to possess them, they become the servants and the possessions the masters.

The rivalries, he said, lead us to vain attempts to lead lives divided into segments labeled business, pleasure, sport and religion.

He raised the question, "Is life's best too good for the home?"

John H. Clark presided in the absence of Dr. S. M. Ingmire of Epworth church. Rev. P. E. Smoke of Calvary Evangelical church read the Scripture and Rev. Ephriam Hertzler of the First Church of the Brethren offered prayer. Mrs. Earl Hale sang the "Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Evangeline Lawrence.

Young people of the youth's union met on the lawn of Our House at 7 p. m., with young people of Central Christian church in charge. Kenny McKee was the leader.

Taking part in the program were Mary Gore, Eva Hines, Arlene Hill, Donald Shields, Nellie Rowland, Barbara Hedges and Delores Dennis.

BAN LIFTED BY U. S. ON ELECTRIC RANGES

Merchants Now Able To Sell Those in Stock.

Sale of electric ranges, stopped on May 2 by order of the war production board, may be resumed at once, according to orders received by the Marion Chamber of Commerce office from the board.

The order releases all electric ranges in the hands of Marion retailers, Louis Michel, secretary said. However, distributors and manufacturers are not permitted to sell ranges with a factory sales price of $80 or more.

To purchase a range the buyer must certify to the dealer in writing that it is required to replace a worn out, destroyed or damaged range, or that there is no other cooking equipment available and the premises are wired for installing an electric range.

There has been considerable inquiry among farmers in the Marion area who want to purchase ranges, Mr. Michel said. For their instruction as well as all prospective purchasers living in Marion and vicinity, Mr. Michel will have a copy of the order on file at the Chamber of Commerce office on North State street.

MARION'S CO. H REACHES CAMP

State Guardsmen Travel by Bus to Camp Zaleski for Training.

Wearing their new blue uniforms of the Ohio State Guard, the officers and a group of approximately 50 members of Co. H, 2nd Regiment, left the Armory Sunday morning for a week at Camp Zaleski in Vinton county.

They made the trip in an air-conditioned chartered bus. They were preceded by the mess and supply sergeants and several of the men of the company who left earlier in order to have the noon meal well under way by the time the men arrived.

Among the approximately 75 relatives and friends who were at the Armory to see them off was George D. Hildebrandt, commander of Marion civilian military training program and organizer of the Marion Rifles, from which Co. H was recruited. Mr. Hildebrandt entertained the men with recordings made of their induction last month, and when they left sent along his portable phonograph for their entertainment while at camp.

The 2nd Regiment, under Col. Wade C. Christy of Columbus, and the 3rd Regiment, under Col. Emmerson Woolf of Akron, are in camp this week. Each totals about 550 men.

The men began learning how best to defend themselves in combat, how to exterminate a foe quickly, and how to make the best protective use of surrounding terrain.

The Guards' training on combat fundamentals will be climaxed by full-scale maneuvers Friday night through the rough hills of one of the most scenic sections of Ohio, according to The Associated Press.

STOCK MARKET BALANCE HOLDS

Minor Price Variations Cloud Trends; Russian War News Checks Speculation.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 20 — Stocks generally kept their balance in today's market without the aid of much outstanding domestic or foreign news stimulation.

Minor price variations either way befogged the trend and, in exceptionally sluggish dealings, fractional advances had a trifle the best of it.

The inflation influence waned somewhat as a buying incentive, with the administration expected to take strong steps to stem threatening wage-price spirals. Cloudy war bulletins from Russia remained as speculative deterrents.

Among stocks attracting intermittent support were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, and U. S. Rubber. Backward tendencies were shown by Bethlehem, American Telephone, Dow Chemical, Kennecott and Montgomery Ward.

The thought was present in financial quarters that restrictive measures against wages and farm prices may encounter formidable opposition unless combined with tax legislation that bears down even more sharply on high-bracket personal incomes and corporations. All of which caused some revision of ideas regarding purchases of certain stocks.

Owners of metal shares also scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which again warned of the practical certainty of insufficient scrap supply for the steel industry next winter.

"Some observers," the publication added, "believe the pinch will be felt as early as October. Current consumption to sustain next-peak steel output is using all available tonnage."

HELD 40 YEARS

For the last 40 years William P. Tell, 84, has been an inmate of the Kankakee, Ill., State Hospital for the insane—but he should have been released as sane 40 years ago, according to a report to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The report came from Attorney Thomas F. O'Malley, Jr., in connection with a hearing in the $500,000 estate of Tell's late wife, a portion of which O'Malley was instructed to acquire for Tell. O'Malley brought out that it was through the machinations of the late Elita Tell that Tell was kept in the asylum. Relatives believed Tell sane for years.

WHEAT STAGES RALLY AFTER UNEASINESS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 20—After early uneasiness, wheat prices staged a fairly strong rally today upon mill buying and short covering.

With the attention of most traders focused on Washington, where action in the anti-inflation fight was watched closely, wheat contracts dipped about 1 cent in early dealings. The late rally carried quotations above the preceding session's close.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D

Health Foundation

I am in receipt of a well-printed volume which gives the experience of the W. K. Kellogg Health Foundation. This foundation operates in Michigan and was especially designed to improve community health. It is probably the most extensive social experiment in health planning ever made.

It began in one county in Michigan and the entire county was organized for the purpose of improving the general health. Before embarking on this crusade the Board of Trustees of the Foundation decided that they would use its resources mainly in the application of knowledge rather than in research or relief.

Research is of unquestioned value but support was already available for many worthwhile projects. Relief is necessary but has come to be an accepted responsibility of the government. The important thing to do, in their judgment was to find ways and means to help the average citizen apply the knowledge that had already been won for him.

This was a big undertaking: all of the resources in the way of hospitals, schools, churches and homes of the county had to be utilized; all sorts of social service workers, including school teachers, priests and parents, had to be educated and especially educated to find out what the needs of the community were.

It would hardly be possible to mention the individual activities of the foundation in establishing their work. Of course, most of the work was concentrated on the health of the children. This began with rural maternity care and included the nutrition of children which meant that all the farmers and food handlers in the community had to be convinced that they should cooperate in order to provide good, clean food.

Universal protection against infectious diseases was established which meant an intensive program of education. "Of course Johnny will be immunized against diphtheria on his nine months' birthday," said casually by health workers over and over again through the radio, the printing press and private talks was found to be worth more than any amount of education.

The wonder of the thing to me is that so many preludices were overcome. This includes prejudices held by the medical profession and nurses as well as by parents and teachers. I still get letters from stupid people with stories about soldiers who fall down after they have taken immunizations in the Army. None of the immunization tests taken in the Army can possibly be harmful, but the fools still think they are.

But it is surprising how well the program has worked; so well in fact that a few years ago this community in Michigan agreed to pay a voluntary tax to continue teh work. It involves a great deal of trouble but the experience apparently proves that no trouble is too much to attain good health.

Papers covers that can be adjusted to books of any size up to 15 inches and fastened with elastic tapes and hooks are a New York inventor's idea.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"YOUR BOAST is an idle one, based wholly upon conjecture," I told Ruth Hayes, and tried to make my voice and manner infuriating, in the hope that she might lose her temper and reveal more of her errand. "I am waiting to hear your proofs of that boast. If you cannot give them, I must renew my request that you leave the apartment."

That there was no danger of her leaving unless forced out or threatened with force, I saw with relief. I had not failed my father, who I knew was listening to every syllable of the conversation, and I waited with outward frigidity, but fairly boiling inside, to hear her answer.

"You underestimate me, both you and your silly milk-and-water friends," she taunted. "Do you think I do not know that she is searching all the hospitals in the city and surrounding suburbs, thinking she may be able to find Jack, although whether she wants to nurse him back to health or to sneak him a dose of arsenic nobody knows."

"If you know all this," I said measuredly, — "and please note that I am admitting nothing — your knowledge has been gained through highly suspicious channels. Besides, I am getting exceedingly tired."

Ruth Is Startled

I paused to watch her reaction, but her poise was undisturbed and I went on.

"Will you state in plain words your object in coming here?" I demanded. "It certainly was not for the pleasure of calling me a liar, or of boasting of your relations with Jack—you have none, by the way—but you must want something. What is it?"

She started perceptibly when I told her that she had no relations with Jack.

"So you have seen Jack," she said. "I thought so! And this hospital business is only a blind, designed to keep Katharine occupied. You probably can't trust her mushiness. She'd give away the whole works.

"So now I can come down to cases. I've found out what I wanted. You've seen Jack. You know where he is. And you're going to give me that information now, if you know what's good for you."

I once laughed at the description of a voice as "dripping distilled venom," but there was no mirth in me now, as I felt that those words perfectly described Ruth's voice. It also showed grim determination and, although I do not count myself a coward, I was glad indeed to hear my father's voice from the doorway behind me.

"You will leave this apartment at once," he said flatly.

She turned to face him, and I noted to her credit that she did not flinch, even when she saw Ronald's youthful athletic figure behind my father.

"Yes?" she drawled insolently. "Well, it will take both of you to make me do that, and even then I'm not so sure. I'm pretty husky, and I warn you I shall kick and scream. I don't imagine you'll enjoy the scene, nor will the hotel management."

Threatens Arrest

"The hotel detectives are on their way up," my father said imperturbably. "They will be here any second. And if you do not go peaceably, I not only shall have you removed forcibly from this apartment, but I also shall have you taken to the nearest police station. I ought to do that anyway. From what I have overheard, the federal authorities ought to be interested in your movements."

I had been watching her eyes as she listened to him, and I saw in them a distinct flash of panic. Then it vanished, and her head went up defiantly.

"I am not afraid of your threats, you doddering old fool," she said, "but I'll go, simply because I can see it's no use staying. I'd have choked the information I want out of her lying throat, but three of you are a bit too much."

"I will accompany you to the elevator," my father said calmly. "Thus you will be spared the indignity of having the hotel detectives escort you."

She was already at the door, but over her shoulder she flung a challenge at me.

"You and your mewling friend Katharine will be sorry for this!" she said.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, July 21

THE ACCENT ON the affairs of this day may be in connection with domestic, social, cultural and love affairs, with things moving at high tempo and with much pleasure and satisfaction. This should be a most auspicious period for making plans and contacts for fulfillment of social ambitions. However, it might be well to treat those in high stations with affability and finesse, as they are not disposed to be over friendly.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual domestic, social and emotional activity and enjoyment, with more workaday activities relegated to the background. Push for social position and popularity, but use discretion with those in important positions. Deal with tact and diplomacy with these and with group, fraternal or the public, these being rather unfriendly.

A child born on this day should be devoted to the happiness and aspirations of the home, in its domestic, social cultural and affectional integrity.

REDS WRECK COAL FIELDS IN RETREAT

GUN BLAST IN CHEST KILLS MARION YOUTH

Paul Norton, 15, Patrolman's Son, Wounded While Hunting with Father.

Paul Frederick Norton, 15, son of Police Patrolman Fred Norton and Mrs. Norton of 410 Pearl street, was killed almost instantly yesterday afternoon in Wyandot county by the discharge of a gun with which he was going to join his father in a pigeon hunt.

The accident occurred at 2:30 p. m. on the Ben Stief farm two and a half miles south of Little Sandusky, a farm on which Mr. Norton lived years ago.

A verdict of accidental death from a gunshot wound was returned by Wyandot County Coroner John M. Thompson of Upper Sandusky. Coroner Thompson, now a lieutenant in the medical corps, was home on leave and responded to the call. Wyandot County Deputy Sheriff Warner responded to the call to the sheriff's office, and patrolmen from the Marion sub-station of the state highway patrol also were at the farm.

Fond of Hunting

Mr. Norton and his son, described as "great pals" and particularly fond of hunting together, left here about 10:30 yesterday morning to spend the day hunting in Wyandot county. Mr. Norton, a member of the police department for about 15 years, was beginning the second week of a two-week vacation.

They hunted at various farms, Mr. Norton having a wide acquaintance in the county, and drove to the Stief farm where they were given permission to hunt pigeons.

The father and son went back to the car, parked in the barnyard, to get their guns. Mr. Norton's gun was in the front seat. The boy's gun, a double-barrel shotgun had slipped from the back seat to the floor and the barrel was pointed towards him as he reached in to get it. As he drew it out the trigger caught on some obstacle and one barrel discharged.

Junior At Harding

Paul would have been a junior next fall in the vocational course at Harding High school.

He was born in Marion on Oct. 2, 1926. His father was born in Wyandot county and his mother, Edith Mountz Norton, was born in Morrow county.

He was a member of First Church of the Brethren.

Two sisters, Mary and Beverly Ann, both at home, survive with the parents.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Boyd-Untrapher funeral home on West Columbia street. Rev. E. M. Hertzler of First Church of the Brethren, will officiate. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

CONGRESS AWAITS PRICE LEGISLATION

Seek Information for Renewal or Abandonment of Recess.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 21—Congress impatiently sought today to learn whether—and when—President Roosevelt might ask for supplementary price control legislation based on wage stabilization, so that plans for a recess of several weeks could either be renewed or abandoned.

There were reports the President would confer with Senate and House democratic chieftains during the day.

Should a presidential message on the subject be forthcoming shortly, a majority of congressmen could slip away for an indefinite period while the House committee conducted hearings.

Draft Boards Given New Rules for Calling Men

Instructions Based on National Headquarter's Interpretation of Selective Service Law.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 21—All Ohio local selective service boards today received latest instructions for classification of registrants for military service, based on national headquarters' interpretation of recent amendments to the draft act.

Col. C. W. Goble, state director, explained the Ohio system had been inducting men on the previous basis while awaiting instructions from national headquarters and was under orders to continue inductions on the basis of classifications already made pending receipt of today's instructions.

Former regulations provided that for a registrant to be considered as having dependents, one or more persons must be dependent upon his earned income for support in a reasonable manner.

New Regulations

New regulations permit a local board to consider the wife or child of a registrant as dependent if he maintains bona fide family relationship with them in his home, and if the marriage took place before Dec. 8, 1941, and at a time when induction was not imminent even though the registrant's earned income is not required for financial support of the dependents.

National headquarters instructed that all registrants without dependents of any kind under the law and regulations should be selected for induction as rapidly as they can be made available.

When the supply of single men without dependents and who are not "necessary men" in any local board area is exhausted, local boards may review in sequence of order numbers the classification of 3-A registrants and, upon their exhaustion, may continue with lower classifications.

"While outlining a broad policy for the induction of men with dependents, the amendments stress that the major requirement of the local board is to meet the manpower needs of the armed forces and insure an adequate supply of manpower for production of materials of war," the directive stated.

The list of civilian activities necessary to war production and essential to the war effort specifies that they must meet one or more of the following tests:

1. Fulfilling a contract of the army, navy, maritime commission or other governmental agency engaged directly in war production;

2. Performing a governmental service directly concerned with promoting or facilitating war production;

3. Performing a service, governmental or private, directly concerned with providing food, clothing, shelter, health, safety, or other requisites of the civilian daily life in support of the war effort;

4. Supplying material under subcontracts or contracts involved in the above activities; or

5. Producing raw materials, manufacturing materials, supplies, or equipment, or performing services necessary for the fulfillment of contracts included in the above activities.

MARION PLANE IN MINOR ACCIDENT

Hits Fence in Forced Landing; Pilot Escapes Injury.

Neil Smith of 126 East Walnut street, captain of the guards at the Osgood Co., escaped uninjured when his plane made a forced landing at 7:55 last night on the Orla Barks farm a half mile south of Marion on the Prospect road.

The plane, a Taylorcraft two-place monoplane, was not badly damaged, according to a report of state highway patrolmen who were called to the scene.

The propeller was broken, the tail service and one aileron were damaged and the cabin door was jammed. The plane was to be taken today to the Marion airport for repairs.

Mr. Smith told the state patrol that he was on a routine cruise when the motor cut off. He started to glide to a landing and was gliding directly into the sun when he saw a fence ahead.

The sun blinded him and it was too late to do anything but try to "bounce" the plane over the fence. He brought the plane to the ground, pulled back on the stick, and the plane "bounced," but not high enough to clear the fence.

The plane caught on the fence and went over on its back.

Friends of Mr. Smith said this morning that he is one of Marion's most experienced fliers, with 15 or more years of flying to his credit.

Canteen Containers Used to Gather Soldier Treats

Containers were placed in cigar stores recently for the convenience of persons wishing to contribute cigars, cigarets or candy bars for Marion's canteen organization which is providing treats for troops passing through Marion.

Today glass jars were placed in downtown business places for "change" contributions. Reports today are that the cigar, cigaret and candy bar containers are bringing substantial returns.

RENT BOARD TO BEGIN DUTIES

To Start Taking Complaints Tomorrow; First Hearing Monday Night.

Final preparations were being made today for the new Marion county rent control board to begin functioning Wednesday.

Complaint and notification blanks were mimeographed yesterday. One complaint had been filed this morning, by a landlord who said his tenants had not paid their rent since June 1.

Beginning Wednesday, all rent complaints must be filed with Carl Haberman, common pleas court bailiff, in the courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse. Mr. Haberman, serving as clerk to the board, will receive complaints from 9 to 11:30 a. m., and 1 to 4 p. m., Mondays through Fridays and from 9 a. m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

Complaint Fee

A 25 cent fee will be required of each person making a complaint, to cover the cost of sending a registered mail notice to the other party involved, notifying him or her to appear before the rent control board for a hearing of the complaint.

The board will conduct its first hearing next Monday night at 7:30 in the common pleas courtroom. This hearing will be largely of cases pending in municipal court which involve rent questions.

Judge Hector S. Young, chairman of the board, said it would be virtually impossible to hear any new cases, but that he has asked attorneys for all persons involved in municipal court rent cases to appear Monday night.

All hearings will be public.

Text of Forms

The complaint blanks call for the name, address and telephone number of both the landlord and tenant; the amount of rent paid on March 1 and the present rental; the type of property, the specific complaint and signature of the complaintant. Also on the blank is space for the clerk's notice of answer to the complaintant and

USW Representatives Meet To Map Campaign

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 21—Representatives of the CIO United Steel Workers from plants of the nation's major steel companies assembled here today to map out a campaign to obtain for all of the steel industry's 650,000 workers the concessions granted by the war labor board to employes of four "Little Steel" companies.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO, said the demands would include the 44-cents-a-day wage increase, the maintenance of union membership and a checkoff of union dues which the WLB ruled the unions was entitled to at plants of Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Inland Steel companies. The industry's present basic pay is $8.00 a day.

COUNCIL SEEKS FEDERAL FUNDS FOR HOSPITAL

Authorizes Board To Apply for Temporary Addition and Hire Architect.

The Marion City hospital building program was given the "go" signal last night by city council.

At a special session council in record time passed emergency legislation authorizing the hospital building commission to apply for a federal grant to remodel the present hospital, erect and equip a temporary addition and to employ an architect for the project.

The ordinance takes care of the suggestion that $25,000 be taken from the hospital building fund passed last November by the voters to equip the temporary structure.

In the opinion of Acting City Solicitor R. M. Wilhelm and his assistant, Robert A. Kelly, who prepared the legislation, the $200,000 building fund can not be touched except for the purpose for which it was passed—to build and equip a modern, fireproof addition to the present hospital.

No sum was specified in the ordinance and it was the consensus that this was not necessary, since the federal grant will be in the amount which the U. S. public health service and the federal works administration decide is necessary to erect the structure.

Mayor Russell C. Snare, in answer to a question from one of the councilmen as to what amount had been considered, said that the estimated cost, including equipment, is about $150,000.

Remodeling Considered

Asked what remodeling was being considered for the present structure, the mayor said that the kitchen and laundry are not adequate for a 50-bed addition which is planned, and that some changes probably will be made in the surgery on second floor.

Replying to another question, the mayor said he thought it would require about four months to build the temporary structure after the federal fund is granted and materials are on hand for the construction job.

A resolution to enter into a contract with Thomas D. McLaughlin of the Lima firm of McLaughlin & Associates, architects already employed to plan the permanent structure, for service on the temporary addition, was held over until the regular council meeting next Monday night.

Mr. Wilhelm said council could not pass the resolution when it had not seen the contract. The

Shovel Co. Profit for 3 Months Near Quarter-Million

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. today reported a profit of $1,147,185.45 for the second quarter of 1942.

The figure remained after deductions of $45,103.85 for bond interest and $74,815.20 for depreciation charged to cost of operations, but before federal income tax was deducted.

It is estimated that this profit will be subject to federal income taxes amounting to $917,748.36, based on a bill now under consideration by the house of representatives.

Deducting of the federal income tax would leave a net profit for the period of $229,437.09. This compares with a profit of $206,682.79 for the first quarter.

M. L. Annenberg, Who Ended Fabulous Career with U. S. Prison Term, Dies

By The Associated Press

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 21—M. L. Annenberg, immigrant newsboy, circulation genius, millionaire publisher died last night. He was 64.

Published of the Philadelphia Inquirer and head of an extensive financial empire based on racing publications, Annenberg had been a patient here since his release on parole June 3 from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

He had served 22 months of a three-year sentence for income tax evasion in a case called the largest of its kind on record and which obligated him to pay the government $10,000,000.

Annenberg was four years old when his father, an impoverished Russian farmer, came to this country in 1882 and settled in Chicago as a junk peddler. The boy had little formal schooling.

Newspaper circulation was Annenberg's forte. It pyramided under his touch and that made him a millionaire at 30.

In 1918, Annenberg became circulation manager for Brisbane's new paper in Milwaukee and when Brisbane sold it to Hearst, Annenberg moved to the circulation manager for the entire Hearst system.

About ten years later, Annenberg went into the [illegible] business.

50 Axis Planes Smashed on Ground in RAF Raids

Naval and Aerial Assaults on Axis-Held Port of Matruh Part of Determined Destruction Effort.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, July 21—The third and heaviest naval bombardment of the Axis-held port of Matruh in three nights, and two aerial assaults which destroyed more than 50 Axis planes on the ground in a single day were reported by the British today, all part of a determined campaign to destroy the enemy's African air force and ruin his reinforcement efforts.

Buildings, jetties, schooners and other craft in harbor at Matruh—105 miles behind the German-Italian lines—were hit by the naval shells early Monday morning. Explosions could be heard for miles.

Salvo after salvo covered the entire harbor and the adjoining shore in a well-defined geometric pattern.

One small oil tanker was seen to have been sunk, either in this bombardment or in those on the two previous nights, naval officers said.

British planes scored their smashing blows yesterday at El Daba and Fuka, 25 and 60 miles respectively behind the lines. The raids were the second and third in two days.

Other long-range fighters blasted Axis barges northeast of Sidi Barrani, 185 miles behind the lines. Land operations on the Egyptian front were confined to patrols while the British concentrated on annihilation of Marshal Erwin Rommel's air force.

Planes Set Afire

A British communique said fires were left crackling among the blasted Axis planes, 30 of which were ruined or badly damaged near Fuka.

From Alexandria came reports that simultaneously British fighter-bombers swarmed down on the Nazi air base at El Daba for the second successive day, dumping tons of bombs on the surprised concentration.

RAF medium bombers meanwhile made night attacks on Axis planes, tanks and trucks in the battle front area around El Alamein, causing explosions and fires.

In all these air operations British announced they lost five planes but said two pilots were safe.

A battle of supplies—second in importance only to a showdown clash of arms—occupied opposing British and Axis forces in a prelude to the next phase of the battle of Egypt.

U. S. Hits Tobruk

Three weeks after the army of the Nile took its stand at El Alamein, 65 miles west of Alexandria, the RAF, now joined by heavy United States bombers, kept up an almost nightly pounding of Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel's Mediterranean supply base at Tobruk.

This Libyan port became Rommel's chief immediate port of entry for supplies following the 350-mile British retreat across north Africa and since has been given a thorough working over by Allied bombers loosing tons of bombs.

Four-motored U. S. bombers teamed with the RAF in a daylight raid on Sunday following a night assault on Tobruk, the RAF blasted the El Daba airfield where air reinforcements have been reaching Rommel and the British Mediterranean fleet bombarded Matruh Friday and Saturday nights.

RAF SMASHES NAZI TARGETS

200 Spitfires Roar Across Channel In Follow-Up After Big Bombers.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 21—The swelling British air might slashed at Nazi installations on the French invasion coast and the prime industrial targets of northwest Germany yesterday and last night in another demonstration of things to come.

The four-engined RAF bombers which scattered explosive and incendiary bombs on the shipyards and U-boat nests at Vegesack, Germany, Sunday night, had skimmed in from their night's work only a few hours before some 200 Spitfire fighters roared across the English Channel.

Ranging up the coast from Le Havre with American Eagle Squadron pilots manning some of the planes, the Spitfire squadrons swooped down on military targets as far north as El Treport. They shot up the radio masts at Fecamp, attacked gun posts and factories.

Early last night Wellington bombers swung out over the continent and blasted targets in northwest Germany without losing a plane.

They followed a group of Boston bombers which prodded the German defenses in occupied France into action and attacked a power station in the Mazingarbe area.

This display of British aerial might coincided with the authoritative statement that Britain's bombing squadrons are to be strengthened at the rate of 1,000 four-motored American bombers a month.

Sir Charles Bruce-Gardner, chairman of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors, said in the new 1941 edition of "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" that the United States was planning to build these bombers for the RAF.

The new manual said that 8,574 Axis planes had been shot down by the RAF from the start of the war to Jan. 1, 1942. In the same period the RAF lost only 3,692 of its own planes.

MAE WEST'S HUSBAND SEEKS MAINTENANCE

Vaudeville Dancer Appears in Court To Tell Story.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 21—Frank Wallace, a vaudeville dancer who married Mae West in Milwaukee way back when, got his chance today to tell in court a story he said he had kept secret for more than 30 years.

Hooper Wallace was to relate the story yesterday but his lawyer, Samuel E. Kenney, had a toothache and was unable to appear. Tearfully, Wallace pleaded for a month's continuance, and got one day.

Wallace is asking $1,000 a month separate maintenance. Miss West's cross-complaint seeks a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

Mae was spectacularly cautioned as the opening of court proved to be a false alarm. She wore a black satin dress, a bright green glove and had a green fur jacket. A large hat shaded the said was carried off guard and a slender [illegible] of dark green [illegible] completed the costume.

NAZIS MOVING ON ROSTOV IN 3 DIRECTIONS

U. S. and British Staff Officers in London Plan Way To Divert Germans.

By The Associated Press

The forward wall of German tanks and motorized infantry pushed southeast of Voroshilovgrad toward Rostov today down the rich Donets basin coalfield region, left ablaze and wrecked by the Russians falling back for a new stand at the northwest gate to the Caucasus.

At the north of the curving 300-mile battleline Red army forces were battling hand to hand with the Germans on both banks of the Don river in a fight to sweep the Nazis from the last of their bridgeheads and trap those holding on in newly fortified positions between the river and Voronezh 10 miles to the east.

The Germans apparently were massing their forces in the great grain area between the Donets and the Don—from Boguchar, 13 south of Millerovo—for an all-out effort to take Rostov from three directions and Stalingrad from two.

Report Rostov Aflame

(The German communique said Rostov already was aflame and under assault from the west, north and east, and that German forces farther north have pushed about 50 miles closer to Stalingrad, watchdog of the lower Volga.)

As the Russians fell back United States and British staff officers were reported today to be studying the possibility of an immediate limited diversion on the continent. A London informant said that the problem was to give prompt, diversionary assistance if the situation in southern Russia, already grave, deteriorates further.

Since a full-fledged invasion of the continent seemed unlikely this summer, it appeared that the American and British strategists, in continuing "second front" conferences, were mapping a small scale action which would pull German forces out of Russia and at the same time safeguard communications with Russia.

Prime Minister Churchill met with this strategy council.

As the allies deliberated, the German high command proclaimed that its forces had advanced another 50 miles on the way across the Don bend area toward Stalingrad and that Rostov, front gate to the Caucasus, was in flames and the focus of attack from three directions.

Rostov's bridges across the Don estuary have been smashed, the Berlin communique said.

Nazis Drive from East

The Russians have admitted only a threat to Rostov from the Donets basin to the north but the Germans claim to be driving also from the east, after a half-encirclement which they said reached the lower Don, and from the west, or Taganrog area, along the Sea of Azov.

Indirectly illustrating the plight of Russia's war industry, Pravda the Communist party newspaper, said that Russians retreating from the Donets basin had left coal mines there in ruins.

The Egyptian front, Mediterranean bastion of the allied line through the Middle East with Russia's Caucasus lines, was comparatively quiescent following fierce engagements which forced an axis withdrawal on the southern extension of the El Alamein line.

At Russia's rear, in a "second front" area not of allied choosing, the Japanese were said by a British source to have nearly completed preparations to attack the Siberian maritime provinces and Vladivostok.

This informant said that the Japanese were virtually in position to "press the button and start to move into Siberia." He pictured the Japanese lodgements in the Aleutian Islands as a precaution against a possible attack on Japan by the United States.

Watch for Red Attack

Russian forces were locked with the foe in a hand-to-hand struggle today along both banks of the upper Don in the Voronezh area, trying to turn the northern flank of Germany's Caucasus drive as the Germans noted the possibility of a Russian counter offensive.

The Russians were seeking to complete a counter-conquest of German bridgeheads across the upper Don and to exploit their own footholds west of Voronezh.

Obviously the Russians were trying to offset the offensive against Rostov, in the Caucasus, which the Germans said was being pressed from the west, north and east.

MILITARY COURT SET TO HEAR DEFENSE

Prepares To Listen to Evidence in Saboteurs' Behalf.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 21—The military commission trying eight persons accused of being submarine-landed Nazi saboteurs prepared today to hear evidence from the defense after devoting 11 days to hearing the government's case.

The commission adjourned yesterday with the announcement "it is anticipated that the defense will start introduction of its evidence tomorrow morning."

It announced that the prosecution formally rested its case yesterday, and that the commission then heard arguments on various motions made by the defense, which was taken by observers to be an indication that if dismissal of the charges had been sought it had been denied.

How A Commando Gets Tough

Wide World Features

THESE grips, blows and throws are part of the simple but terribly effective methods of hand-to-hand combat that are taught Britain's soldiers, Commandos and Home Guards. They are described by Captain W. E. Fairbairn, formerly of the Shanghai police in his book "Get Tough!" Prefaced with the notice that "we've got to be tough to win," the book points out even the most innocent-appearing grips and blows are deadly effective when delivered full strength.

Edge-of Hand: delivered across or downwards with bent arm, chopping motion from elbow.

Even RAF Student Pilots Experience Mental Lapses

By International News Service

LONDON—Not all would-be aviators who pass through the flying schools of RAF training command are born fliers. In fact, some, judging by the comments of their instructors are even a little on the dumb side.

A famous English instructor, now a group captain who has a great record for bombing raids over Germany, tells this story of one of his pilots:

"I told him to take-off, climb to a thousand feet, only, and then fly straight and level.

"Up he went. We got to a thousand feet and still he climbed. I didn't say anything but waited. We passed 2,000 feet and were well on the way up to 3,000. Then I leaned towards the speaking tube and asked him 'What height are you?'

Likes Teeth So Well He Yanks Them Out

By International News Service

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. — War produces many cranks, but the one Nottingham police hope most to catch poses as a dentist.

His victims are always women, and waiting until they are alone in the house he calls on them and admires their teeth. Then while examining them forcibly extracts sound molars.

Let Mrs. Edith Foulkes, a victim, tell her story. The "dentist", she said, pushed her into a chair, pulled out a back tooth and ran into the street tossing it into the air and shouting "what a beauty."

Mrs. Foulkes fainted.

The women of Nottingham are now so terrorized that the police are maintaining a continuous watch.

The so-called dentist is described as having a suave and professional manner. He carries a small brief case containing forceps and other dental instruments.

Before his victims realize what has happened, a tooth is extracted and the man runs out of the house with whoops of delight.

MR. FREDERICK HIGH WRITES MAGAZINE STORY ENTITLED "BROOKS FLETCHER AND HIS HOME TOWN-MARION"

Writing on the subject, "Brooks Fletcher and His Home Town—Marion," Mr. Frederick High tells: "How Brooks Fletcher, in Nation-wide Speaking Tours Has Helped To Advertise Marion From Coast To Coast."

Brooks Fletcher Has Lived in Marion More Than 25 Years

Within the long period of time that Brooks Fletcher has been a permanent resident and taxpayer of Marion he published his daily newspaper in Marion and served in Congress from Marion. Brooks Fletcher has always lived at 234 Thew Avenue, Marion.

How the People of Brooks Fletcher's Home County Have Backed Him For Congress

Brooks Fletcher

For the information of Marion New-Comers, now here to work in war industries, and because the Gallup Poll shows people want and need more information about the background, character, experience, training and qualifications of the men they elect to Congress this year, there will be published in this newspaper additional statements from Mr. Frederick High's article entitled:

"Brooks Fletcher and His Home Town—Marion."

It is because the people of his Home County have loyally backed Brooks Fletcher for Congress by larger votes than they ever before gave any member of his Party that many now predict Brooks Fletcher's election to Congress this fall.

Brooks Fletcher Is the First Member of Either Party Ever to Carry ALL the Counties

Because Brooks Fletcher of Marion is the FIRST man in either Party ever to carry ALL the Counties in this District, he will have the best chance of being elected this year.

Reports from over the District quote people as saying: "Nominate Brooks Fletcher of Marion, at the August 11th Primaries and we can win the election for Congress in November."

Records Show Brooks Fletcher CAN Be Elected

The first five days' operation of Marion's new homes registration bureau, set up to help relieve the city's housing problem, has built up a file of 134 registrations of available quarters and a total of 45 applications for lodging places.

These figures were reported today by Louis E. Michel, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and director of the registration. The bureau operates daily in the Chamber office under sponsorship of the Marion civilian defense council, the national housing administration and the WPA, the latter supplying clerical workers.

WAACS Start Training at Fort Des Moines, Iowa

The first WAAC is Mary W. Long, 31, of New York City, who here looks over the training grounds at Fort Des Moines, Ia., with Maj. J. Noel Macy. Miss Long, formerly a sergeant in the Royal Canadian Air Force, appeared in her Canadian uniform with USA letters on her shoulder. She was released to United States forces several weeks ago, WAAC officials said, and thus became the first member of the United States' Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. (AP Photo.)

Miss Ollie Price, a civilian model, admires the new WAAC uniform which she donned at a demonstration in the WAAC training headquarters at Fort Des Moines, Ia. While 800 officer-candidates and auxiliaries (privates) were checking in for the Women's Army training course at the historic old cavalry post, officials announced that the fitting-out process took just 41 minutes. Boy Near Marion In Delaware Crash Case

Frank Ruth, 15, of near Marion, has been cited to appear in Delaware county juvenile court this week, probably on Thursday, for a hearing on a charge of driving a car without a license, the state highway patrol reported today.

The charge grew out of an accident about 10:10 Saturday night on Route 229, a mile east of Norton in Delaware county, in which a car driven by the boy struck a parked car owned by Edwin Moore, 49, of Prospect.

According to the patrol, Mr. Moore and several friends were fishing and had parked the Moore car off the highway. Ruth's car hit two bridge posts and skidded before it struck the Moore car, the patrol reported. The hearing on the charge will be before Judge H. E. House.

15,000 Tons of Lime Applied in Hardin Co.

KENTON, July 21—More than 15,000 tons of lime have been applied to Hardin county farmlands in 9½ months of the current fiscal year, or two and one-half times as much as ever before was applied in an entire year under AAA grants of aid, Chairman Harley P. Shick of the Hardin county AAA committee said.

Last year only 5,000 tons of lime were purchased by Hardin county farmers through the AAA grants for aid. The biggest year until this one was in 1934 when 6,000 tons of lime were purchased. The present year, when it ends October 1, 1942, probably will show a total of 20,000 tons of lime purchased and applied, Mr. Shick estimated.

Hardin Co Resurfacing Program Completed

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 21 — Eighty-one miles of roadway were resurfaced under a county program that ended this week, County Engineer Paul K. Strong said today. In addition, the county has sufficient aphalt oil on hand to patch most of the remaining roadway in the county and already has oiled stretches of road in front of homes. Mr. Strong's announcement was made as residents speculated on what effect the new government order curtailing use of asphalt material on all except war-important highways would have on the county road system.

The only curtailment necessary in the county this year, Mr. Strong said, would be the elimination of the Fuggisley pike, near Mt. Victory, from a reconstruction schedule.

As soon as the road improvement work was completed yesterday, Mr. Strong started the county road crew of 21 men on an undertaking to build four bridges without steel. Temporary tops will be provided and, at conclusion of the war, steel will be sought to make the bridges permanent.

Gilbert Bettman

AS JUDGE in the state supreme court, as a former attorney general, as one of its most successful lawyers and one of its most popular politicians and public figures, Gilbert Bettman for many years has been one of Ohio's foremost citizens. It is hard to realize that time had carried him to the age of 60, harder to realize that he finally has lost the battle with ill health he waged courageously for so long.

His passing opens a little wider the place in this state and all others for men with a well developed sense of public responsibility. There never are enough to do what needs to be done—only enough to suggest that if there could be more things would be done a great deal better. In the generations to come Ohio will need not one but many Gilbert Bettmans to work and think in its behalf.

$25 Silk Shirts

IT'S a long way from a 15 per cent increase to the $25 silk shirts that steel workers loved to buy in World war I, but not too long to travel over again. Those who want it to happen that way should explain what they hope to get out of it.

Those silk shirts for 20 years afterward were the country's favorite example of war prosperity. They were spot merchandise for a particular market at a particular time. No one bought them before, no one wanted them afterward. They represented an outlet for excess buying power, nothing else. Those that weren't snapped up in the giddy buying spree started by the war boom gathered dust for years on clothing store shelves and finally were thrown out with the trash.

It has been the plan in this war to do things better. In the first place, wages aren't expected to sail out of sight, because employers as a whole are so closely restricted by regulations, taxes and agreements with their workmen that the wage situation is theoretically stabilized. The sky isn't the limit any more.

Furthermore, by taxation and salesmanship the government hopes to draw off the bulk of excess buying power into war savings. Invested there, the money not only will serve the essential function of providing cash for war costs but will act as a brake on inflation and, when the war is over, a restorative to what is expected to be by then an over-extended economic system.

That is the plan. It has the sympathy of a majority of citizens, because they know that in another $25 silk shirt era they'd lose their $1.25 cotton ones. Furthermore, when the spree was over, they'd be stuck with the check and the boys who did the splurging would be going on work relief. It's the thing that theoretically can be averted if the country will cooperate to discourage inflation. To be sure, it won't be easy and it might fail, but it couldn't be any worse than the result of letting 'er rip in the boom of World war I. The people who think otherwise—and they are making a lot of trouble right now—should stand up and explain their version of what the country stands to gain by promoting instead of stifling the inflationary aspects of war production.

Just Like the Real Thing

EVEN an unobservant man would know that many women are going stockingless this summer and that some of them are putting something on their legs to overcome that bleached look—something that looks better. A more observant man would know, also, that some women are gilding the lily by drawing a line down the backs of their made-up legs to simulate the seam in a pair of stockings. All this despite the fact that the seam in the stocking has been the fly in the hosiery ointment ever since stockings became a decorative asset. The idea is to make the stockingless leg look natural; because while it may be more attractive without a stocking, the stocking has been there so long that with no seam on the back the leg looks "unnatural."

It's a fascinating thought and an intriguing possibility. When, in due course of time, a leg without a seam up the back has been seen so often that it is natural, the goal then will be to make a leg with a stocking look like a leg without a stocking. Women will trample one another in the rush to get a pair of the "invisibles," and style will have reached a climax.

Traffic Wear and Tear

FAILURE of the accident rate to decline in proportion to the rate of automobile use—a phenomenon that is puzzling traffic observers—has serious implications for the problem of an impending transportation shortage. Every automobile removed from the road, every tire destroyed by an accident brings the threat of a transportation famine closer.

Traffic safety appeals for years have been based on the desirability of saving life and limb. Today that is more important than ever, but added to it is the twin necessity of saving automobiles and tires. Traffic wear and tear, the ruined equipment that formerly meant business for automobile graveyards, today means that much transportation subtracted from a national total dwindling too rapidly for national security.

News Behind the News

Fault Found with Labor Decision That Affects 8,000,000 and Ignores 42,000,000.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 21—Government award of 44 cents a day more to little steel workers was called every where as an economic adjustment for "labor." The wage increase formula of this mid-war test is presumably to be extended to the Chrysler, General Motors, and a score of other cases pending before the war labor board. The government announces this as its method of handling the cause of "labor," although probably no more than a million workers are involved, again, as upon every occasion in which a CIO or AFL union tangles with government, the public will be led to believe that "labor" as a whole is involved.

The whole governmental system, and even the press handling of such news, has encouraged the fallacious notion that this small AFL-CIO minority of the nation's workers are "labor." The war labor board was set up by Mr. Roosevelt to handle only union cases. Even back before the New Deal era, congress and the government gave no special consideration to the rights and interests of other workers, excepting these organized minorities. Now when government controls have been extended over all economic life to such an extent that the bread people eat is measured in Washington, the popular fallacy is continued without objection or notice. The newspapers unwittingly perpetuate this deception by publishing both in headline and text about "labor did this" and "labor got that," when they mean only the CIO or AFL.

The Other 42,000,000

There are 50,000,000 workers in this country. No more than 8,000,000 belong to CIO and AFL. The acute interest of the other 42,000,000 in our war economy and in our preparations for a managed post war system are ignored.

The AFL claimed 4,569,000 paid-up members last year and no doubt has more now. The CIO claimed 5,000,000 members but did not mention how many were paid-up, and probably has less than 3,000,000 in good standing.

Latest figures from the McNutt public welfare headquarters here officially places the total number of workers at 50,800,000 including:

War workers 17,500,000
Non-war 20,500,000.
Agricultural 7,800,000
Self-employed 5,000,000.

There are also unemployed (meaning unemployable) 2,400,000, and 5,500,000 are in the armed services.

The national income division of the commerce department has figures showing that salaries and wages were paid last year to 33,887,000 workers, skilled, unskilled, white collar, etc., not including agricultural or governmental. These 33,887,000 received much more than half the national income, $53,701,000,000, or an average of $1,564. You must add to these the 4,522,000 self-employed who received $5,169,000,000, or an average of $1,342 each. Also to be added are 6,073,000 farmers who are workers. According to these inadequate national income figures, they received more than the self-employed (little business men mostly), about $8,482,000,000, an average of $1,400. (This does not include hired hands.)

Millions Ignored

There are four representatives of the public on the war labor board, along with four union leaders and four industrial representatives, but no consideration beyond this "public representation" was given to the interest of the great bulk of the workers of this country in this little steel case, or any other. Their interest however is obvious. Whether the 44 cents increase is to cost $22,000,000 a year for little steel alone, or $44,000,000 for all the steel industry, or hundreds of millions when the increase is spread to unionized Chrysler, General Motors, and the others, labor will have to pay it. The cost of government contracts will be increased by that amount and the implements of war will drain just that much more from the treasury.

No one else will arise to claim the little steel increase was not justified on a basis of the increased cost of living—the yardstick which Mr. Roosevelt has fixed. But any thinking person can see the political sham and the economic pretense that enters into a government managed economy which considers only the interests only of a minority of workers. If increases to the 8,000,000 are justified by the yardstick, some increases to the other 42,000,000 can hardly be neglected. They cannot live outside Mr. Roosevelt's yardstick. Their rights in a democracy are no less just for their having failed to pay tribute to AFL or CIO for their jobs.

Inflation Threat

But if this is done and the increases are extended to all, inflation will surely rise in a greatly accelerated spiral, and defeat the purposes of any wage increase. The logical solution dictated by these facts therefore would seem to require a freezing of all, including little steel.

Certainly this governmental pretense of helping "labor" by only helping a few unions will become increasingly apparent and unjust as Washington proceeds upon the path of managed economy into which it rushed at the outset of the war to fix prices, wages and the economic lives of its people.

Today and Tomorrow

Government Poorly Organized To Decide on Matters Like Kaiser Proposal.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WHO is going to decide whether Mr. Henry J. Kaiser's proposal to build flying boats in the shipyards is to be accepted or rejected? On past performances the chances are 10 to 1 that it will be batted back and forth among a dozen agencies of administration and at least half a dozen committees of congress.

There will be statements from all quarters, and no one will know whom to believe. Finally the President will make a confusing remark about it at a press conference whereupon there will be more statements from all quarters.

For the government is poorly organized to make decisions of the sort the Kaiser proposal requires. This has cost us more precious time, and therefore more blood and tears, than any injury which the enemy has done to us.

Did we not lose a year's production of aircraft because in the winter of 1940-41 no one was able to decide whether the automobile industry could be converted to building aircraft? For months and months on end we heard the argument as to whether the automotive industry could or could not do the kind of high precision work which the airplane requires, and there was nobody who had the authority and the knowledge and the gumption to settle the argument.

Couldn't Be Done

For more than a year before Pearl Harbor we heard from responsible men that merchant ships could not be built as fast as Mr. Kaiser and others are now actually building them. The thing could not be done. There weren't enough experienced ship builders, until Mr. Kaiser and the others showed that there were enough men who could learn to build ships.

We have been through the same experience with the navy, which lacked the means of making up its mind early enough to find men to build the types of escort vessels that can be produced by mass production.

We have been through the same performance with synthetic rubber. Two years after the fall of France and the first Japanese move into Indo-China, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Jones and various senate committees are still investigating and debating.

We are having the same performance in the struggle with inflation. Two years after we decided to pour money into armaments we still have nobody, except the President casually, who plans and directs and can make decisions about the whole campaign.

For lack of an orderly way of studying and deciding these large questions of policy we are under an enormous handicap in mobilizing the genius of this country for the conduct of the war.

Mr. Kaiser's proposal is a challenge which can prove the capacity of the government to make decisions. He says that the 70-ton aircraft Mars of the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore can be fabricated in nine existing shipyards at the rate of 10 per month in each yard at the end of three months, and at the rate of 40 per yard per month by the end of a year.

Ford's Feat

Before anyone says that this sounds like Mr. Henry Ford's famous remark that he could build—what was it?—a thousand planes a day, let us remember how much time was lost in letting Mr. Ford go to work to astound the world by building heavy bombers at the rate of one every two hours.

Before anyone goes overboard and announces that shipbuilders cannot make flying boats, let him look back and remember the skeptics who told Admiral Land and Admiral Vickery that Mr. Kaiser could not build cargo ships.

Laymen cannot and should not judge this proposal of Mr. Kaiser's. But they can insist that America's secret weapon is the art of mass production, and that the masters of this art, men like Mr. Ford and Mr. Kaiser, have now proved beyond the possibility of dispute that they can apply it to any object of standardized design, be it a bomber or a ship or a tank or a gun.

The difficulty is not at the scene of production. It is always higher up where the decision has to be taken about what is wanted, and lower down and behind them in getting men who do not fully understand mass production to organize the flow of materials to feed their plants.

Source of Weakness

The triumphs of our war production are at the scene of final production, in the plants and shipyards; the delays and weakness in our war production have been where policy is determined and where conflicting interests have to be reconciled and organized.

The miracles of production take place as the muddles of policy-makers are resolved.

The principal reason for the muddles of policy-making is that the responsibility is divided among men who are overwhelmed by the details of their departments. The heads of the war agencies are really too busy to think; among most of them that 10th of a good man's mind which is the best of his mind is sucked dry by correspondence, interviews, conferences, telephone calls. It is the rarest of exceptions when an American public man organizes himself so that he has time to think, and, indeed, to meditate, while he still has a fresh brain.

AND WE'RE GETTING "OURS"

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, July 21, 1932.

Authority to abandon electric railway service on the Marion-Bucyrus division was granted the C. D. & M. Electric Co. by the state utilities commission at the conclusion of a hearing in Columbus. It was testified that the division had been collecting revenues of approximately $500 a month as compared with operating costs of $1,950 a month.

Two robbers held up Mrs. Paul E. Michel of 203 Willowood court at the souvenir table in the Harding memorial and escaped with approximately $55 after locking her inside a compartment of the memorial. Mrs. Michel climbed a ladder to the top of the memorial and signalled for help.

Mrs. Mary E. Kingel, 84, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Kraner of Superior street.

Plans were announced at Iberia to remove grade school classrooms from a building in which President Harding had obtained part of his college education, and which for 83 years had been used for educational purposes. The building, once a part of Ohio Central college, was to give way to a new school building in that community.

Mercury soared to 99 in Marion and the extremely hot sun was blamed for spontaneous combustion in the attic of the H. A. Walters' farm home southwest of Marion, which resulted in the destruction of the house with a loss of $6,000.

Frank M. Foster, secretary of the Houghton Sulky Co., suffered head cuts and bruises near Celina when a tire blow-out caused his automobile to crash into a bridge.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, July 21, 1922.

Frank Predmore of Norcrosse, Minn., race horse driver, injured in a Monday racing event at the fairgrounds, died of his injuries at the City hospital. He had been thrown from his sulky in a mixup of four horses during a race.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Snair of Bennett street.

Mrs. Edgar Humphrey of Cynthiana, Ky., formerly Miss Grace Culbertson of Marion, was visiting Mrs. C. H. Norris of East Church street.

Youths Under 21 in War

Many Already in Uniform with Parents' Consent.

REGISTRATION of some 600,000 young men of 20 subject to military service, along with approximately 2,400,000 youths of 18 and 19, may postpone pressure to include the latter group in the army. Washington reports are that congress would like to shelve the issue of taking younger men into the army until after the election anyway.

In the last war 49½ per cent of draft registrants aged 20 were placed in Class I. None of these was actually drafted into the armed services, because until Aug. 31, 1918, the induction ages were 21 to 30, both inclusive. On that day the draft ages were made 18 to 45, but registration took place only two months before the end of hostilities.

Based On Past Record

If the same proportion of availability for military service holds good in 1942 as in 1918, some 300,000 youths of 20 soon will be available. However, the proportion may be less than in 1918. For one thing, by midsummer of 1918 the army and navy had ceased to accept enlistments of men in the draft ages (except for those taking army training while remaining at college.) Now the army and navy still are accepting enlistments at the ages of 18, 19 and 20 with consent of parents or guardians, any 20 years olds, otherwise ready for induction, may be found already in uniform.

Second, local draft boards may find it advisable to defer induction of youths finishing their education, especially if they are taking courses in engineering, medicine, etc. (The draft act of 1940 exempted from service bona fide college students only until July 1, 1941.) Many more youths of 20 are at college or professional school now than in 1918. Census figures show that 41 per cent of white selectees inducted into the army in the past two years were high school graduates or had had some college training; the corresponding figure for the first World war was 9 per cent.

Percentages In '17-'18

In 1917-18, 51½ per cent of the registrants aged 19 were placed in Class I, 63½ per cent of those aged 18, 32 per cent of those 25, 22 per cent of those aged 30, only 14½ per cent of those 32-36.

The men of 20 who registered on June 29-30 will have their draft status determined not by lot, but age, with those 20½ at the top of the list and those just turned 20 at the bottom. To some persons, this represents a tacit assumption that youths under 20 should be held out of army life as long as possible. It has been suggested, also, that automatic grouping by age fits in with the European systems of compulsory military training, enforced as certain ages are reached. In Great Britain, the lowest age limit for draft is 18; in Canada it is 21, but the Canadian system is still optional as to foreign service.

Birth Certificates

Every animal at birth gets a special numbered ring to be inserted in the ear. When the animal is slaughtered, the ring must be surrendered to the Germans. If an animal dies, a veterinary must submit a signed death certificate with the ring.

Scrap Rubber Drive Brings Up Several Unyielding Dilemmas for Ethel's Faithful Joseph.

By DAMON RUNYON

Mr. Joe Turp Writes From Brooklyn:

DEAR SIR: Last night my wife Ethel [illegible] Joe I want to tell you something before you hear it from somebody else. Old Missus Pope ses she is going to have me arrested and put in jail. She ses I tried to murder her husband?

I ses well honey bunny did you? Ethel don't joke about it Joe because its very serious. She is telling everybody in the neighborhood that I am just a criminal. I ses has she gone crazy all of a sudden or what? I ses why on earth should she tell a thing like that when you have always been good friends with her and with that broken down old guy of hers too?

Ethel ses no I don't think she has gone crazy but she is terribly mad at me and old Missus Pope is fit to be tied. He is in bed and the pops ses he hears he lays there and uses the most awful language all day long and is very uncomplimentary to me whenever he mentions my name and that he mentions it quite often too. It was all over the rubber collection Joe.

I ses O ho now I am commencing to smell something. I ses baby please don't tell me you have got yourself in more trouble about the ruober business after all the grief I had squaring Brannigans beef when you clipped him for his garden hose? Ethel ses Joe I told you along not to pay any attention to Bill Brannigan because, that old hose was full of holes.

I SES maybe it was sweets but you had a right to take it without asking Brannigan. Ethel ses he wasn't home at the time Joe and when somebody is collecting rubber for the government they cant wait around all day to ask somebody for a little piece of old garden hose full of holes. Besides Brannigan never used that hose for anything except to squirt water on his dog in hot weather. He never had a blade of grass in that teeny little yard of his in years.

I ses well it cost me two bucks and plenty of argument just the same and now I suppose something else of the kind is coming up with the Popes. I ses did you take something more of rubber from them too without asking? Ethel ses no I asked. I asked Missus Pope for anything of rubber she might have around the house and she ses she didn't have anything. I looked in her bathroom Joe and there was one of those rubber mats there that people put in their tubs when they are taking a bath to keep themselves from slipping and sliding.

I ses O yes I remember we had one of those things but I haven't seen it around lately at all Ethel ses of course not. I sent it to the government. Oh I ses I see.

SO ETHEL ses I asked Missus Pope for the rubber mat and she ses she couldn't spare it because her husband liked it and you know that was a most unpatriotic attitude Joe the next day when I saw her down town I went to her house and told Maggie the maid that works for the Popes that Missus Pope she was to give me the rubber mat and Maggie did and I sent it to the government.

I ses well you shouldn't have done that Ethel I ses you let your enthusiasm get the best of you but I guess I can square the Popes with the price of the mat and Ethel ses I don't think so Joe. You see the next morning when he got out of bed old Mister Pope hopped into the tub and his feet flew out from under him because the mat was not there and he came down hard and sprained his back. That is what Missus Pope claims I tried to murder him. I of course thats foolish Joe. I ses of course baby and dont worry any more because old will get you straightened out somehow.

I ses speaking of sprained backs that reminds me that I have got a crick in my from lifting a weight today and I think lie down awhile with the hot water bag me and Ethel ses you can't do that Joe the hot water bag to the government.

Yours truly
Joe Turp

A Campaign To Boost

By JACK STINNETT.

WASHINGTON—The capital and the country ordinarily take only passing notice of national campaigns against this or for that, but one attracting more than superficial attention lately is the "war on the seventh column"—carelessness and accidents.

The campaign was started by an insurance company, but is being taken up already by government, metropolitan newspapers, war production plants and even some of the larger cities.

The reason is simple. The insurance company gathered these facts: carelessness causes the loss of 460,000,000 man-hours of industrial production a year; kills more than 500 persons; and injures 9,000,000 more.

Immediately it became apparent that if it could be halved or cut a third, the saving in manpower and dollars in the war effort would be tremendous. That's why the drive is [illegible] to assume the proportions of an all-out [illegible].

Because most accidents occur in the home because these are just as expensive in manpower as accidents in the factory or on the highway, first attention is being directed there with a nation-wide distribution of "warning" signs at the danger points. A set of simple but inclusive first aid rule stickers are being prepared for pasting inside home medicine [illegible].

Factory surveys are being made with a view to placing warning signs at every danger point. Privately sponsored poster campaigns to catch workers with catch phrases that stick in mind are being conducted in nearly all plants working on government war contracts.

What distinguishes this campaign from others of peace times is summed up in the statement of Bruce Black, president of the company that started it off and adopted the simple seventh-column slogan.

Said Black: "If a man wrecks his car, we pay the money loss, but we can't put a new car in his garage.

"If his house burns down, we can spare him crippling loss, but we can't rebuild his home until after the war is over.

"If a man is injured on the job, we pay his hospital and doctor bills. We can help make good his lost income. But we can't fill his place on America's production line."

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

CHAPTER 29

Up the Dark Stair

IN FRONT of the doorway she hesitated, and looked up and down the street. Suddenly she found herself shivering. Not from cold, for the night was warm, nor from fear, but from the full knowledge of what the delivery of the envelope meant. Until now she had been able to keep this thought well back in her mind. But there it was and she had no choice. Better to betray the secret of Ward Allen's South American trouble than to have the police find out that he was in Perry Clarke's apartment at the time of the murder.

The wooden treads were worn in smooth hollows and each had a sound of its own as she put her weight upon it. In all that stillness the creaking of her progress was loud and disconcerting, but she went steadily upward, one hand on the banister, neither hurrying nor lagging.

In itself, the second floor was dark, the only light coming through a frosted glass panel halfway down on the lefthand side. Although she realized that this must be the office she sought, she paused for a second to orient herself.

There was no sign on the door, just the number 26; and in the lefthand lower corner the notice: Enter 24. She went back to the preceding door, took a breath and knocked.

The effort was weak, as she realized when she heard it, so she knocked again, aware now that some light was also filtering through this panel. Alarm struck at her when there was no answer and she was about to knock again when a muffled voice bade her enter.

"Come in."

She turned the knob, stepped forward, pausing with the door partly open, noting that the room was in darkness and that the light she had noticed came from the adjoining office, the door of which was open. She pushed on, her eyes on the lighted doorway beyond as she felt behind her to close the door.

She was never quite sure what warned her. She heard nothing, saw nothing but the lighted doorway. She sensed rather than felt the threat, and suddenly, with nothing more than a premonition, she knew that someone else was here in this room. Close to her.

Something fell about her and the weight of heavy cloth settled over her head. She screamed once but the sound was stifled at her lips. The quick hard pressure of two arms went about her shoulders and the fabric was rough and tight against her face, and was reflected on his profile.

For that first step or two she peered at him with quickly mounting incredulity; then the tension within her wound up like a spring. That profile, that figure was familiar. The way he carried himself, the sharp angle of nose and jaw. It couldn't be and yet—she knew it was. That man was Raeburn—Don Losado.

He was gone before she could conquer her surprise. The night shadows had swallowed him and she was sitting with her face pressed against the glass staring at the empty sidewalk in front of the dimly-lighted window.

She found her muscles taut and stiff and sat back. Raeburn! So he was the one? Well, there was no need to follow him now. She found relief in this thought. She hadn't really known whether she would be quite up to the task she had set for herself, and now it didn't matter.

She glanced at the electric clock on the instrument panel. Della should be coming out. She looked at the yawning darkness of the doorway and waited. Everything was still now, except for the faint ticking of the clock. She found herself listening for the sound, and presently the ticking seemed to grow more distinct, fashioning an annoying sequence that beat against her eardrums.

It was her nerves. She knew that and told herself she was being silly.

Out Of The Night

When Joyce Murdock saw Della go through the darkened doorway and disappear, she was sitting well forward on the seat, her arms circling the wheel. She remained that way until she realized what she was doing, then she leaned back, found a cigarette and fired it with the car lighter.

Going back over the sequence of events which had led up to this rendezvous, she realized how difficult it would be to commit the perfect crime.

This line of thought ended abruptly in a new and startling conclusion and she wondered why she had not thought of it before. It was the man Della was meeting knew about the envelope and the people who had called on Perry Clarke, wouldn't he know who had killed him? If he had seen two of the three callers that night, why couldn't he know who the third was? Or had he been the third? Was he the killer?

The idea began to screw down the tension. Then her thoughts began to snarl. Why did this man want the envelope? Had he taken the bonds? That he had been the man who had hired the apartment across the hall from Clarke—Kent had told her about this—seemed logical. He had done this to watch Clarke. He knew who had called on him and he probably had access to Clarke's apartment. Who was he? Della didn't know. She had described him but that was all. Suppose they could find out? If they could learn that much it might even be advisable to go direct to the police. With Ward Allen's South American trouble no longer a secret, the envelope was no longer so important; the chief thing now was to learn the identity of the man who knew so much.

Suddenly she knew what she should do. She should try to find out where the man went. Joyce reached for the door handle. She could see the doorway quite well from here but if she tried to leave the car after he came out he would hear her, whereas if she got out now she could stand behind the car, out of sight, and be ready to go.

She got her fingers on the handle. That's where they stayed. Because just then something moved in the shadow of the doorway and assumed the shape of a man.

She leaned a little nearer the car window. Even in the shadows she could see that he was quite tall, and then luck favored her and he turned right, toward the dimly-lighted window adjacent to the doorway and the only relatively bright spot in that part of the block.

The first thing she saw was that he carried something in his hand, something oblong and white which he stuffed in his coat pocket; then he had stepped in front of the window, his figure silhouetted against the light, and in some way a part of that light

Surprises Continue in Big Leagues; French Shuts Out Pirates 5-0

Fans Get Dizzy Trying To Keep Pace with Rapid Changes; Yanks Order Buddy Rosar Back on Job.

By The Associated Press

Baseball has been turned into a game of blind man's buff in the last two or three days and the average fan is "it."

Nobody can tell where a ball player will pop up next.

First Buddy Rosar flew the New York Yankees and they got hold of Rookie Hemsley quicker than you could find a Cincinnati-New York train in a time table.

Then Rosar, traffic, who had been sold by Detroit to Washington, and supposedly quit baseball flew over instead to the Philadelphia Athletics and decided to play some more.

Shuts Out Pirates

And last night Lefty Larry French, the jovial veteran who usually starts a game about once in 10 days, went to the mound in Pittsburgh on one day's rest and hurled a five-hit 5-0 shutout for the Brooklyn Dodgers against the Pirates. The confusion concerning the Yankee catchers continued to be unrivalled, of course. While everybody was trying to understand how Rosar, who was a member of the American league All-Star team and the heir apparent to Bill Dickey's catching mantle, could cold shoulder approximately $12,000 (including his World Series share) to become a cop in Buffalo, his wife gave birth to a son.

Most people probably charged off the whole experience to the vagaries of expectant fathers and Manager Joe McCarthy fined him $250 and ordered him to rejoin the club in Cleveland for a game with the Indians tonight.

The question of how Hemsley, who made only 17 hits in a half a season with Cincinnati in the National league, could make five in one double-header with the Yanks remained a mystery.

French's appearance on the mound at Pittsburgh was almost as unexpected. He was supported by a ten-hit attack that included Dolph Camilli's 14th homer of the year and three hits by Joe Medwick as well as by four double plays.

This increased Brooklyn's National league lead to 6½ games.

All other teams in both major leagues were idle yesterday.

Desautels, Out Since May 10, Rejoins Tribe

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 21—When Cleveland's Indians and New York's World Champion Yankees meet tonight, the eyes of an expected 40,000 fans will be turned on the catching departments of both teams.

Local baseball devotees will get their first gander this year at rollicking Rollie Hemsley, back at his old stamping ground in the stadium. But ex-Indian Rollie will be back-stopping for the rival Bronx Bombers, unless Buddy Rosar comes out of the Buffalo woods and Manager Joe McCarthy gives him the nod.

The "old homerweek" catcher Gene Desautles, out with a broken leg since May 10, will be back in uniform warming up Redskin pitchers.

Probable pitchers in the opener of the three-game series will be Vernon Lefty Gomez and Al Smith.

Reds Open Series with Dodgers

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, July 21 — The Cincinnati Reds open their third invasion of Brooklyn today against the Brooklyn Dodgers, and tomorrow conclude the series with another night game.

Last night the Reds took a 4-3 beating from their Syracuse farm club in 11 innings. The Chiefs scored two runs to grab the victory in the final inning.

Earl Hartzell, pitching his first game for the International league club, held the Reds to four hits, one a homer by Rookie Frank Kelleher.

On the Local Front

LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

HUNDREDS of Marion friends of Jack Stephenson prepared today for the big push in the campaign to obtain a position on the Chicago Tribune's college all-star football team for the giant 1941 Ohio State university grid captain.

Between 200-250 petitions are now in circulation throughout Marion. An additional 150 will be passed out today throughout the industrial area. Virtually every manufacturing area in the city will be covered. Industrialists will be asked to place petitions throughout their plants, preferably in locations frequented often by employes. Time clock areas have been selected as the best sites in most instances encountered by drive workers so far.

While Marion factory workers are rapidly coming to the aid of the son of Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephenson of 188 South Vine street, young Marion boys and girls between the ages of 6-16, are also doing a great job. I happened to drop into the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon at a time when swimming classes were changing. Y officials Jack Coughling and Charles Turner, have made a point of requesting each youth to sign a petition for Stevie before entering the pool.

The results are amazing. Every kid, it seems, likes Jack Stephenson and likes to swim. Would like to see something similar worked out in the playground areas in Marion.

While campaigning the town, many unusual and interesting angles have come to my attention. The thing which has impressed me most is the general popularity of Stephenson with the home folk.

Jack Stephenson is a football idol in the eyes of all Marion. Many regard him as one of the Buckeye school's greatest tackles. Undoubtedly he played some of the most inspired football of any of the recent Buck greats. Jack Stephenson is truly an All-Star and he warrants your wholehearted support.

Nice going so far. Let's win in the backstretch.

With 51,982 votes to his credit, Jack Stephenson today remained in seventh place in a list of 35 tackles eligible to play in the Chicago Tribune's college All-Star football game in Soldiers' field, Chicago, the night of Aug. 28. Leading the list of tackles is Al Blozis (Georgetown) with 96,328 votes. Alf Bauman (Northwestern), Paul Lillis (Notre Dame), Urban Odson (Minnesota), Jim Daniell (Ohio State), Clarence Herndon (Nebraska) and Norville Wallach (Missouri) all have 50,000 or more votes.

Birds Beat Tribe as Blues Lose to Millers.

By The Associated Press

Teams of the American association will take a furlough from their pennant battle after tonight's games so the all-star game can be staged Thursday at Kansas City. And for the league-leading Blues the respite comes just in the nick of time.

The Kansas City team found its margin over the Columbus Red Birds cut to a game and a half after last night's action. While the Blues were losing a battle of home runs to Minneapolis, 7 to 5, the Red Birds were closing up by beating Indianapolis, 3 to 2.

If Kansas City loses again tonight and Columbus wins, that lead will be reduced to one-half game, but the Red Birds can't possibly overhaul the leaders before the all-star game.

Columbus was rolling along behind a string of eight shutout innings by its Bill Crouch. The Red Birds held a 3 to 0 lead over Indianapolis going into the last of the ninth only to have the Tribe put on a two-run uprising which took two Columbus relief hurlers to stifle.

The Milwaukee Brewers, early leaders in the association race, hung tightly to third place by thumping St. Paul, 10 to 5.

The Louisville Colonels, who took a double-header from Toledo Sunday, made it three straight over the Mud Hens with a 13 to 3 decision last night.

LOMBARDI BIDS FOR N. L. BATTING CROWN

Three Bosox Threaten Joe Gordon in Jr. Circuit.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 21—The major leagues may not be having much in the way of pennant races at the moment, but the competition for the batting crowns is wide open.

In the past week big Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves, who won the National league batting championship in 1938, has risen to challenge seriously the leadership of Brooklyn's Pete Reiser while Ted Williams of Boston is hot on the heels of Joe Gordon, the flash of the New York Yankees in the American league.

Reiser, out for several days because of a head injury suffered at St. Louis, has a mark of .350 with Lombardi just five points behind and Joe Medwick, also a former champion, still within range at .335.

Gordon's pace-setting average in the American is .344, seven points better than Williams. Bobby Doerr of Boston is hanging onto third with .333, but Teammate Johnny Pesky has sprung up as a challenger with .326.

NEW YORK, July 21 — (Wide World)—Loads of the Weeks' All the boys were "down" that were turned loose on Rollie Hemsley and the curse of drunk and sullen when the Reds left town on Friday. The Indians' day before rollicking Rollie was turned right upstairs to the Yanks. Treated himself to a mere five hits the first crack out the box. And is on speaking terms with a world series cut this fall.

Once Over Lightly — Did you know the Red Sox put in a phone call to talk terms with Hemsley about three hours after he left home to join the Yanks?... And the Tigers were interested, too. Who remembers when Chet Laabs, the big league's current home run king, was fanned five times by Bobby Feller in the last game of the '38 season?... It's said that if all the Minnesota Hillsides come back from defense jobs to school this year, the Gophers can just about gallop to the Big Ten grid crown again.

Squads Right and Anchors Aweigh—Four thousand soldiers' boys turned out the night Billy Conn referred the boxing show at Fort Monmouth, N. J.... To drum up trade for the Enid, Okla., Flying school vs. Randolph Field army relief ball game, they gave a ride in a jeep to anybody buying a ducat at one booth... My, my—that and a rain-check, too?... Izzy Weinstock, one of Jock Sutherland's better line-busters at Pitt, is trying to make the Keesler Field, Miss., backfield this season. Think that's easy?.. Well, only a dozen national pro league gridders are out for the Keesler outfit.

The Writers Write—Larry French believes he was started too often, at his age, by Jimmy Wilson last year... And Gene (Chicago Times) Kessler wonders about Claude Passeau, who was sent out by Wilson against Brooklyn last Friday with only one day of rest, and was knocked off by the Dodgers for the second time in three days.

Have A Laugh—Abe Greene, the National Boxing association's able prexy, writes to ask if you've heard the story about the fight promoter who had the unhappy experience of a well-padded payroll of fighters and a very emaciated gate for one of his shows... After much deliberation, he climbed into the ring and announced to the scattered customers:

"Folks, I have just received a letter from the Marquis of Queensbury tellin' me I've gotta send him $25 for the privilege of usin' his rules here tonight. So we're now passin' the hat among you."

SYNTHETIC RUBBER BOOST FORECAST

Sen. Norris Cites Increasing Military Demands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 21—Tremendous expansion of the government's synthetic rubber production program was forecast today by Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) as the farm bloc sought to force senate consideration of a measure establishing an independent agency to supervise the manufacture of rubber from grain alcohol.

Norris told reporters he believed the program now directed at the eventual production of 800,000 tons of rubber yearly might be boosted to 2,000,000 tons because of increasing military demands.

If any such expansion were ordered, advocates said they believed production from grain alcohol sources might be relied upon largely for the increase.

The present program allocates 200,000 tons of grain alcohol and the remainder to petroleum sources.

Senator Gillette took the rubber issue before the country in a nationwide radio address last night. He charged that government agencies handling the synthetic program had "fumbled, and to a large extent, failed."

Council Seeks Hospital Funds

mayor told council that he would have the contract ready for its consideration at the next meeting.

Following is the ordinance as it was passed last night:

"Whereas, this council in Ordinance No. 4449 declared the necessity for extending and enlarging the facilities of the Marion City hospital and created the Board of Hospital Commissioners, and,

"Whereas, due to the war emergency it is impossible to get materials to build a permanent addition to the Marion City Hospital, and,

"Whereas, the Board of Hospital Commissioners has deemed it advisable to apply for a grant of federal funds from the Defense Public Works Division of the Federal Works Agency for the remodeling of the building now used as the City Hospital for the construction of a temporary addition to the said City Hospital and for the equipment of said addition, and,

"Whereas, it will be necessary to furnish designs, plans and specifications of the proposed remodeling of, and temporary addition to, the Marion City Hospital to the Federal Works Agency, and is necessary that the Board of Hospital Commissioners of the City of Marion, Ohio, employ an architect to prepare said designs, plans and specifications.

"Now, therefore, be it ordained by Council of the City of Marion, Ohio:

"Section I. That the Board of Hospital Commissioners are hereby authorized to apply for a grant of Federal Funds from the Defense Public Works Division of the Federal Works Agency for the purpose of remodeling the present Marion City Hospital, the erecting of a temporary addition thereto and for the purchase of equipment therefor.

"Section II. That the Board of Hospital Commissioners of the City of Marion, Ohio, be, and they are hereby, authorized to employ an architect or firm of architects to prepare the plans and specifications for the proposed remodeling and temporary addition to the present City Hospital. The architect's remuneration for all work done in connection with said remodeling and temporary addition shall be paid entirely from the funds obtained from the Federal Works Agency. Said Board of Hospital Commissioners are further authorized to enter into a written agreement with said architect or architects for the furnishing of said services, subject however, to the approval of council.

"Section III. That this Ordinance be, and it is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the public peace, health and safety of the citizens of the City of Marion, Ohio, and shall become effective upon its adoption and approval, provided it receives the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all of the members elected to Council, otherwise to become effective at and after the earliest period allowed by law."

Two Not Present

The ordinance was passed unanimously by A. R. Barnhard, Earle C. Johnson, Perry J. Bachelder, John D. Jones, Pearl H. Sells, Harold F. Robinson and Harry Wilhelm. President Robert H. Stief presided.

Motion for suspension of rules for the second reading, made by Mr. Wilhelm, was seconded by Mr. Jones. Mr. Johnson moved to suspend the rules for the third reading and was seconded by Mr. Robinson.

The motion to pass the ordinance was made by Mr. Sells and seconded by Mr. Johnson.

A caucus session in the mayor's office started at 7:40. The mayor read the ordinance and there was little discussion. Mr. Stief, who was at work, was called to preside for the council session and at 8:10 he and council met in the municipal court room and at 8:20 the legislation was passed unanimously.

Two items were brought to council's attention.

Mr. Stief said he had received a bill for $231 from the board of education for expense of 5 rooms at Harding High school. The bill, figured at a rate of 50 cents an hour, covers 1434 hours for first aid classes, and the remaining hours for fingerprinting sessions and air raid wardens' classes. The bill was referred to the finance committee, of which Mr. Wilhelm is chairman. Mr. Johnson presented for consideration by the street and alley committee, a verbal report that at the northeast corner of State and Church streets, the steel form around the step-up to the curb is jutting up and creating a "dangerous" situation for pedestrians.

RUSSIA

Star, Russian army newspaper, that Marshal Timoshenko's men, fighting stubborn rearguard actions southeast of Voroshilovgrad, had withdrawn to new positions.

Evidently the Russians were retiring from the Voroshilovgrad sector to the hill country of the lower Donets basin.

Expect Stand On Don

"They (the Russians) are falling back deliberately with the obvious intention of making their real stand on the banks of the Don," Germany was told by a Berlin radio commentator identified as a General Dietmar.

"We must expect them in their own time to counter-attack with considerable forces."

It appeared to be the German view the Russians would make their major stand along the twisting big bend of the lower Don which flows into the Sea of Azov at Rostov unless, meanwhile, the Voronezh counter-attacks could be developed into a full-scale counter-drive of diversion.

The battle of Voronezh was taking precipitate but inconclusive turns. One Russian group which had driven German forces besieging Voronezh westward to the Don, then plunged into the river without waiting for support, swam and waded to the western bank, and there grappled with the foe.

The Russians claimed to hold the principal crossing of the Don in that region, threatening to cut the retreat of the enemy 10 miles further east before Voronezh.

Rumanians were reported rushed into action to reinforce battered German and Hungarian regiments south of the city in the "V" formed by the Don and its small tributary, the Voronezh river. The Russians were said to have made several crossings in this area to strike at the enemy's prospective reinforcements on the west bank of the Don.

U. S. BOMBERS SINK TWO JAPANESE SHIPS

Raid Challenges Jap Control of Air Over Yangtze.

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 21—Fighter-escorted United States bombers sank two Japanese ships yesterday at the Yangtze river port of Kiukiang, southeast of Hankow, in a raid which challenged Japan's long-held control of the air over her waterway supply route into China.

Not one of the United States planes was damaged, said a communique from the headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell. It said the Japanese ships were of 1,000 to 2,000 tons each.

Presaging an ever-increasing aerial challenge to the invaders, a Chinese government spokesman said the United States would be asked through Laughlin Currie, special adviser to President Roosevelt, for more planes, along with a "rather long list" of other military supplies.

Currie returned to China July 16 with a message of undisclosed contents from President Roosevelt to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Gen. Cheng Tsch-Jen, director of conscription, said China had the manpower to carry out a plan for calling up 2,000,000 new soldiers a year for the next three years to put those arms, and others of her own production, to use against the Japanese.

Cats Never Sleep As They Blast Japs in Aleutians

Someday Nation Will Find Time To Hang Medals on Brave Fliers in Alaska.

This is another of a series of stories by Keith Wheeler, the Chicago Times' correspondent in the Aleutian Islands. Wheeler was the first accredited correspondent to reach Alaska. Attached to the U. S. fleet, he arrived there shortly after the Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor June 3.)

By KEITH WHEELER

(Copyright, 1942, Chicago Times, Inc.)

AT SEA WITH PACIFIC FLEET, June 18 (Delayed)—Someday when the Japs are driven out of Kiska and the Aleutians are blocked as a road to conquest, the people concerned with such things will find time to hang medals on the men flying and fighting this command's Catalina flying boats.

In a war where bravery is common place there has been nothing to excell the stubborn courage with which this handful of men drove the brash Jap back from Dutch Harbor and is now pounding day and night at his bases on Barren, Kiska and Attu.

There were few Catalinas here when the battle began nearly two weeks ago and if there are more today the reason is not that the crews made prudent use of their lives and planes. Every day new planes arrive to replace the fallen.

As might have been expected, the losses have been heavy—heavier than the censor would care to let me say.

Huge, But Slow

The Catalina is a huge, magnificently durable and far ranging airplane, ideal for long patrols and rough landings in these uneasy waters. But you can't have everything. They're big and slow too—and big slow airplanes make nice targets for the opposition.

The Catalinas began to catch it from the first flight of Jap bombers to drop on Dutch Harbor. One was taking off when the bombers came in but he never got free of the water. A marauding Zero cut him up with machine-gun fire, killed two men, wounded a third and set the plane afire as it ran aground.

During the first day another Catalina was forced down at sea and abandoned 15 miles from shore. Next day another was shot down in flames off Unalaska, her crew dead at their stations.

Still another went hunting for the Jap carriers hiding in the mist and didn't come home.

In the first 48 hours of the invasion the Catalina landed only when too tattered to fly any longer or when they ran out of fuel.

A Catalina sleuthed back and forth through patches and fingers of fog until he found one carrier. Thereafter, he stuck to the enemy like a process server despite the pestering Zeros. He stayed until the ack-ack shot away his rudder and later crashed at sea.

One Catalina found a large Jap sub on the surface and let a bomb go at about 400 feet. That was foolish, for Catalinas aren't fast enough to get away from an explosion that close. She limped home with one engine disabled by her own bomb. There wasn't time to stay and see what happened to the sub.

Day after day the snooping Cats nosed out the carriers only to be met time and again by Zeros viciously determined to protect their floating airdrome.

No Rest for Cats

When the Japs faded into the fog and stayed there four days the Catalinas had earned a rest but didn't take it. Instead they widened the sphere of searches for the elusive visitors from Honshu.

On June 10 a Catalina found the first Jap ships in Kiska harbor. At the first contact only two large vessels lay inside guarded by two patrol boats at the harbor entrance.

Next day a Catalina discovered Jap landing forces on Attu at the very end of the Aleutian chain. Through fog, snow, rain, wan daylight and pale night the Cats have been freighting bombs to Kiska ever since.

Even before the Kiska bombing marathon began the Catalinas began to take revenge for the beating they had suffered from the Japs. One shot down an attacking Zero fighter. One sank a submarine, the second sinking of the war of the mists, according to my information.

They made direct hits on a light cruiser and a transport. They sank several Gargantuan Kawanishi flying boats with bullets and bombs. They set off huge explosions among the close-packed Jap ships in Kiska. They recorded near misses on another light cruiser and destroyer. All this they accomplished in addition to their primary mission of keeping the enemy under observation.

Latest Action Of Nationalists in India Criticized

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst

With much reluctance one records that among the gravest of the many threats which beset the allied cause in this fateful summer is th claiest move of the All-India Congress (Nationalists), backed by Mohandas K. Gandhi, to compel Britain to withdraw completely from rule of Hindustan.

The quarrel between the Indian Nationalists and the British has ceased to be a family affair and now threatens the security of the whole allied world.

Britain is damned if she does and damned if she doesn't. Should she withdraw from rule—which she won't—it would plunge the country into chaos because of the bitter political, religious and social conflicts.

This fateful resolution still has to be ratified by the general committee of the Congress at Calcutta on Aug. 8.

Whether Britain gave in or fought it, India would be laid wide open to invasion by the Japs.

Under the circumstances it's doubtful whether Britain alone could defend the Indian empire. This absolutely vital strategical base, which stands between the Japs and the Axis, would go by the board if John Bull were left to face the storm alone. This huge arsenal, upon which the Allies depend so greatly, would be lost.

And what would the United States be doing? Naturally this column can't speak for the Washington government, but it would be passing strange if the United States didn't employ force in India to save that vast empire from falling into Jap hands.

WORKERS SEARCH FOR FIVE BURIED IN SLATE

Explosion Kills Seven at Virginia Mining Camp.

By The Associated Press

OAKWOOD, Va., July 21—Power shovels searched through tons of slate today for five of seven persons killed when a mammoth section of an abandoned "gob pile," torn off by exploding gases, toppled into a mining camp.

The bodies of Mrs. Howard Estep, who begged rescue workers to "please cut off my leg and let me out of here," and her small son lay in a mortuary.

Officials of the Oakwood Smokeless Coal Co., whose abandoned slate pile rolled into the dwellings, listed as still missing Mrs. Estep's two other sons and two daughters, and Mrs. Theodore Crabtree.

At least six persons were hospitalized as the result of the Buchanan county coalfield's unusual accident.

An official of the Oakwood company attributed the blast to weather conditions which he said produced gas in the continuously burning slag.

Says Jap Preparations for Attack Complete

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 21—Japanese preparations for an attack on Russia's Siberian maritime province and Vladivostok are almost complete and if necessary the Japanese could "press the button and start to move into Siberia," a British source declared today.

This source said the occupation of islands of the western tip of the Aleutians resulted in a useful development extending the Japanese zone as placed them "on the flank of a possible American attack on Japan."

CINDERELLA

MRS. WALTER PEW JR.
Gas Station Bride

Scion of Oil Family Weds Station Attendant

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 21—Walter C. Pew Jr., and his gas station Cinderella were honeymooning today in a new Philadelphia story that started when Dan Cupid traded his bow and arrow for a grease gun.

Pew, an heir to the Sun Oil Co. fortune, and Miss Sophie Boychuck, pretty, blonde attendant at a Sun filling station, were married last night.

And though Philadelphia's Main Line has always seemed a long way from Parrish street, this romance has the blessing of both families.

The young couple—both gave their ages as 23 in taking out a license—met several months ago when the Sun company began hiring girl attendants to replace men called into service.

Young Pew, son of the general manager and great-grandson of the founder of Sun oil, has been working around the stations to learn the business. Friends say he's only 19.

The bride's father is a metal cutter.

GIRL BRIDE HELD

FOUR MERCHANTMEN SUNK IN ATLANTIC

By The Associated Press

Undersea raiders were credited by the navy yesterday with having picked off four more merchantmen in the western Atlantic recently but they also were pictured as having "missed the boat" during big transAtlantic convoy operations last winter.

After announcing the recent torpedo sinkings of three American cargo vessels and a small Swedish merchantman, the navy disclosed that a single task force had escorted 2,490 merchant craft across the north Atlantic last winter with a loss of only eight ships.

The four sinkings announced yesterday, together with a fifth reported in dispatches from a Yucatan (Mexico) port, put at 390 the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of allied and neutral wartime merchant vessel losses in the western Atlantic.

Seventy-seven seamen were killed or missing and 130 rescued in the newly-announced attacks.

REVENUE BILL GOES TO SENATE TODAY

Indication of Opposition to Business Tax Seen.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 21—Overwhelmingly approved by the house, the $6,271,000,000 revenue bill went to the senate today amid signs that vigorous efforts would be made there to reduce substantially the measures unprecedentedly high taxes on business.

Even before routine assignment of the bill to the finance committee for study, Chairman George (D-Ga) told reporters he considered it "too steep", the combined normal and surtax levy of 13 per cent voted by the house on most corporation income.

George said he was not particularly concerned with the action of the house yesterday in jacking up the tax on excess profits to 90 per cent.

The house passed the record-breaking bill, 392 to 2, yesterday.

It provided total increases of $2,640,700,000 in corporation taxes, $2,872,100,000 in individual levies, with additional amounts in miscellaneous and excise levies.

3 CHILDREN FOUND CHAINED AND LOCKED

Parents and Brother Arrested on Cruelty Charges.

By The Associated Press

SCOTTDALE, Ga., July 21—Three small children were given sanctuary in a juvenile detention home today after Police Chief J. T. Dalley said they were found in the shadeless backyard of their home with a 30-foot log chain padlocked around their necks as parental punishment for taking "20 or 25 cents."

The police chief quoted the father, Archer R. Burney, as saying: "I don't like to keep on whipping them, so this is the method I used to punish them. One of them took 20 or 25 cents from a purse I used to keep old coins in. None of them would admit who did it so I chained them up until one would confess."

Burney and his wife, along with a 16-year-old son, A. D. Burney, were charged with cruelty and jailed under bond of $5,000 each. The charge against the younger Burney arose from complaints of neighbors that he had previously locked the children in a garage.

NEW OHIO LIBRARIAN TO BE SELECTED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 21—Kenneth C. Ray, state director of education, said today the state library board would be called into special session probably this week to select a new librarian.

Ray is chairman of the board.

Paul A. T. Noon resigned as librarian recently following a dispute over expense accounts and Ray said there were five or six applicants for the $8,000 post. Howard Chambers has been serving temporarily.

Gov. John W. Bricker has said he wanted a trained librarian rather than an educator selected for the position.

Tires for Everybody Is Latest Proposal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 21—The rubber industry today proposed a plan which it said would provide usable tires for everybody for at least the next two years.

This became known in connection with an exhibit prepared by the industry in a Washington hotel to demonstrate to government officials and the press means of utilizing the industry's facilities to make as many tires as possible under war conditions.

A feature of the program is that new tires would be made out of thiokol, a substance heretofore believed to be usable only for recapping. Thiokol is a new substance something like rubber, for which the war production board has given a go-a-head on production for tire uses.

Weighing only four pounds, a self contained, battery operated combination radio transmitter and receiver with a range of a mile or more [illegible] has been invented by a Detroit man.

INVESTMENTS LIFT STOCKS

Inflation Theme Still Soft; Selected Issues Up Fractions To Point or So.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 21—Investment, rather than speculative, forces continued to provide the main bolstering influence for today's stock market and selected issues were lifted fractions to a point or so.

Passage by the house of the record tax bill seemingly had been pretty well discounted. The inflation theme still was on the soft side.

Among stocks Santa Fe went to a new peak since 1940. Good performers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck and American Telephone. Western Union, Texas Co., Kennecott and Pullman slipped.

The ability of railway stocks and bonds generally to hold their own, in the face of the recent market attack of inflationary fever—the transportation group is notably in the non-inflation class—was viewed by financial quarters as a healthy indicator.

Market analysis derived mild encouragement from the federal reserve summary disclosing that the lengthy decline in loans to commerce, industry and agriculture apparently had halted.

Trend students noted the preliminary estimate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, indicating department store sales in this district last week were unchanged on dollar value from the comparable period a year ago.

WHEAT MARKET RISES TO A CENT A BUSHEL

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 21—Some buying by houses with milling connections and a letup in hedging pressure enabled the wheat market to advance about a cent a bushel again today.

An upturn in cotton and further gains in live hogs stimulated the demand for wheat and other grains. Hogs advanced to a top of $15.15, or the highest level in almost 22 years.

Outside participation in the market was relatively light and traders said many interests were awaiting the outcome of anti-inflation developments in Washington.

Ticket Recalls Lotteries of Early California

By International News Service

ROSEVILLE, Cal.—While arguments rage over establishment of a national lottery to raise war funds, days of an early California lottery which paid its weekly winner $20,000 are recalled with exhuming of a ticket entitling its holder to a one-sixteenth chance.

The ticket, discovered when workmen pulled down an ancient building, was issued by the "Original Nacional Company," established in San Francisco in 1887.

The "M & F" lottery, as it was popularly known, was a famous institution in the colorful California city until its discontinuance some 27 years ago.

Tickets were sold everywhere—in barbershops, saloons, cigar stands and hotels—and hundreds of tickets were sold on the streets by "hustlers."

On the weekly drawing night all of San Francisco turned out for announcement of lucky numbers, and any bank would gladly cash a winning ticket.

Only 20,000 tickets, costing $4 each, were issued, but each ticket could be split up into 16 coupons, costing 25 cents each.

A two-bit coupon could win $1,250, and $4 ticket awards ranged from the $20,000 top prize down to $20, a total of 575 wards totaling $51,800 weekly.

British Drive Nazi Submarines from Attacks on Ships at Home

By International News Service

LONDON—Although submarine attacks on merchant ships continue almost daily on the American side of the Atlantic Ocean, it was claimed in London today that U-boats have been almost driven out of British waters.

Because of the losses on the American Atlantic seaboard, it was admitted that the battle of the Atlantic is not going very well.

But on the British side, the spring and early summer haven't produced the losses which at one time were expected. Convoy after convoy, some of them the largest in history, has crossed in safety sometimes without meeting a single submarine or meeting with air attacks on this side of "submarine alley."

Authorities agree that once the convoy system gets thoroughly organized by the American Navy, there will be no more easy targets for the run on U-boat successes has depended on their submarines being able to attack unprotected ships sailing singly in daylight.

Attacks Too Hazardous

Attacks on convoys on the British side of the Atlantic have today been made so hazardous, it is claimed, that for some time they have been attempted only at night. The British navy is using many new methods of detection and interception. These are available to the American navy, and will be used as the convoy situation becomes routine on the other side of the Atlantic.

In effect, U-boats operating the British side of the ocean have almost been driven to operate as torpedo-boats. They loose their torpedoes and trust to their high surface speed of 17 to 18 knots to escape in the darkness. Such tactics impose a great strain on the submarine commanders, while crews find the endless cramping at night, with constant danger, very wearing on the nerves.

Reliable information received here says that U-boats continue to be built on such production lines that losses of this sort have been met by the navies for the present. Some of these on the German production program are ...

Their range is almost unlimited. They are known to be able to stay at sea for 50 or 60 days but 21 to 30 days is the normal limit on this nerve-wracking job. They can cross the Atlantic in from eight to nine days, carry 14 torpedoes, and as soon as these are used they make for their base. Suggestions the subs refuel and re-equip themselves from mother ships at secret meeting places far out in Atlantic are not seriously believed here.

Prisoners from captured or destroyed submarines declare they are very well provisioned. In addition, when on leave they are given free railroad passes and other benefits, plus supplementary food rations.

Closely checked information indicates that on this side of the Atlantic at least, the U-boats no longer hunt in packs, as they did last winter, but for greater safety now operate singly or at most in pairs.

Swing and Sway in Ireland To Hot U. S. Music

By International News Service

WITH THE ARMY, SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN IRELAND—Red hot American swing music is echoing through the wild glens of Antrim and through the emerald green fields of County Down these still Irish summer nights.

Boogie Woogie has displaced the Sweet Rose of Strabane and jitterbug swing has all but made the blue-eyed Irish colleens forget the sheen of the Irish jig.

Its Swing and Sway

For the doughboy of the AEF has brought his own American enthusiasm and way of life with him to northern Ireland, and while the romantic strains of Kathleen Mavourneen and Danny Boy may be the ideal for sweet harmonizing when he takes his fellow strolling in the soft twilight of the hedge-lined Irish lanes, he wants the fast down-beat of "Beat Me Daddy With a Solid Four," "Chattanooga Choo-choo" and "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" when it's time to swing and sway.

The first wintry weeks after the initial contingent of the AEF arrived in northern Ireland were days of hard work in the business of an army in the field settling down in unfamiliar camps amid strange surroundings in a land 3,000 miles from home.

There was no time for leisure in the grim business of preparing to fight and no leaves granted.

Form Own Swing Bands

But gradually the time came when the doughboy could go into town for occasional dances or have his own hops in the camp recreation centers. He found the local dance orchestras fair enough but not equal to Eddie Duchin or Sammy Kaye. So, with typical American ingenuity, the doughboy quickly got together his own hot swing dance bands.

Two in particular are now turning out American swing music of a brand equal to some of the top bands back home. They are so much in demand by the various units that are in camps scattered far and wide over Ulster that they are booked many weeks in advance.

One, which dubbed itself the "Rhythm Majors," is a 13-piece big time dance band and is composed of boys from Iowa.

Eight from One Iowa Town

Eight of the boys come from one small Iowa town—Fairfield. They are Sergeants John Jackson, Gordon Rhue, Richard Warner, Donald Hartman and Wesley Hamm and Privates Max Jacobson and Merle Simpson.

Twenty-year-old Don Hartman of Fairfield has been playing the drums since he was eight years old.

The director is Trumpeter Oren Weir of Waterloo, Ia., a graduate of Iowa State Teacher's college.

The other orchestra was formed by Lieut. Archibald Fishberg of New York City, who used to play with Rudy Vallee. It has eight pieces.

To get the band going, Lieut. Fishberg rented the necessary instruments. For violin strings he had to use surgical sutures, for violin catgut is unprocurable here in wartime, but the boogie woogie downbeat comes out just the same.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D

Nature of Constipation

THE LATEST out of the little series "Help Your Doctor to Help You" is on the subject of constipation. It starts out by saying it is not easy to define constipation because the slowing of bowel movements that is normal for one man can constitute distress in another. One persons says he is constipated because he has to take a cathartic every evening; he doesn't have to take a cathartic, he simply has gotten into the habit of taking one.

Another person is suffering from constipation because while he is perfectly regular he has been told by some crank that he ought to have three or four movements a day. Evidently the only definition which suits all cases is to say that constipation consists in bowel sluggishness sufficient to worry the individual.

There are two main types of constipation: one the chronic type which has pursued the individual all his life, which is due mostly to the nervous strain and hurry of civilized life and poor eating habits; the other is the sudden acute form which comes out of a clear sky to afflict a person, usually a middle aged patient, who has always been normal before. The latter type is likely to mean some serious disease and should be investigated.

In examining a patient with constipation to see what the type is, it is most important to get a good history. The kind of person the constipation hits is far more important than the kind of constipation the person has. A general examination to assess the health and nutrition is the second step. The lower bowel can be examined by an electrically lighted tube to see if there is any local disease and an X-ray of the entire digestive system will show the rate at which food passes through and where, if any place, the stoppage is.

In following a meal through the digestive tract, it is almost the rarest thing in the world to find any stoppage between the end of the stomach and the beginning of the large bowel. The meal sometimes is delayed in leaving the stomach and this, of course, is associated with certain forms of constipation. Even more rarely it is found that the meal is delayed in going from the gullet into the stomach. But after leaving the stomach it goes through the small intestine at a very rapid rate, a great deal of it being absorbed and taken to the liver for nutritional purposes.

In the large bowel (colon), however, movement suddenly becomes sluggish. This has nothing to do with the shape or appearance of the colon. People are often frieghtened by seeing an X-ray picture which reveals that the colon is decidedly abnormal in shape, but this has nothing to do with its ability to function.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

AS THE door closed behind my father and Ruth Hayes, Rodric rushed over to me and put his arm around my shoulders.

"You must lie down, Aunt Madge and let me get you—what—smelling salts—a dose of aromatic ammonia—brandy? I knew what to do for Mother, and I knew you must have something. I never saw anybody so white."

He impelled me toward the couch but I twisted free of him and sank down in the nearest chair.

"Just let me sit here," I said. "I am perfectly all right, and my pallor is the result of anger, not weakness. I am appalled at myself. I did not know I had the desire for murder in me."

"But you need—" he said.

"I need nothing," I told him, "save to pull myself together. But if you'll hand me my purse I'll take out the lavender smelling salts I always carry to keep from falling asleep while driving."

Reproaches Her Father

He brought the purse to me, his face still anxious and demurring, and I took a deep whiff of the salts, chiefly to gratify him. When my father opened the door and saw this he hastened toward me.

"Margaret!" he said, his voice sharp with anxiety. "This has been too much for you."

"Please sit down, both of you," I said sharply. "I am perfectly all right, only so filled with anger at that woman that I find difficulty in breathing. And—you let her go," I finished reproachfully.

"I let her go the length of her chain," he said significantly.

"Oh, I might have known," I said. "You mean you are having her trailed."

Ruth Being Trailed

"Every step of whatever tortuous way she means to pursue," he answered.

"You think that may lead you to Jack?" I asked hesitantly.

"She has no more idea of Jack's whereabouts than—we have," he said, and I indexed for further consideration his slight hesitation. "But she is an agent of the gang hunting him; possibly the most dangerous one because of her personal venom against him."

"Trailing her may put us into contact with other members of the gang besides Stephen Redfield and the gifted Mr. Milner."

With sudden determination I braced myself for conflict.

"Look here, Father," I said. "I told you a little while back that when I could stand it no longer, I meant to ask you to release me from my promise not to tell Katharine about your proof that the letter she received purporting to come from Jack was a forgery."

Overheard by Katharine

I braced myself to meet his displeasure, but he was surprisingly mild.

"What about Katharine?" he asked. "Is she near the breaking point also?"

"Indeed she is," I answered. "Only her will power is keeping her up."

"Then," my father said judicially, "she probably will be in a receptive mood to hear the truth. You know as well as I do that she would not have listened to either of us before."

I looked at him intently.

"Then," I said tensely, "you are giving me permission to tell Katharine the truth?"

"To tell me what truth, Madge?" Katharine said from the door.

The Stars Say—

Exceptional opportunity for expanding the position and prestige is promised. This may be accompanied by financial growth and credit. Matters aimed at this end should be extremely lively and eventful, probably through travel, contacts and agreements, through agencies, communications, writings and other meritorious contracts or correspondence.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a successful and prosperious year if they will take advantage of glowing and expansive conditions. There are signs of increase of funds and credit, with new programs of brilliant ideas having appeal from those in power and high station. Also there may be advancement by means of travel, writings, agencies and new ventures.

A child born on this day should have much practical versatility, with lofty ambitions and much acumen. Its friendly nature may invite imposition or fraud.

RUHR VALLEY TARGETS HIT IN RAF RAIDS

British Planes Renew Attack as Prelude to Relief of Russian Forces.

By The Associated Press.

The aerial offensive with which the British are whipsawing at German power in western Europe, disconcerting the foe in advance of any more forthright second front action, cut with destructive, fiery force last night at Duisburg and other Ruhl Valley targets.

The raids in the Duisberg area at the confluence of the Ruhr and Rhine rivers, part of Germany's great western industrial belt, were the work of 300 planes, and from these and "intruder" actions over enemy airdromes in France and the low countries during the night 13 bombers were missing.

British air power in Africa, already bolstered by United States air forces, also fell furiously upon Axis positions and equipment on and behind the El Alamein front where a concentration of more than 1,000 Axis vehicles was bombed. Ground fighting in the battle of Egypt had reverted to artillery duelling.

U. S. Aid Likely

The prospect of imminent United States army air force participation in Britain based attacks on the German rear was stressed indirectly in London dispatches which also sharpened speculation when Russia might be relieved of some of the current German pressure toward Stalingrad, Rostov and the Caucasus oil fields.

It was reliably disclosed in London that several new airdromes had been built to accommodate the growing air forces of the United States in the British Isles and while members of the American force are seen in increasing numbers in Britain they have yet to join the RAF in its powerful assaults on Germany.

The first bombers bearing United States insignia have appeared over London. The United States forces will go into action as a separate unit, not only with bombers but also with their own fighters and reconnaissance planes.

Many Fires Started

"Many large and widespread fires" were kindled last night at Duisburg, the British air ministry said. The city had been last raided at night on July 13 and the Germans said it was attacked by daylight last Saturday.

In German counter-action against Britain, a few bombs were dropped last night at scattered points in the east of England, the British announced. Some damage but no casualties were reported. One of the attacking planes was destroyed.

With British and U. S. military and political leaders in London engaged in strategy talks, the British press with peculiar editorial unanimity suddenly reverted to virtual silence today on the second front question. The Daily Express covered Prime Minister Churchill's conference of yesterday with British and United States strategists in three paragraphs.

Meanwhile Tass, official Russian news agency, pointedly related a report that eight German divisions—perhaps 120,000 men—had been withdrawn recently from France and the low countries.

The British confirmed like reports a week ago but said the removals were not garrison troops but new divisions formed and trained in the occupied territories.

"Tons upon tons are leaving for the eastern front daily," said the Tass dispatch.

STEEL WORKERS SET OUT TO WIN WAGE BOOST

Work for Payment in Eight Other Steel Companies.

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 22—The CIO United Steel workers set out today to win for 400,000 employes of eight other steel companies the 44-cent-a-day wage increase which the war labor board awarded 225,000 employes of the four "Little Steel" companies.

The increase would add approximately $120 a year to each man's pay, or about $48,000,000 annually for the 400,000 employes of the U. S. Steel Corporation, Jones & Laughlin, Pittsburgh Steel Co., the Great Lakes and Reiss furnace subsidiaries of the National Steel Corporation, Crucible, Wheeling Steel and Allegheny Ludlum. The present average wage in the industry is $5.80 a day.

In addition, the CIO wants from the eight firms approximately $20,000,000 in back pay because the WLB in its "Little Steel" decision made the wage increase retroactive to February 6.

CHECK AKRON MEAT SHORTAGE

OPA Investigator from Cleveland Sent To Inquire Into Delivery Reports.

By The Associated Press.

AKRON, O., July 22—A meat shortage developed today in this rubber capital and Birkett Williams, regional OPA administrator at Cleveland, immediately sent an investigator to inquire into packers' reports that deliveries here were off 50 to 75 per cent because of new price regulations.

Some stores reported they were out of meat and the proprietor of a concern with five stores said he had only five head of dressed cattle in his refrigerators against a normal 30.

President George Galat of the Galat Packing Co., declared the shortage was "due to an impossible situation which was created when OPA set ceiling prices on wholesale and retail prices of meat but failed to put a ceiling on the price of livestock."

"Cattle are now selling on the hoof for approximately $2 a hundred-weight more than in March, when ceiling prices were established. The result is the packers simply cannot afford to pay the present prices, sell at March prices, and still show a profit. Rather than operate at a loss, they have greatly reduced their livestock purchases and as a result a serious shortage has developed."

William said:

"I think the situation is general to some extent, but whether it is as bad in other places I don't know. This is the first news I've had other than a smattering of here, there and yonder. I don't have any more idea of what is causing it, but we're going to find out promptly and try to correct it."

Some packers who declined to be named told the Beacon Journal new regulations effective July 13 brought the situation to a head. These regulations made changes in grading of cuts or beef and veal, in which the principal shortages were reported here.

One dealer reported he was paying 23½ to 24 cents a pound for a cut of beef that he cannot sell for more than 22 cents under the maximum price ceiling. Another reported veal costing 30 cents dressed had to be sold for 25 cents.

Admiral Leahy Becomes President's Staff Chief

Appointment Made Amid Crisis in General Shipping Situation.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22—Blunt, outspoken Admiral William D. Leahy became President Roosevelt's chief of staff today amid disclosures of a grave crisis in the shipping situation and of sharpening warfare off Alaska.

There was immediate speculation that the President would create a supreme army-navy general staff about the granite-faced sailor and diplomat who listens long and talks short and who represented at Vichy America's friendship for a broken France.

Mr. Roosevelt announced Leahy's appointment late yesterday and said the admiral would assume his duties immediately. Confronting the chief of staff as he took office was a report by the war shipping administration that shipping losses during the week of July 12 were the highest since the war began and that sinkings of United Nations vessels have greatly exceeded new construction.

The navy, meanwhile, announced the sinking of three more Japanese destroyers by United States submarines in the vicinity of the Aleutian island of Kiska. This brought Japan's losses in the Aleutian area to six destroyers, one transport and one cruiser sunk; one destroyer probably sunk; and four cruisers, two destroyers, one aircraft carrier, one gunboat and one transport damaged.

18 Sunk and Damaged

These 18 ships sunk and damaged went to pay for Japanese occupation of three islands—Kiska, Attu and Agattu—all at the western extreme of the Aleutian chain. The navy said that army bombers recently made several attacks on the Japanese encampment at Kiska and on ships in Kiska Harbor.

"United States army and navy aircraft are continuing joint operations against the enemy forces," the communique concluded.

On the shipping crisis, the shipping administration gave this report:

"Shipping losses during the week of July 12 reached their highest level since the beginning of the war. While construction in American shipyards is breaking all records, sinkings of United Nations ships through enemy action and marine casualties have greatly exceeded new construction.

"Construction of new merchant tonnage in Great Britain continues within the limits of its available supply of labor and materials but the volume is not large. The great bulk of new shipping must come from American yards supplemented by the production of Canadian yards, which turn out a relatively small tonnage compared to the United States."

ADMIRAL LEAHY

The report said that because of losses the shipping administration has had to "accelerate the application of its policy to limit space in ships under its jurisdiction to cargoes essential to prosecution of the war, whether the cargoes are for export or for import."

This policy, it said, has been applied through the United Nations shipping poll to all ships.

Under Supreme Staff

Shipping losses, the Alaskan battle and all military aspects of the war would come under a supreme general staff.

Military and naval men who declined to be quoted by name talked of the possibility that such an unprecedented command organization might include General George C. Marshall, army chief, and Admiral Ernest J. King, director of naval operations.

Whether an air officer might also be named was not known but the name of Lieut. General Henry H. Arnold, chief of army air

Shovel Co. Profit Report Covers 6-Month Period

The Marion Steam Shovel Co. financial report made public yesterday covered the first six months of 1942 instead of a three-month period as reported in last night's issue of The Star.

To correct the error, The Star herewith is publishing the text of the financial report as issued by the company:

"We advise that for the six months period ended June 30, 1942, this company's profit (unaudited) amounted to $1,147,185.45 after deducting bond interest of $45,103.85, depreciation charged to cost of operations of $74,815.80 but before federal income taxes.

"It is estimated that this profit will be subject to federal income taxes amounting to $917,748.36 (based on bill now under consideration by house of representatives) leaving a net profit for the period of $229,437.09."

$12,000 BOND ISSUE AUTHORIZED FOR CITY

The state board of tax appeals authorized the city of Marion today to issue $12,000 in bonds in anticipation of delinquent tax collections, to provide funds for 1942 poor relief. The Associated Press reported.

Mayor Russell C. Snare said he had not been informed of the authorization and that as soon as he receives formal notification steps would be taken to draw up legislation to be presented to city council.

He added that if council approves the action, bonds would probably be issued as money is needed to carry on the relief program. Funds now on hand are sufficient to carry on the city's share of poor relief work, Mayor Snare said.

MARION SCRAP METAL GOAL IS 500 TONS

Receptacles at City Parking Lot Filling Stations.

Marion's quota in the nationwide salvage drive for scrap iron, steel and other metals is 500 tons, George Alber, of the salvage committee announced today.

It is a direct and personal obligation to all the boys on all fronts, to salvage every piece of metal in the city and county, Mr. Alber said in announcing the quota. This so-called "scrap" which goes into the furnaces to make the steel for tanks, ships and guns is actually refined steel with most impurities removed. Some of the finest quality steels are made 100 per cent from scrap.

Everything from the old griddle and three-legged iron kettle to garbage cans, old radiators and other discarded household utensils as well as farm machinery are needed for tanks, ships, guns, all machines and arms of war.

Containers have been placed at the city parking lot and at the filling stations for the contributions of salvage now being solicited by the Marion County Salvage committee of which Mr. Alber and Clyde C. Caldwell, city service and safety director, are co-chairmen. The local drive is a part of the nationwide drive announced recently by Donald M. Nelson WPB chairman.

In addition to scrap iron and steel the materials to be collected are brass and other nonferrous metals, rubber, rope and fats.

ALLIES DRIVE AXIS FROM AIR OVER AFRICA

Bombers and Fighters Range Far from Bases, Meeting Little Opposition.

By The Associated Press.

CAIRO, July 22—The Allied air forces have virtually driven the Germans out of the sky over the North African battle area, British military sources said today.

These sources, whose identity it was not permitted to disclose, said hardly any enemy air activity was observed yesterday by bombers and fighters which ranged far beyond the El Alamein front, blasting at large concentrations of axis vehicles and attacking the Nazi supply base in Crete.

Ground fighting, meanwhile, had settled into artillery duelling, British general headquarters reported.

Suda Bay, island of Crete, was attacked, "in force" and direct hits were scored on two vessels, the communique reported. A near miss was scored on a larger ship and a pier was set afire.

In the central sector of the 40-mile desert plane, allied bombers attacked a concentration of about 1,000 axis vehicles and started many fires, the communique said.

In the actual desert fighting yesterday, action was confined mainly to artillery fire at the northern end of the front west of El Alamein, it was reported.

U. S. Anti-Aircraft Blast Met Jap Raid at Dutch Harbor

Unalaska Island Prepared When Foe Struck; Gave Raiding Enemy Planes Stiff Battle.

This is one of a series of stories by Keith Wheeler, the Chicago Times' correspondent in the Aleutian Islands. Wheeler was the first accredited correspondent to reach Alaska. Attached to the U. S. fleet, he arrived there shortly after the Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor June 3. The stories have been released for publication by the navy.

AT SEA WITH PACIFIC FLEET (Delayed)—The war of the mists began June 3 with the first Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor, America's base on Unalaska Island.

That was the day before the stepsons of heaven commenced their wholesale hara-kiri of Shinto and men in the neighborhood of Midway Island.

The Japs appeared from the morning murk at 8:09 a. m., 15 fighters clearing the way for four Kokeliki carrier-based bombers.

Zero fighters came down and splattered machine gun bullets on shore installations, barracks, warehouses, the radio station and several Catalina flying boats in the harbor, killing two crew men on one Cat.

The bombers laid a stick of 18 200-pound bombs in the neighborhood of Fort Mears. Barracks and warehouses in the fort installation were hit and began to burn.

Plane Driven Off

A Zero attacked another Catalina in the air, but the big boat's gunners fought him off. An American fighter pilot was severely injured after being shot down by Zeros.

The anti-aircraft began to snort and bellow all around the harbor as the first Jap plane broke through the mist. Gunners on a seaplane tender lying in the harbor knocked down two fighters and a bomber, and hits were claimed on others.

Unlike Pearl Harbor, Dutch Harbor was ready for attack with everything but weather. Weather along the Aleutians is never favorable for anything but getting lost.

Our Catalinas and the army's big Fortress bombers were out searching even before the first plane appeared. Within an hour of the second attack one Cat, swooping through the mist, stumbled on an aircraft carrier lurking south of Umnak, the next big island west of Unalaska.

Downs Jap Plane

A ranging P-39 fighter encountered two Jap cruiser type observation planes in Umnak pass and shot one down in flames. The other got away. Other enemy planes were seen 200 miles farther east off Sandpoint on Popof Island in the Shumagin group.

Dutch Harbor found the going hotter when the second attack materialized shortly after noon. The first planes had stayed 9,000 feet up to drop their loads.

The second wave by three closely-spaced three-plane bomber sections was the Jap version of dive bombing. American dive bombers favor letting go all holds and coming down in vertical plunges. The Japs dive at angles of 30 to 40 degrees, but seem to do fairly well with their method.

They dropped six sticks of three 500-pound bombs each, shooting for the navy radio installation and fuel tanks. They

RENT COMPLAINTS FILED WITH BOARD

2 Registered as Group Starts Operations.

Registering of complaints with the Marion county rent control board got under way today.

By 9:30 this morning two landlords had filed complaints against tenants with Carl Haberman, clerk to the board. One complaint involved a case already pending in municipal court, and it probably will be heard at the first meeting of the board Monday night at 7:30 in the common pleas courtroom.

Complaints which are not already in municipal court will be given a hearing on Monday night, Aug. 3, in the courtroom.

Mr. Haberman made a trip to Columbus yesterday afternoon to watch proceedings in a hearing conducted by the Columbus fair rent committee. He said the nature of the complaints filed with the committee were virtually the same as those which have been filed in municipal court and with the rent control board.

Neither Mr. Haberman nor the five-man board is paid for their work in attempting to solve the rent problem in Marion.

Landlords and tenants who have rent complaints should file them with Mr. Haberman in the common pleas court room on the third floor of the courthouse.

Complaint blanks are on hand with Mr. Haberman, and may be had Mondays through Fridays from 8 to 11:30 a. m. and 1 to 4 p. m. and from 9 a. m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

GERMANS CLAIM DON CROSSED ON WIDE FRONT

Red Star Cites 'Terrible Days' Ahead and Calls for Supreme Effort.

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 22—Stalingrad and Rostov both were imperiled gravely by fresh German advances today as the million men of Marshall Fedor Von Bock pressed relentlessly south and east against bitterly fighting but outnumbered forces.

The Germans proclaimed they had crossed the lower Don on a broad front, a deep step on the invasion route into the Caucasus, and that "organized" Russian defenses near Rostov, at the mouth of the Don, had collapsed with the guardian city half-encircled.

Russian and British advices agreed with the enemy on the trend of the battle but not to such a degree as to admit that the strategic waterline has been breached and Rostov half surrounded.

At the same time the Red army newspaper, Red Star, gravely announced that the Germans, pressing closer to Stalingrad, now were approaching the border of Stalingrad province, about 80 miles from the city itself.

Red Star pointed to the danger thus:

"Terrible days face the country. The enemy is rushing to the vital centers of our country." The newspaper called on Red soldiers to repeat the example of 28 Soviet troops, who in defending Moscow last winter, fought tank charges with their hands, all dying in the struggle.

(The German high command said the lower Don had been crossed on a broad front and that organized Russian resistance in the Rostov region had collapsed. Rostov was declared hemmed in.)

Even as the Russian armies in the south strove to stem the German advance, the forces at the northern end of the front around Voronezh were reported holding the initiative and counterattacking vigorously. The Russians announced four bridgeheads had been seized.

But the Russian press showed that the greatest urgency was before Rostov and Stalingrad, both vastly important industrial and communication centers and guardians of approaches to the Caucasus, oil lands and fertile farms.

The loss of either city, it was acknowledged, would be a tragic blow, but by far the worst damage would be caused by cutting communications. Stalingrad lies astride an elbow of the Volga within 4 miles of the Don and the Volga is the Russian life line through which the United States and Britain have been pouring supplies via the Persian Gulf route.

Would Separate Troops

The fall of Stalingrad would mean the virtual separation of the Russian northern and southern armies. The loss of Rostov along with the presently Russian-held section southeast of Millerovo would mean the near isolation of the Russian army of the Caucasus.

Oil—the lifeblood of mechanized war—would be denied to large sections of Russia except that which has been stored.

The fall of both cities would isolate many other southern centers from aid in the north, so vital to carry on Russia's resistance.

The Germans are pouring tanks, cannon, trench mortars and planes into the battle zones before Stalingrad and Rostov. The Russians were summoning all their strength at the front.

The Red army's courageous stand at Voronezh has turned into daring counterattacks. These drives are helpful but not enough to offset the impending danger to Stalingrad, the Volga and Rostov.

The Russian man-in-the-street's confidence, however, was unshaken and there was not a man with whom this correspondent talked who did not express confidence that Russia would survive this crisis.

Superior in Numbers

Dispatches continued to report that the Germans had numerical superiority in men and machines in all southern sectors.

The crisis in the south all but overshadowed the losses already suffered—the rich Donets basin coal fields, the industrially important Donbas region and the wheatlands of the steppes of the Don Cossacks' home.

Tass agency, telling of the Voronezh fighting, declared:

"The initiative has been wrested from the Germans by bold attacks of our troops. The pressure of our troops grow stronger daily. Sanguinary fighting continues between the Don and Voronezh rivers and in the city area. The enemy is evidently [illegible]

MARION COUNTY FAIR TO AID WAR EFFORT

Plans Mapped at Meeting of Managers' Association.

The means by which the Marion county fair will join in a seven-ply program to "stimulate the war effort," which was offered today by a committee of the Ohio State Fair Managers association, will be worked out at a meeting of the Marion county fair board Saturday night.

The program was discussed at a meeting yesterday in Columbus which Paul D. Michel, secretary of the board, and E. H. Fetter, a board member, attended.

Sale of war bonds and stamps, salvage material collections, victory parades and the like were among the features fairs were requested to promote.

According to an Associated Press report of the meeting, Mrs. Don A. Dietrick of Bellefontaine, association secretary, said 27 of the 95 fairs recognized by the organization had cancelled 1942 expositions at the request of Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman to help conserve motor vehicle tires.

Reported abandoned were these fairs:

Draftee Gives Tip Leading to Arrest

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., July 22 — A draftee arriving here for induction into the army walked up to Traffic Patrolman Manson Kimball at a downtown intersection last night.

"That man over there on the park bench," he said, "just asked me if I knew a good place he could hold up."

Kimball seized the suspect, found a .32 calibre automatic in his pocket, and took him to headquarters. Registered as Roy Moore, 24, of Gallipolis, O., and indentified by police records as a burglar paroled from the Mansfield reformatory, he was charged with carrying concealed weapons.

American and Canadian Publics Blame British Leaders in African Loss

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 22—Reasons for the loss of Tobruk and other British reverses in Africa up to the battle of E. Alamein have been a topic of widespread discussion not only among military experts but at thousands of family dinner tables throughout the country.

In the opinion of the average man both here in the United States and in Canada, the onus for blame rests not upon the British soldiers but upon their leaders.

The general view of the public, as revealed in surveys conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion and the affiliated Canadian Institute, is that lack of competent leadership in battle and inadequate or faulty equipment supplied to the troops by their leaders were the main cause of the British retreat.

Only a small number in the United States and an even smaller proposition in Canada question the fighting ability or fighting spirit of the British troops themselves.

The surveys were started immediately in the two countries during and just after the British retreat into Egypt. Only a small part of the work was done after the heroic British stand at El Alamein. Both surveys gave respondents a variety of reasons for British reverses on the basis of what they had read or heard about the African campaign.

A summary of the replies follows:

Reaction of United States
Shortage of men and equipment	26%
No competent leadership in battle; Germans outsmarted them and had better strategy	25
British were too slow and unprepared	10
Britian won't fight, not good fighters	8
British were overconfident	5
Blundering and bad planning by government	1
Miscellaneous	3
No Opinion	33

Reaction In Canada
Lack of materials	28%
Poor leaders	24
Poor preparation	8
Rommel too brilliant for them	8
Shortage of manpower	8
Overconfident	3
Supply line too long	3
Poor equipment	3
Lack of fighting spirit	1
Miscellaneous	11
No Opinion	21

In the United States the general tendency to blame British military leaders rather than men is typified by such statements as these culled from the interviewing:

"Too much wine, chess games and noble blood in the leadership."

"Too much tea drinking and not enough fighting. Not among the men but among the officers."

"The British should take more generals from the ranks and fewer from the ruling classes."

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

CHAPTER THIRTY
To The Rescue

THE question died before the impact of a new and terrifying thought. For that one instant she could not move, she could not even think; then something snapped inside her and she was clawing at the door and somehow finding herself in the street and running towards that darkened doorway.

How could she possibly have thought that Raeburns' presence here offered a solution? He was not the man who had first come to Delia demanding the envelope and threatening exposure. Delia knew Raeburn. She had not known the man who had called.

Joyce was on the sidewalk now and, once through the doorway she saw the light at the back of the hall and found the interior less dark. She went up the stairs without pausing, the loud clatter of her steps re-echoing from the narrow walls. At the landing she saw the light from the door panel. She ran towards it, but even in her frenzied haste she could not discipline her thought nor stay her mounting panic.

"Delia!"

She was at the door now, tugging at it and finding it locked before she saw the number on the panel and realized her mistake. She turned back to room twenty-four and called again, feeling no sense of personal danger, but only of fear at what she might find. might find.

"Delia!"

She opened the door and listened and there was no sound but her labored breathing. The implication of this silence was stark and terrible in her mind and she called again, finding her voice suddenly hushed and inadequate!

She forced herself to close the door, to face the prospect of moving towards the rectangle of light that streamed from the adjoining room.

Vaguely aware that she was standing in some outer office, she started for the doorway, finidng each step a tremendous muscular problem. . . . One, two, three—she could see a good part of the room now, a leather chair the corner of a desk—four, five. . . .

The Closet

The room was empty, amazingly and completely empty. There was the desk and an over-turned chair and a desk lamp which made strange shadows in the corners; there was a leather chair, cracked and worn. A bookcase, well-filled and littered on top with papers and magazines extended along one wall; there were two doors, one leading to the hall, the other opening from a squarish projection in the corner.

She took time to see all this before she tried to do anything else; then she took another step and incredulity began to fade as something icy slid along her spine.

She looked back into the darkened anteroom, not moving her feet. She started to call out again and found she could not without clearing her throat.

"Delia!" she cried. "Delia!"

There was no answer; it seemed almost as though she had expected none, and in the end she made herself inspect the room. She walked past the desk, noting as she did so that a telephone book lay open, and a scratch pad, on which something had been written. She went to the window and looked out and found nothing but a shaftlike space from which a vacant window stared darkly. She turned slightly and found her eyes focusing on the door which formed one wall of the corner projection.

Some frightful premonition seized her and she stood there stiff and breathless, her gaze riveted on the knob. After a while she knew she would have to go over and turn it. Fear had eaten away all bodily warmth now, and yet as she started towards that door the room was suddenly close and her blood began to pound.

It took an intense effort of will to make herself touch that white china knob, an even greater will to turn it. But she did, quickly, determinedly, so that the light behind her spilled feebly over the floor of the closet and the ghastly picture struck her all at once—the angle of the body, the tilted head, the pallid face, stained all along one side with blood.

That much she saw in that first horrifying instant—the body—oh, thank God, not Delia's but a man's—and then the floor tilted under her, and her eyes closed, and she leaned against the wall, clinging to the door to keep the room from spinning.

She stood there for a long moment, fighting hard against her nausea. She dared not open her eyes until she had groped her way along the wall and then, grateful for its support she leaned back against it, all faint and sick inside and said, her voice a frozen whisper: "Delia! Delia, where are you?"

Behind The Door

Joyce was never sure how long she stood there. To her it seemed forever before her strength came back and she got her nerves in hand. Then she pushed away from the wall. She straightened her shoulders. After that she tried to rationalize her fears.

Her first sane reaction after the shock of finding that thing of horror on the closet floor was one of overpowering relief. Then, on the heels of that relief had come another thought no less terrifying than the first. Just because a man had been murdered did not mean that Delia had not suffered the same fate. If she had actually see the killer—

A sudden noise brought her mind back to the moment and she stiffened again, every sense alert It was a queer sound, muffled and indistinct, coming from off to one side. From the hall, she thought, or the anteroom.

"Delia," she said again and started towards the open doorway.

There was no answer, but she did not stop, and when she gained the adjoining room she paused, looking for a light or a switch. The sound came again a low moaning, and with it the soft rasping of something across the floor.

Over behind the door a shadow moved and stood out darker than its surroundings. Joyce trembled with quick new hope and started forward, seeing the shadow move again and knowing now that this was Delia, that she was alive. A light switch gleamed and caught her eye next to the door and she stopped to press it; then the room was bright and her heart was in her throat and she was on her knees beside the girl.

Apparently she had been lying on her back because when Joyce saw her she had pushed up on one arm and her eyes, dazed and enormous against the dead white background of her face, did not at once focus.

"It's Joyce, darling. Joyce is here. It's all right."

Her resiliency was amazing. The color had come back into her face and she had stopped trembling. She put her finger to the back of her head, explored it gently and said: "Umm." A twinge of pain slid across her eyes and she added: "Somebody booped me."

City Bus Lines Break All Passenger Records in June

Ray Maag Reports 147,157 Carried in Month for New All-Time High.

The Marion Rapid Transit Co. last month broke all records in its 14-year history by hauling 147,157 passengers.

This total represents an average of about four trips for every man, woman and child in Marion.

The new record is not surprising to Ray Maag, president and treasurer of the company, because of the effects of (1) war industrial work in Marion, especially the construction work on the Scioto Ordnance Plant and the Marion War Aid Depot, and (2) the rationing of tires and automobiles. In fact, the bus company's figures probably will soar well above the June figure as the war progresses.

Record for Year

Figures for the last year tell the story of how war work and rationing have affected the company's business:

Month	Passengers
June 1941	86,768
July 1941	90,551
August 1941	89,399
September 1941	88,190
October 1941	94,570
November 1941	94,769
December 1941	113,687
January 1942	121,588
February 1942	116,658
March 1942	114,828
April 1942	133,339
May 1942	143,373
June 1942	147,157

These figures are exclusive of the number carried each day to the Scioto Ordnance plant and the War Aid depot, for which the company has acquired two new buses, a former world's fair bus and an auto haulaway truck recondition to make a bus. The former was bought by the Marion Rapid Transit Co., and the latter leased.

Trips to the Scioto Ordnance plant are made seven times a day. The buses leave from in front of the court house at 4:15 a. m., 7:15 a. m., 7:30 a. m., 8 a. m., 12:30 p. m., 4 p. m., and 4:15 p. m. Two trips a day are made to the War Aid depot at 6:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. This service was inaugurated June 22 and from that date until the end of the month 412 persons took advantage of it. Figures from June 1 to July 15 show that 2,168 persons rode these buses during the first half of the month.

The Dorcas street loop, Mr. Maag said carries the most people, but the greatest increase has been in the north loop. In order to accommodate the increased traffic six new drivers have been added to the list of employes. These bring the total list of drivers to 18.

Started In 1928

The Marion Rapid Transit Co. began service in Marion in October of 1928. In its first month of business it hauled 76,127 passengers.

The trend of the company's business since that time is shown by a comparison of figures for each June beginning with 1929 up to the present time:

Month	Passengers
June 1929	97,928
June 1930	70,951
June 1931	58,601
June 1932	31,896
June 1933	24,692
June 1934	25,435
June 1935	33,543
June 1936	52,417
June 1937	74,542
June 1938	65,059
June 1939	73,640
June 1940	82,326
June 1941	86,768
June 1942	147,157

Dating Is Tough for Des Moines Girls

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, IA., July 22—Pity the unlucky "home town" girls of Des Moines, where men already are at a premium.

Unmarried officer candidates of the Women's Army Auxiliary corps must confine their dating to non-military men, at least for the present.

That was one of several dating rules laid down to the army women in an orientation lecture today.

The WAAC officer-candidates were advised not to strike up close acquaintances with—or date—soldiers at the army post.

Two U. S. Seamen Home Safe After Rescue by Nazis

By The Associated Press

AN EAST COAST PORT, July 22—Two young seamen were safe in the United States today after being rescued and kept aboard a German submarine for several hours, then set free in a well provisioned lifeboat.

The sailors told a story of how the English-speaking sub captain read them during their stay on the vessel, and even crash dived with them still aboard when naval planes arrived overhead.

Their vessel, a small United States cargo ship, was sunk in the Caribbean June 3, and 15 of the crew of 45 are missing and believed dead, the navy said in announcing the sinking. Other survivors were landed at a gulf port.

The story of the adventure came from Cornelius F. O'Connor, 19, of Norfolk, Va., and Raymond Smithson, 24, Galveston, Texas.

Aboard the submarine, O'Connor said he and Smithson were a "regular sideshow" for the German crew, three of whom spoke to them in English.

"They kept coming to look at us," O'Connor related. "One of them asked us who we thought would win the war, and what most Americans thought about it. We said we would win, but it wouldn't be easy.

"He just laughed.

"He said: 'Germany is stronger than you think.'

"The commander, a short man with a heavy beard, asked us all about our ship. His English was perfect. We asked him to take us over where the liferafts were, and he promised to do it. Just then a flare lit up everything like daylight.

"The captain pushed us quickly down the hatch into the control room, and everyone on deck followed. They crash-dived in a hurry."

The men later were placed in a lifeboat.

The two seamen drifted for five days, then were picked up by a Brazilian vessel.

JOB PLACEMENTS IN JUNE SHOW INCREASE

Scherff Reports Gain of 5.4 Per Cent Here.

Job placements in June by the Marion office of the United States Employment service showed a decrease of 5.4 per cent from the preceding month, it was reported today by Fred B. Scherff, manager.

The decrease conforms to the usual seasonal decline, Mr. Scherff said.

The monthly report shows the office filled 1,009 jobs during the month and received 2,371 work applications, 26 per cent more than in May.

Partly as a result of recent high school graduates entering the job market, total work applications received in June throughout Ohio topped May figures by 8.9 per cent. The number of active job-seekers, after declining for four successive months, took an upturn last month and at the end of the month the number of workers available stood at 199,187, or 7.5 per cent higher than in May.

Climaxing a steady rise maintained since February of this year, job placements for the state as a whole reached their third successive all-time high last month, according to State Director Watie Hammond.

"We do not claim that the students are perfect when they complete the courses," Mr. Rieker said. "We give them a compact course of instruction. Industrialists can expect highly-skilled workmen after a 13-week course."

He described evolution of the present shop, which ranks as one of the finest high school vocational shops in the state, from the former shop located in the basement of the high school. The present shop, he said, cost the school board more than $30,000.

Machinery Arriving

Labor for the new shop was furnished by the NYA and a major share of the machinery was furnished through a federal grant. Of 19 new machine tools ordered when the shop project was undertaken, 12 have arrived and promises of early arrival on the other seven units are good, Mr. Rieker said.

Following his talk, Mr. Rieker conducted members of the club on a tour of the new shop. Several of the women enrolled in training courses were in classes while the tour was made.

COLLECTION BARRELS READY FOR RECORDS

Contributions To Be Received in Theater Lobbies.

Collection barrels for phonograph records have been placed in the Palace, Ohio and Marion theaters to receive contributions in the first week of the American Legion drive which will end on Aug. 2.

Marion county's Legion posts at Marion, Prospect, Caledonia and LaRue, have been asked to collect at least 14,500 records in the nationwide drive. Ohio's goal has been set at 2,013,550 records but Floyd R. Hartpence of Westerville, department commander, has asked that Ohio Legionnaires voluntarily make the goal 2,500,000.

The old records will be sold as scrap and will provide the funds for new records and phonograph players to be shipped to American fighting men here and overseas.

"None of us in show business has a monopoly on camp entertainments. Many bands and concert artists and singers and actors have toured the camp circuits. But there aren't enough units to go around. Even road tours are probably going to be curtailed to save rubber, gas and train space. What's more, we can't visit the boys in the West Indies, Northern Ireland, Iceland or Australia. Even Alaska is out of the question. We can't sail on aircraft carriers, battlewagons and destroyers. Phonograph records can!"

The fleet of Omar Baking Co. trucks serving Marion and surrounding communities has been donated to the Marion county drive. The drivers will pick up records left on porches. Anyone who misses the truck driver should call the Legion Dugout, 2084, and arrangements will be made to get the records.

R. A. Todd and T. E. Kinnear are co-chairmen of the Marion county drive.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 155-mm howitzer and its little brother, the 105-mm howitzer, are called "the two sweetest things of their kind in existence." The 155-mm gun will drop a 95-pound shell 12,000 yards away. The shell is lobbed high, and drops like a bomb giving it far greater authority when it explodes.

The 155-mm howitzers cost about $20,000 each. They are essential for our offensive army against the Axis powers and we need hundreds of them for they are a standard divisional gun and do twice as much damage as the old French-75, in World War I. You can help buy them for our army by your investment of at least ten percent of income in War Bonds every pay day.

Hitler Won't Wait

IT'S too bad, but Hitler won't wait for congressmen in the United States to run for reelection before doing everything in his considerable power to win the war. Neither will the "stick-em-up" boys who are riding high in Tokyo.

This doesn't seem to be well understood. Unless congressmen are being misrepresented, they are acting as though getting reelected and winning the war were conflicting purposes. They can't do this and that about the war because it would be bad politics.

The government—meaning the administration branch—likewise is reported to be doing this and not doing that because of politics. Get the boys reelected first and settle down to business after next November. That will be time enough to come to grips with taxes, inflation, the rubber shortage, gasoline rationing, military training for 18 and 19-year-old boys and a dozen other tough problems.

Perhaps it's Axis propaganda that says congressmen have been playing footie with taxes instead of honestly trying to get as much money back from the war boom as possible to pay for a larger fraction of the overhead. Possibly somebody in Tokyo had the bright idea of inviting everybody who works for wages to start dreaming about a raise when the government is supposed to be controlling prices. Goebbels, himself, couldn't have planned a better way to muddle the rubber situation. But these things aren't plots discovered by the FBI. They're the realities of life in the United States—the war must not be allowed to interfere with politics as usual. The war can and must change everything else, yes, but not the ancient custom of fooling part of the people part of the time.

Stabilization Works Both Ways

THE theory of wage stabilization being revived by the outcome of the "little steel" cases is already in effect in Canada. Tentative reports from north of the border indicate that it is working all right.

However, no one possibly can know how wage stabilization is going to work until it has been in operation somewhere for upward of a decade during a depression as well as a boom. It is one thing to hoist wage rates according to a scientific system. But it is something else to stabilize wages.

Stabilization must work both ways. Wage stabilization entails downward as well as upward revision. It would mean the gradual withdrawal of labor union spokesmen from collective bargaining, because there would be nothing to bargain about; wage adjustments would be scientific.

What is being called wage stabilization would be described more accurately as wage moderation. Under the circumstances, it is unlikely that stabilization even is being thought of in the circles where wage problems are being discussed. There even is the question whether moderation is being taken too seriously.

Aleutians Not a Health Resort

THE American public is hungry for more and better news from the Aleutian islands. Specifically, it wants to hear that the Japanese have been dislodged from their foothold.

This is not because Americans have fallen into the error of trying to high-pressure their professional soldiers, sailors and airmen into doing something that should be left entirely to their professional judgment. It is because Americans have learned how the Axis strategists wage war.

There was a time in the war when remote places like Danzig and Addis Ababa and Hainan island seemed unimportant. But they and dozens of other obscure places became the stepping stones on which the aggressors moved toward their goals.

The Aleutians are not a health resort. The Japanese are not there for an outing. Whatever their situation in the islands may be as a result of the battle of Midway, the American situation would be a lot better if they could be ousted.

Paddy Finacune

THE most honored hero of this war is a level-eyed youngster who fights above the clouds and returns to earth for more ammunition and to make reports to his elders. He has the poise of a man who has lived intimately with death for a lifetime, though he has not learned yet what it means to die.

He has killed, but he doesn't know what that means either. It is something he does with a machine at long distance, something that he must do better than other young men who are hoping to be able to do the same thing to him. Death, thus, is a game to be played by experts with wings.

Only the young can qualify, because the others are too slow. The aces are young—fliers like Paddy Finacune, who was Britain's ace aviator because he had 33 German planes to his credit. That took skill and courage. It took luck, too. The skill and courage lasted, but the luck ran out. Britain's greatest air hero's plane was disabled by a random shot. He was carried to his death. Paddy Finacune was 21.

News Behind the News

Purge of Pre-Pearl Harbor Isolationists from Congress Seems To Be Falling Flat.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 22—The campaign of the New Republic, the Luce publications and some others to purge isolationists from congress seems to be falling flat as far as the primaries are concerned. No more than normal casualties among sitting congressmen are reported from the electoral front.

A tabulation made by the Democratic congressional campaign committee, for its own information only, shows that out of the first 115 congressmen to face the voters in primaries thus far, no more than 10 have failed of renomination. Most of these were involved in personal situations, having nothing to do with the isolationist-interventionist dispute.

The temper of the electorate thus obviously is shown to be extraordinarily complacent.

War Without Song

This seems to be a war without song. A war of grim public quietude. Public opinion on the surface seems confused, and at times embittered by such regulations as gas rationing and other displays of Washington inefficiency, but so far it is wholly lacking in the enthusiasm required to go to the polls and vote "no."

The politicos explain this phenomena with the assumption that everyone is busy in war work, in the army, or out of it. Farmers are bearing down harder than usual. No tax sales are reported in their communities. Other citizens, they say, are laboring so long and hard they take little time out for politics except to drop an idle cuss word now and then at Washington.

Four states in the south have now held primaries, Florida, Alabama, Oklahoma and North Carolina, and only two congressmen failed. Pro-Roosevelt Luther Patrick from Alabama lost because he made some facetious speeches which were not interpreted in the humorous way they were intended (say his friends) and Wilburn Cartwright lost in Oklahoma because he got in a personal row with the governor.

The Middle West

Out in the middle west:

All were renominated in Iowa. In Illinois, a Democrat, Leo Kocialkowski, lost out because the Cook county machine had another job in mind for him, and he foolishly thought he could win anyway. One Republican, George A. Paddock, lost because popular former Representative Ralph Church wanted his old job back. In Indiana only one lost, a Democrat, William T. Schulte, whose job was desired by the mayor of the largest town in his district and a superior political power.

In Pennsylvania, two Democrats were beaten, one (Charles I. Faddis) because his district had been rearranged to take in some labor communities where his policies were not popular, and the other, Representative Guy L. Moser, had barely skinned through in previous primaries. A couple of Republicans suffered from redistricting but none from the war issue.

Robert F. Rich did not stand for renomination, because his district was split in twain and attached to two adjoining districts, and Benjamin Jarrett was defeated due to four new counties being attached to his district.

Win In Oregon

All were renominated in Oregon, but in Maine one fell (James C. Oliver). Some down-easters attributed Mr. Oliver's defeat to his isolationist stand.

Wiser politicians who go below the surface for their answers think the Republicans there were foxy. They did want Oliver running against the strong Brann in November, but picked a candidate with less of an anti-Roosevelt foreign policy. A local political situation likewise defeated one Republican in North Dakota (Charles R. Robertson).

Of the above-mentioned, Faddis was a strong pro-war man; Moser and Schulte were classed as isolationists.

Certainly it is clear the Democratic voters were not mad at the Democratic congressmen, and the Republican voters seemed generally satisfied with their Republican representatives. It may be different in November when the Democrats come up against the republicans, but for the present all is extremely quiet on the political front.

Half-hearted gestures have been made by the administration, suggesting Mr. Roosevelt might go after the old opponents of his foreign policy.

A New York leader who came out of the White House recently said the President wanted the test of a man for the New York gubernatorial race to be made on the basis of support of the Roosevelt foreign policy before Pearl Harbor. But the Democratic machine there went ahead planning to nominate one who did not fill that particular requirement. So, it goes everywhere.

The administration well knows if it opens a campaign of bitter partisanism to punish its old political opponents, they will fight back with the evidence of inadequate administration preparations for war before Pearl Harbor, and a political melee disastrous to unity will ensue.

Ten Rules For Vacations

Travel in Auto Not Necessarily Unpatriotic.

By JACK STINNETT

As if life weren't hard enough already for the AAA, they have been swamped with letters recently. The letters are two variations on a single theme: (1) Our neighbors say we are unpatriotic and are slackers because we plan to take a vacation this summer in our car, (2) Our neighbors are traitors on the home front; they are going to take a vacation in their car.

The AAA went into a huddle with the Office of Defense Transportation. They came out with an answer and, according to the AAA, an ODT approved 10-point program for vacation travel.

The answer is "Limited use of the automobile for a vacation is not unpatriotic, PROVIDED other pleasure or social driving is curtailed."

Even with talk of automobile confiscation being bandied about all over the capital now, the government recognizes the necessity for vacations, is fully aware of the limitations on other forms of transportation; admits that all communities are not afflicted alike nor so situated that vacation grounds are within hiking distance.

The No. 1 point is the answer stated above. No. 2 is that aimless and useless driving of any car consumes rubber and gasoline needlessly and must be avoided for the duration.

3—Vacations, in the home, office and factory, should be planned to involve a minimum use of transportation, whether it's by car, train, bus or air. They should be staggered to extend beyond the normal vacation months and staggered to begin and end in mid-week as well as on week-ends.

4—No vacationist should start out without a definite objective. "Roaming" is fun, but the old American habit of "we're just going to start out and go on from there" is not only a violation of wartime civilian ethics but is likely to end up an extremely costly business.

5—Don't take the long hops. It's pretty hard to find a city or a state that doesn't have vacation spots nearby and this is the season to do your vacation shopping at home.

6—Make all plans for accommodations in advance. Those who don't will find themselves sleeping in the parks, or at least using up good gas and rubber trying to find a landing place.

7—All vacationists traveling by car should check their routes to be sure they don't crash into restricted areas and have to detour. Those traveling by rail, plane or bus should be sure their accommodations are available all the way.

8—If your automobile vacations can't be made to fit into the ODT mileage budget plan (100 miles a month for all forms of personal driving other than going to and from work on war projects), figure out something else. That is, if you can cut that budget in half for three months, then plan a 150-mile vacation trip.

9—Even on vacation, never drive more than 40 miles an hour.

10—Apply the share-your-car plan to vacations for the family, relatives and neighbors.

If you obey those ten commandments of wartime vacationing, you can write back "Having a wonderful time," without any fear that you are unpatriotic or sabotaging the conservation effort.

THE HEADLESS HORSEMAN

Truck Drivers Carry On For Britain

Lowell Bennett Writes of Britain's War Activity.

By LOWELL BENNETT
INS Staff Correspondent

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 22—Truck driving in Britain today is a man's size job. Along vital inland lifelines, thousands of drivers, day and night, carry the nation's war production to the ports and lease-lend raw materials to the factories.

These drivers work 60 and 70 hours a week for an average of about 40 cents an hour. They drive trucks carrying up to 30 and 40 tons of anything from aircraft tanks, bombs, and gases, to machine parts and ships' boilers. With the countrywide blackout and generally poor quality of Britain's highways, their task is not an envious one.

But with all the dangers and hard work that goes with the job, the drivers are unanimous in saying they wouldn't have any other. Take Joe Worth who left Newcastle last night with about 24 tons of finished cannon shells and arrived here this afternoon. Joe used to drive a bus in Newcastle before the war.

"But a few nights after they started the blackout," he explains, "I ran down an old man and he died in a hospital. The inquest people said it wasn't my fault and I could have gone back to work. But after that I knew I could never drive a bus again."

Now Joe drives a 12-wheeled eight forward gear truck. He says he's carried just about every kind of ammunition and war product there exists in the country.

"Sometimes I carry high-explosives to shell factories—and that means SLOW. Once I took a motor torpedo boat from a factory to a port and it stuck out so far from the truck I had to drive down the middle of the road nearly all the way. Another time I had a load of a couple thousand American eggs which had to go to an emergency warehouse. There's just about nothing you don't carry in this business now."

One of the reasons none of the drivers ever wants to quit, he explained, is because "you see so much on the road these days."

Vast Truck Convoys

It is certainly true that there's a lot to be seen on a trip through England in this third year of war. All day and night tremendous convoys of tanks and trucks pass on maneuvers or on their way to ports. On either side of the roads new factories are being built everywhere. Sometimes not far off the road, you can see testing grounds for new secret weapons. Frequently the road takes you near an airdrome. At one place it is possible to see five fighter and bomber airfields within a period of 20 minutes.

Drivers, though mostly they don't, can point out every underground airdrome, hidden munition dump or well-concealed war factory within sight of the road. They usually know pretty well what kind of units and roughly what strength there are stationed not too far from main roads. They can tell you the story of every factory and every airdrome. "This factory was dive-bombed in August 1940" or "A German bomber landed on this airdrome once when it ran out of petrol . . . but it didn't take off again."

Many Changeovers

Drivers can usually tell you what factories have been changed over to war production and what they were making before the war too. "This one was making corsets not so long ago . . . now it's making shell caps" or "they used to build steel desks here but now it's anti-tank guns."

Along one road somewhere in Scotland you can see scores of airplanes, crated and ready for shipment abroad. They are lined up—with about thirty yards interval between each—along the road for several miles. The crates are well spread out as a precaution against a strafing attack. Disperse like this the planes are felt to be far safer than they would be concentrated in a port awaiting transport abroad.

But the crates along the road also point to another thing. They are waiting their turn for shipping space—and aircraft is among the first priority—which means more shipping is needed to carry away the weapons of war that now have to wait for room.

AEF Limbers Up

It is also possible to see some evidence of the tremendous AEF striking force building in this part of Britain. Though details of armored strength may not be disclosed, it can be said that in many areas of the country are to be seen U.S.-built and manned tanks and mobile artillery on maneuvers; signal and supply corps men at real war games with motorized infantry; ack-ack gunners practicing with their British counterparts.

Jeeps, amphibious armored cars, mobile anti-tank and anti-aircraft guns, supply trucks, engineering and repair vehicles are to be seen in considerable numbers. In the larger towns and cities here in the north of Britain, American soldiers, sailors and airmen can be seen on leave—seeing what the country and people are like, and learning that they're not really so very different from the country and the folks back home.

Once we passed a field where 14 and 28-ton American tanks were maneuvering in battle formation. It must have been extra impressive because Joe Worth, well used to such affairs, stopped the truck to watch for a few minutes. As we walked around the front to watch the maneuvers I noticed a placard on the front of the truck. There were two lines in heavy, bold red:

"URGENT WAR OFFICE
"MUNITIONS—CAUTION".

More than 300,000 Negroes live in New York's Harlem.

Chiropodists

They Should Get Commissions To Look After Tired Tootsies of Our Precious Foot Heroes.

By DAMON RUNYON

SOME genius once remarked that an army marches on its belly, and this statement has been accepted as a military truism for generations. The idea, of course, is that you must feed the soldiers to keep them going.

I agree that fodder is important, but I say that when it comes to marching, or even resting, the soldiers' feet are even more important. I can prove by history that many armies have won important victories without a great deal of food and, while at the moment I can not put my finger on any instance of defeats because of bad feet, I imagine they have often been a contributing factor to disaster.

A soldier whose dogs are barking is not only greatly handicapped for hoofing, but his spirit is less volatile. I hold that there is nothing can get a man down like a yelping corn or a violent bunion. Hence, I am heartily in favor of the government of the United States taking official cognizance of need for chiropodists in the war business.

I believe there is now a bill before congress providing for the commissioning in the army of gentlemen of this profession in connection with the medical corps, to specialize on keeping the feet of our warriors in good condition. There are already a few chiropodists in the ranks who carry on their foot-mending on an unofficial basis but the importance of the work requires stronger recognition.

I AM told that the German army and the British army, too, always have excellent chiropodists assigned to troops, and that foot treatment is as regular as sick call. The American army, while making quite a point of sound feet on enlistment, leaves the soldier pretty much to his own devices if he develops those painful little ailments of the puppies that are almost inevitable to shuffling around in army shoes.

I presume our army authorities take it for granted that a soldier will get out his own ax to do any work that may be necessary on his feet, a time-honored process in our American life and one that is not without its disadvantages as I must admit. However, I think it will be agreed that the science that chiropody affords in this matter is to be preferred. A deep-seated screamer on a toe is no job for an amateur.

Every day hundreds of soldiers are limping into chiropodists' offices throughout the country for treatment and getting it free of charge. The transition from carefully fitted light shoes to the heavy army brogans has been a tough one on the tender tootsies of many of our city fellows, but much of their agony would be eliminated if they could get prompt and regular attention in the camps.

ODDLY enough, the navy, which does not care for quite as much foot work as the army, has recognized the importance of chiropody for some time. There are about half a dozen of the men of this profession in the navy with commissioned officers and practicing officers and practicing among the men every day and more are to be taken in. I am informed that the tendency is to give the service chiropodists greater leeway in foot surgery and bone adjustment than ever before to relieve the medical department of that type of work.

Expert treatment can reclaim many feet that might be considered unworthy of military service. In the World war many a patriot was heaved out because of flat feet, a disability that can be corrected. Anyway, in this mechanized military age, flat feet can scarcely matter against a man riding in a tank.

With proper recognition and encouragement the foot specialists of America can probably salvage thousands of men whose feet now bar them from service and since everything else is being salvaged, why not men?

Place for Little Fellows

By The Associated Press

HARLINGEN, Tex.—Goods for the little fellow when the sign tells you "The Army Wants MEN," they're talking about you just as much as that big bruiser who could probably lick you with one armful behind his back.

In fact, if you have brains and intestinal fortitude, the army wants YOU especially.

"Today's most dangerous fighters are about five feet four or five inches tall and weigh between 130 and 140," declares the Harlingen Army Gunnery School.

Men with those qualifications are streaming today into the nation's three gunnery schools, largest of which is located at Harlingen in the citrus valley around the lower Rio Grande.

The big, rawboned fellow still has his place in the army all right, but it's not in the interior of a ball turret on a bomber. That's reserved for a man only two-thirds his size.

Turrets have to be small and comparatively light, to allow the planes maximum maneuverability, and they're driven by small hydraulic motors. Just one man—and a pretty small one at that—can squeeze inside. But his work in the trigger protects the bigger fellows sitting in comparative comfort up front.

The gunnery schools put their recruits through five weeks of ground and aerial training in all sorts of armament and learning to take them apart and put them together blindfolded. At the gunnery schools they spatter ammunition at towed targets. When they get into action they'll be training their sights on Jap and Nazi fighter planes, perhaps trying to stave off the bombers of Berlin or Tokyo.

Men Have Special Job

By The Associated Press

CAMP SHELBY, Miss.—The third special service battalion is undergoing intensive training here for front-line duty and expects to go overseas for one purpose—to entertain troops returning from the front.

The unit, as mobile as a jeep, carries equipment weighing only seven tons. It can be landed within a couple of hours and contains everything to boost a fighting man's morale from letters from home to the latest in boogie-woogie recordings.

Commanded by Captain Anthony J. Bua, a former auditor of Minneapolis, the unit is second only to the original unit at Fort Meade, home of the special service training school.

The unit's work begins long before it reaches the fighting zones. The minute it boards transport the men start making the trip as comfortable as possible.

Additional equipment designed for use in camps miles back of the front lines includes 1,500 books, 500 records, symphonic and jive, a motion picture projectors, musical and sports equipment, games, short-wave radio sets for receiving home programs and a public address system.

what is America fighting for?

Freedom of Religion!

(One of the Essentials of a Democracy)

In America, Faith has no limits. America believes in and hallows the religions of the world.

To Americans, the right to worship as they choose is as fundamental as the right to own their own property, or to choose their own life's work. But to our enemies, America's way is intolerable. The very precepts upon which our American life is built are the things they seek to destroy.

Faith and courage . . . initiative and honest sweat . . . a passion for liberty and justice and equal rights for free men—those are the seeds from which the American way of life has sprung. Today, America's Faith is undaunted. The light of freedom burns indelibly in the hearts of free American men, fighting today until Victory!

World Champion Yankees Pummel Indians, 8-3; Reds Lose To Dodgers, 8-4

Al Milnar or Chubby Dean Ready To Go Against Yanks Today.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, [illegible] — Base on [illegible] form are the best [illegible] Yankees bow at the [illegible] the second

There [illegible] at least a split [illegible] the Cleveland [illegible] into tomorrow's [illegible] to 7, who [illegible] they took an 11 game [illegible] the Boston Red Sox. The boys from Beantown lost to Cleveland but maintained a full game [illegible] venture over the Tribe.

Al "Lefty" Milnar and Chubby Dean were ready to go [illegible] the Bronx Bombers today, with Manager Lou Boudreau facing the possibility both would be needed to stem the Yankees hitting [illegible]

Last night's triumph was the 10th consecutive victory for the World Champions.

Joe DiMaggio got a [illegible] making 18 consecutive matches in which he has collared the horsehide.

The Tribe scored two runs off Lefty Gomez in the sixth inning. Kenny Keltner lifted his sixth home run of the season. Jeff Heath walked, Fabiano Gaffke singled and Les Fleming drove Heath home with a long fly.

Hemsley Catches

Fireman Johnny Murphy took over the hurling assignment in the seventh and allowed one hit in three innings, it coming in the ninth with the Tribe's tally.

Rollie Hemsley caught the entire game for New York, and felt enough at home in the Cleveland stadium to get a single in four trips to the plate. Buddy Rosar, who went AWOL to take a civil service exam for a police post in Buffalo, warmed the bench.

Underneath the sign that says "Braves Field" at the National league ball park in Boston there should be added a line "Home of Extra-Inning Ball Games."

Marathons disguised as baseball are the specialty of the Braves just as home runs are the trade mark of the New York Yankees.

For this reason that 17 inning struggle of the Braves and Chicago Cubs yesterday was bound to happen. It wasn't quite as historical as the 26-inning 1-1 tie between the Braves and Brooklyn in 1920, the most extended game in National league records, or the 20-inning battle with the Dodgers in 1940 which took five hours and 19 minutes to play—longest time of game in major league history.

Longest 1942 Game

But it was the longest game this season and the Braves won 4-3 in a unique finish. The Braves tied the score in the eighth with two runs and after eight more scoreless stanzas they loaded the bases with none out in the 17th on three successive hits. Then old John Cooney stepped to the plate and rapped a smart single to right center to finish the fracas four hours and 17 minutes after it started.

While this was going on the Brooklyn Dodgers curbed the Cincinnati Reds 8-4 with 12 hits in six innings against Paul Derringer.

The St. Louis Cardinals kept the Dodgers from increasing their National league lead, however, by bowling over the Philadelphia Phils 6-1 in a night game.

Three home runs and Buster Maynard's two-run pinch single in the eighth inning gave Carl Hubbel and the New York Giants a 6-5 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates in a twilight game. New

"Tag Team Match Thursday"

Marion Wrestling Fans have a tag team match for their main go attraction Thursday at the Armory. It will be two hours of the best two out of three falls to win. The one team will be Ivan Kalimkoff, the Russian, and Axel Madsen of Denmark; the other team will be Nick Billins of Athens, Greece, and Jack Steele of Centerville, Ia. Both Madsen and Kalimkoff are two of the best liked mat men to appear at the Armory for a long time while Billins and Steele are about the roughest who have appeared here. Tag Wrestling has proved very popular with the local matdon and works something like a relay race where each team can change partners by touching hands. The 45 minute prelim brings back Jack Bloomfield of New York, who appeared here once before and won his match. He has since met Billy Venable of Dallas, Texas. Tickets are on sale at Markert & Lewis Cigar Store. The first match starts at 8:30.—Adv.

On the Local Front

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

WHILE Marion is engaged in nominating Jack Stephenson for the college all-star football game, it is only fitting that we single out Jack's No. 1 Marion booster.

And that title is really befitting youthful Dick Cleary, a stellar Harding High school basketball player. Dick has obtained about 700 votes for Jack Stephenson since the drive got underway locally a week ago. He promises at least 500 more signatures, too. Of course, there are Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephenson of 488 South Vine street, parents of the 1941 Ohio State grid captain. Jack's 100 per cent on their ballot (and our's too).

Another booster is Sgt. Thayer I. Martin stationed at Biloxi, Miss. Sgt. Martin has relayed word here of 200 signatures received for Jack among soldiers in training at Biloxi.

Sgt. Martin, a few football fans will recall, was the chairman for the "Capt. Jack Day" program sponsored by Marion service clubs at the Ohio State-Illinois football game last fall.

These are only two of the willing workers encountered by your correspondent while making a canvass of the city.

A goal of 20,000 signatures is the goal of the Marion committee. Voting will end midnight, JJuly 26. Marionites are urged to cast their votes for Big Jack before Saturday.

UP TWO NOTCHES

With 66,807 votes to his credit, Jack Stephenson today moved two notches up to sixth place in the Chicago Tribune's college All-Star poll. Al Blozis (Georgetown) leads the balloting for tackles with 103,418 votes. Urban Odson (Minnesota), Alf Bauman (Northwestern), Paul Lillig (Notre Dame) and Jim Daniell (Ohio State) are ahead of Stepnenson in the poll.

Des Moines Heavyweight Drops Bill Poland in 9th Round.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., July 22—Lee Savold, Des Moines, Ia., heavyweight, blasted Bill Poland's strong aid for a major fistic upset last night with a vicious left which dropped the New York City belter in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-frame headline encounter in Toledo's "Bomber for MacArthur" fistic show last night.

The pair battled evenly for three rounds, with Savold concentrating on a body attack and Poland landing hard overhand rights from long range.

In the fourth, the Toledo boxing commission ruled the Des Moines puncher fouled Poland and Poland was granted a five-minute rest. Then he came back so strong that he seemed on the verge of an upset as he scored in kayoing Harry Bobo a year ago.

Poland looked good in the ninth until a whistling left to the jaw dropped him to the canvas. He tried to struggle to his feet at the count of five but fell into the ropes and was counted out by Referee Jimmy Braddock. Poland weighed 192, Savold 196.

Benny Goldberg, 120, of Detroit, the Ohio and Michigan featherweight titleholder, punched out a 10-round decision over Joey Archibald, 126, of Providence, R. I., former featherweight champion.

In a six-rounder, Sammy Parratto of Pittsburgh edged Chick Sanchez of Detroit, flooring him three times. Parratto weighed 130, Sanchez 126.

Shelton Bell, 169-pound Toledoan won his 210th consecutive battle as an amateur and pro, knocking out Herby Katz, 178, in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Pat Comiskey, 222, Patterson, N. J., took a ten-round verdict from Alfred (Big Boy) Brown, 255, of Detroit.

KANSAS CITY GETS SET FOR ALL STARS

Weary Blues Arrive Home for Big Game Thursday.

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Blues, their American association lead reduced to a single game, came home today, battered, travel weary and with little more than 24 hours to pull themselves together for one of the season's biggest assignments—opposing the pick of the league's talent in the annual All-Star game.

The game will be played tomorrow night at Kansas City.

Even so, the All-Stars probably can offer little more in the way of rough treatment than that encountered in Kansas City's trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The Blues lost six of the eight games they played in the Twin Cities, including last night's 8-0 shutout.

Meantime Indianapolis knocked Columbus from second place with a 19 to 3 decision.

Milwaukee made a sweep of a four-game series with St. Paul with a 6 to 4 victory. It lifted Milwaukee into second place, a half game ahead of Columbus.

"Name" Amateurs Pass Qualifying Tests In Tam O'Shanter Tourney

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 22—The Tam O'Shanter golf tournament entered its double phase today, with 64 of the nation's top amateurs waging [illegible] two rounds of match play with the professionals shung [illegible] in an 18-hole qualifying test for their $15,000 medal play event beginning tomorrow.

All of the country's "name" amateurs [illegible] the qualifying rounds the last two days. Only 16 of them will still be alive and kicking tonight.

As for the professionals, their qualifying test today did not concern the game's leading figures insofar as participation in the big money play starting tomorrow was concerned. All the big stars, men like Nelson and Ben Hogan, qualified automatically, though their past deeds. It strictly was an entrance exam for the "have nots" of the pro game.

Scores the amateurs shoot in today's matches will not count in the open championship starting tomorrow. The 16 who reach the third round, though, will find themselves playing in two tournaments—the amateur and open.

A couple of players who were not considered in advance views of the amateur championship found themselves tied for the medal when the shooting ended last night. They were Johnny Lehman of Chicago, with 71-72—143, and John Holmstrom of Rockford, Ill., with 77-66—143.

Lehman was one of the country's first amateur back around 1930 and is now a greying insurance executive. Holmstrom, a red-hot youngster just graduated from the University of Illinois. That represented six strokes under par for the long, robust Tam O'Shanter course and was only one stroke over the course record.

Frank Stranahan, a confident young golfer from Toledo, was next with 74-73—147.

Greenwood Seniors continued to lead the Sunday School softball league today as a result of a 15-0 victory over the Greenwood No. 2 team at Presidents field last night. In a softball commission meeting Monday night, Leroy Everly and Nick Cafagno were declared eligible to participate in the Tuesday and Thursday night leagues.

TRAPSHOOTING EVEN TO UNDERGO FIRS CHANGE IN 43 YEAR

$10,000 Handicap Tourney To Be Decided Over 200-Shot Route.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 22—The Grand American Handicap—most coveted, colorful and unpredictable of trapshooting's champ snaps—undergoes the first change in its 43-year history next year in the annual million-target tournament at Vandalia, O.

The big barrage, expected to attract close to 1,000 of the nation's top drawer scatter-gun artists, is scheduled Aug. 24-28.

For 42 years the "Road to Grand" program has called for the $10,000 handicap to be fired over the 100 target route.

This year, however, the handicap goes up to 200 targets, to be shot over two days. The preliminary handicap, usually shot the day before the Friday windup, has been erased and the first half of the $10,000 race takes place.

Only one man has ever won the preliminary and then repeated the next day's "Grand." R. O. Barber of Paulina, Ia., did it back in 1905. No shooter has ever won the preliminary twice, and the same holds good for the Grand.

The big handicap generally has gone to some novice or unknown. Last year 52-year-old Walter E. Tulourt of Detroit, who had been shooting over the traps only a month, used a second-hand shotgun to beat a field of 1,000 marksmen.

Another change this year on for the women's 16-yard North American clay target title to be decided over the 200-target route instead of at 100 clays.

GIVES LIFE TO SAVE SEAMEN

Heroic Sacrifice in Sub Attack Results in Rescue of 18 Shipmates.

By The Associated Press

The heroic sacrifice of a 25-year-old seaman saved 18 shipmates in the sinking of a U. S. merchant vessel, the navy reported today, announcing another torpedoing in the western Atlantic.

The loss of the medium-sized merchant vessel, sent to the bottom June 28 about 650 miles off the east coast, boosted to 395 the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of United Nations and neutral sinkings in the zone since Pearl Harbor.

Survivors said at an east coast port that Miles Nelkin gave his life in releasing rafts which saved 18 seamen from the 37-man crew. Ten men were on the rafts 19 days before being rescued.

As wartime sinkings in the western Atlantic neared the 400-mark, the war shipping administration commented that losses have greatly exceeded new construction.

While the war shipping administration was making its sombre announcement and revealing that the United Nations were pooling their ships and limiting cargoes to essential war materials, the navy yesterday reported the sinking of four more vessels by Axis submarines.

FACTORY BUILDING AT CLEVELAND BURNS

Damage in War Production Shops Set at $280,000.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 22—An East side factory building housing several shops producing war materials was in ruins today, with damage estimated at $280,000 by Joseph F. Sweeney, assistant fire chief.

Denis Hornsby, night foreman of the Petroleum Iron Works, near the center of the gutted structure, said he ran to the front of the shop when he heard the fire alarm sound, and that he saw flames coming from the paint-spraying booth. This occurred at 7:15 p. m. last night, about 10 minutes after the departure of men working in the booth, Hornsby said.

Other concerns in the building which were completely burned out were the wire mill of Maurath, Inc. and the Latex Processing Co. Badly damaged was the Lakeside Biscuit Co.'s warehouse. Flames missed a state liquor wholesale store and the United Plastics Corp.

LEAHY

names figured prominently in speculation.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no information as to exactly what the function of Leahy's position would be. Military and naval authorities indicated his duties might involve decision of questions of high military and naval policy turned over to him by the President, advising the President on grand strategical problems, and clearing all military and naval matters before they reached Mr. Roosevelt's desk.

To the discharge of these vital duties the 67-year-old admiral brings a practical experience of 42 years in the navy, running through active service in the World war and ending in 1939 when he was retired after two years as chief of naval operations.

In retirement, he was governor of Puerto Rico until November, 1940, when he was appointed U. S. ambassador to France.

In naming Leahy his chief of staff Mr. Roosevelt has in effect created a ranking officer between himself and General Marshall and Admiral King with whom he has heretofore dealt directly.

He has not laid aside any of his constitutional responsibility as commander-in-chief of the armed forces but apparently has delegated the carrying out of many of them to Leahy who will be able to devote much more time to strictly military questions than can Mr. Roosevelt.

PRESIDENT STUDIES COST OF LIVING

Confers with Leaders; Uncertain About Message.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—Senator Barkley (D-Ky) disclosed that President Roosevelt discussed with congressional leaders today "the whole question of the cost of living," but has not decided whether he will send a special message to congress concerning means of preventing inflation.

Besides Barkley, the senate majority leader, the President saw Vice President Wallace, speaker Rayburn and House Majority Leader McCormick. The conference lasted for nearly two hours.

Although Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday he hoped to send a message to congress on the cost of living question, Barkley said, "it is not absolutely certain that the President will communicate with congress about this."

"We discussed," the senator continued, "the whole question of the cost of living, including the present powers and any powers the President may need."

Asked whether wage control was debated, Barkley replied: "we discussed the whole set up, everything that goes into the cost of living."

The President replied with a flat "No" when asked at a press conference yesterday whether he intended to "freeze wages" and advised his questioner to wait for the message when asked if he intended to suggest that to Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt would say only that the message would go into the cost of living which he described as the first real domestic problem in carrying on the war.

FLINT TANK ARSENAL RESUMES PRODUCTION

Action Begun After Week of Strike Negotiations.

By The Associated Press

FLINT, MICH., July 22—The tank arsenal of General Motors Fisher Body division, idle for a week because of a strike precipitated by workmen's smoking and resultant layoffs, rushed back into action in the war effort today.

Settlement of labor-management differences was achieved early today after mass meetings of CIO and AFL unionists and conferences with the war labor board's top mediator, Tilford Dudley, who arrived here only yesterday.

The strike began July 15 when 50 men were laid off for having left their jobs to smoke. Complicating the dispute was the fact that affiliates of the CIO's and AFL's united automobile workers unions insisted on being parties to any settlement. The plant has no recognized union, but the agreement, signed by the management and representatives of both striking groups, provides for a plant election as soon as possible to determine the bargaining agent.

Threat To Rostov Seen As Danger But Not Disaster

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The Nazi menace to Rostov-on-Don naturally increases the danger to Soviet Marshal Timoshenko's general defensive strategy, but the capture of the city wouldn't in itself represent a disaster.

Rostov is situated on the right, or northern, bank of the great River Don. The line in which Timoshenko presumably will make a stand ultimately if the German advance continues will be along the left or southern bank.

The Don presents a formidable barrier to any advancing army, especially at its mighty mouth near Rostov. Therefore we needn't put the Hitlerites across it at least until they come to it.

Should the invaders finally force a crossing they would have Timoshenko's left flank in a precarious position. A more immediate threat is the possibility the Nazis may try to invade the Caucasus from the Crimea across the Kerch strait, and thus attack the Russian positions on the Don from the rear. However, the Red defenses on the strait presumably are strong.

The Muscovites admit that they are outnumbered on their southern front, and I have been asked how this can be true in view of Russia's vast reservoir of manpower. The answer is that under conditions existing in this theater an attacking commander, on either side, generally can concentrate numerically superior forces on any restricted front although his enemy has vast reserves. The attacker who is operating on an interior line, as is General Von Bock, has the advantage over his opponent, who must spread his defenses.

New Threat

While Soviet Marshal Timoshenko coolly manipulates his hard-pressed forces under the terrific assault of a million-man Nazi army at the gateway to the Caucasus, way up on the northern extremity of Russia's 2,000-mile front there is developing against the Reds another grave threat which is correlated with the southern offensive.

I am reliably informed that the Germans are concentrating heavy forces in Finland, preparatory to a major attack against the Soviet Arctic port of Murmansk. Hitler's hope is to make a quick conquest of this vital rail-head and thereby cut one of Russia's two remaining feasible lifelines to the outside world, the other being the cumbersome route through the Persian gulf.

To put it bluntly, our mighty Russian ally, with a sixth of the entire land space of the globe and with a diversity of resources which make it virtually self-contained, is drawing terribly close to a dangerous lack of supplies, both military and foodstuffs. The time may come when she will need bread from Uncle Sam.

Long ago when Hitler's effort to conquer Europe still was young, this column ventured the view that kernels of grain would have more to do with ultimate victory than would bullets. That's increasingly true. With the destruction of Europe's farm lands, and the severance of communications, the little kernel of grain is becoming a mighty factor.

The allied blockade of Europe has squeezed Hitler so hard that the chief reason for his present great offensive is to break through to fresh supplies. Unfortunately for the allies, however they have not been able to retain exclusive use of this economic garrote, and the Nazi leader is struggling to fasten it about Russia's throat.

Timoshenko's Task

The last threat to [illegible] Marshal Timoshenko's task is more than that of preserving his armies from annihilation and preventing a Nazi break-through into the Caucasus. It also is to keep Hitler from cutting the Reds off from the vital supplies of southwestern Russia and the Caucasus.

Timoshenko's tactics for carrying out his Herculean assignment apparently project a stand on the great bend of the Don river where it curves deeply eastward into the Fertile steppes that guard the route to Caucasian oil and other treasures. But stand or no stand, every yard the Germans advance means the destruction of grain fields and other resources upon which the Soviet has been depending. This territory, and the Ukraine which already has succumbed to the scorched earth policy of the Reds, formed Russia's main source of breadstuffs.

Russia's supply problem is becoming more serious daily. Vladivostok already has been lost to us as a port through which to reach our ally. The route through Persia is difficult.

There remains Murmansk, and to reach that our convoys have to battle for their lives against Nazi submarines, surface warships and land-based warplanes. And soon, if nothing interferes with Hitler's plans, we shall see him striking at Murmansk with a land force, hoping to cripple the Bolshevists.

ELECTROCUTION SET FOR CANTON SLAYER

Buffert R. Doney To Die for Killing His Daughter.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 22—Buffert Ray Doney, 48, of Canton, made ready today to die in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair tonight for slaying his daughter, Mrs. Almeda Whitman, 23, at Canton last Nov. 22.

Testimony at Doney's trial showed he went to his daughter's residence and demanded to know where his estranged wife, Jeanette, had gone.

Mrs. Whitman, mother of a two-year-old girl, refused to tell and Doney marched her down a lonely road in Canton's industrial section and shot her.

From the witness stand Doney said he was "pretty drunk."

By The Associated Press

DOVER, O., July 22—Orla E. Doney, 71-year-old father of Buffert Ray Doney of Canton, was committed to the Tuscarawas county infirmary by Mayor Earl S. Lieser here yesterday. Doney will pay his own board and room at the infirmary.

DUTCH HARBOR

scored on the radio, putting it out of commission for several hours. They achieved near misses alongside several old wooden fuel tanks and managed, believe it or not, to hit the only hospital in 500 miles.

The planes retired northward, pursued by fighters.

Weather defeated efforts to maintain contact with the invaders.

In Air All Night

The Catallinas stayed in the air all night. Early the next day they came on two Jap carriers and two destroyers heading southeast 200 miles below Seguam Island.

American attack groups converged from every base in the islands. They came from as far away as Kodiak, 600 miles eastward.

The day's operation order was a marvel of military brevity. "Land—rearm, refuel—attack," it said.

Fortress and B-26 bombers joined the Catallinas, but it was like boxing blindfolded. One fortress went out into the fog and never came back. Others went, out, hunted until their gas gave out, landed to refuel and went back to the job. The questing planes picked up one carrier again at noon, finding two cruisers in company. Contact was established again at 5 p. m. and yet again at 9 p. m.

Japs Attack Again

A few minutes later, 10 Zero fighters, 10 dive-bombing Kokekikis and eight torpedo planes were diving into black and yellow anti-aircraft bursts from the harbor's guns.

The Japs came twisting down to lay their bombs in the area of hangars, barracks, shops and fuel storage. The second day's raid was more effective than the first. Providentially, American casualties were few.

The attacks were driven home viciously, but the defenders regarded the damage as something less than serious. No attack by so few planes can hope to knock out a well established base.

Except for a subsequent weak attempt against Umnak Island, the second day's raid has been the last against American bases in the Aleutians—unless the occupation of empty Kiska and Attu constitutes attack.

Permits for 4 New Homes Issued Here

Building permits for the construction of four new homes estimated to cost $3,200 each were issued to J. R. Cogen of Mansfield, a representative of the Bert Construction Co. of Mansfield, by Mrs. Mayme Gorton, city clerk.

The homes are to be built on Forest Lawn boulevard, south of East Church street, and on East Church street, east of Forest Lawn boulevard.

RUSSIA

Increased Soviet air activity throughout the Don basin was noted by the newspaper Komsomol Pravada. It said Russian bombers, as well as roving tanks and infantry groups, were raiding airdromes newly gained by the Germans.

"Southeast of Voroshilovgrad (100 miles above Rostov) our troops are waging defensive battles and on some sectors, under the pressure of numerically superior enemy forces, have withdrawn to new positions," the midday communique said.

Powerful artillery and mortar fire was reported employed in a flank attack on one advancing column.

Nazis Lose Regiment

"The Germans lost over a regiment of infantry in this battle, as well as 19 tanks," the communique declared.

At the same time, dispatches said the Russians had widened a wedge in the German left flank northwest of Voronezh, recaptured a large and strong fortified point south of that battle-scarred city and won control of four main crossings of the Don to the west.

Nazi detachments still battling within the "V" formed by the Don and the Voronezh rivers were declared imperilled, their prospects of reinforcement and supply dwindling with expansion of the Red army counteroffensive.

A battalion of German infantry and 17 tanks were wiped out in a successful Red army action to recapture a highway, the communique reported.

The Russians were said to have destroyed two temporary bridges installed by German engineers across the Don for the advance upon Voronezh, cut a third and placed a fourth under artillery fire from emplacements newly reestablished on the west bank.

A Soviet dispatch said that even while seeking to isolate the still huge invasion force between the Don and Voronezh the Red army spared strong infantry and artillery detachments to develop the battle area on the west bank. These forces pushed westward in one sector, it was declared.

Division Reinforced

The 75th German infantry division, badly mauled in the first of the Russian counter-attacks was reported to have been reinforced and returned to battle. Remnants of the 168th were trapped between the river and the city and the 387th was in a bad plight northwest of Voronezh, dispatches said.

(German military quarters denounced reports of the fighting at Voronezh as "sheer invention." Maps printed in Berlin newspapers pictured the Germans in possession of a triangular block extending from the junction of the Voronezh and upper Don rivers to a point north of Voronezh.

(Nazi broadcasts insisted that Rostov, a gateway to oil fields of the Caucasus, was in flames and that Don river bridges in that vicinity had been destroyed. Fresh gains were claimed in the drive upon Stalingrad.)

At the same time observers did not minimize the threat to Russia's military position inherent in the maneuvers of a 1,000,000-man Nazi army striking circuitously through Kursk and Voron[illegible] and across whose flanks loomed the [illegible] and Stalingrad.

UNDERTONE PREVAILS IN WHEAT MARKET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 22 — A firm undertone prevailed in the wheat pit today on buying attributed primarily to mills. Hedge selling was small and buyers were encouraged by the falling off in the movement of the winter wheat crop.
Corn prices also remained firm, although failing to rally with wheat late in the session. Traders said country offerings of corn are not pressing because the feeding value of corn is high and commercial use of the grain is much above average.

RAIL, RUBBER SHARES CLIMB

Stock Market Resumes Selective Rise; Leaders Show Confidence.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 22—Rail and rubber shares moved to the front today as the stock market resumed its selective rise.
Exhibiting quiet confidence despite the certain sharp tax boosts and not too encouraging war reports, most leaders inclined to edge ahead. Fractional gains were generously distributed, but a handful of key issues remained rather backward.
Goodyear and Goodrich reached new highs for the year.
In demand in the early proceedings were Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, Western Union, American Can and Johns-Manville. Du Pont and Allied Chemical were in the loss column most of the time.
Signs of a better following for the rails in the stock exchange brought favorable comment from market students who under the chartists' theory are bullish significance in a responsive move in the carrier stocks after an extended rise in the industrials.
Rails have had a few good days since the market began to move ahead in late May but until recently their progress had been negligible as compared with the rise in industrial averages.
Helpful factors for the steam transportation group have been the consistently good revenue reports and belief in speculative and investment circles that the carriers will not be hit as hard as other big industries by the new tax bill.
Buying of the rubbers was attributed in part to the program worked out by leading companies in the field for an adequate supply of tires over the next two years conditioned on some curtailment of buying.
Of interest to holders of electric light and power shares was the report of Edison Electric Institute showing energy distribution for the week ended July 18 up to 3,565,367,000 kilowatt hours from 3,428,916,000 in the previous week end 3,195,105,000 in the corresponding period last year.
The week's output gain of 11.1 per cent over the 1941 figures compared with a 7.0 per cent rise in the preceding period.

Vitamins Called Bunk, Except as Auxiliary

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O.—Vitamins are all right in their place, but the old fashioned methods of eating will prove best for most persons according to Dr. Jonathan Forman, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal.
Dr. Forman writes in a current issue of the magazine that vitamins in themselves have no food value, but merely help the body to use the foods that come to it.
The wide publicity being given vitamins makes it necessary that the public be told the truth about them—that they are not food—Dr. Forman wrote.
In nature, he explained, vitamins are supplied to the body with other energy and tissue building materials.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D

Constipation Causes

THE CAUSES of constipation are varied, but the most important is that some individuals are born that way just as some individuals in the morning get dressed in a hurry and some individuals putter around and take hours and hours. It would be wrong to say that the one who gets dressed in a hurry was any better than the one who puttered around, or that the soul of either the one or the other was better or worse. The same thing is true about sluggish colons.

People are always worrying about being "intoxicated" with constipation. I think it is fair to say that this never happened in the history of the world. If a person with constipation begins to worry about it or thinks he is subject to auto-intoxication, he really is a goner. What you think about your constipation is by all odds the most important element in the physicians problem of treatment.

Constipation is a disease of civilization. The Eskimo has no word for it because the condition is unknown to him.

Another cause of constipation is eating too little. It doesn't make any difference whether you eat food that is classified as roughage or not; the Eskimo who lives mostly on meat is not constipated.

Nervous tension and strain will cause it. I have the record before me of a woman who was operated on several times for attacks so intractable that caster oil had no effect. Each time the attending surgeon though she had an intestional obstruction, but each time they found a normal looking bowel. The case was never solved until the woman admitted that each time she had fallen ill she had been trying to save a good-for-nothing son from prison for forging checks.

Too little roughage as a cause in a certain number of cases is easily overcome by the use of fruits and vegetables rather than concentrated foods such as eggs, white flour and sugar.

The habitual use of laxatives. I would put this second in my list of causes. In nearly every case known to me this has been due to a habit which has been generated by fear. It is like the habit of taking sedatives at night: the person thinks he is not going to sleep so he takes a sleeping tablet before he finds out whether he is going to sleep or not. The same thing is true of cathartics. When an X-ray is made of these people they are warned not to take a cathartic in order to have the bowel functioning normally, and in 90 per cent of cases it empties automatically.

As a final cause I would like to put down old age and diverticulosis and the cases in which there is ptosis or dropping of the stomach and bowel.

F. G.—I have had pain in my right shoulder which the doctor X-rayed and found to be a calcium deposit where the bone of the upper arm joins the shoulder. In your opinion is surgery the only remedy or would certain foods overcome this calcium tendency?

Answer: I do not believe any foods will overcome the calcium tendency but it is not always necessary to resort to surgery. In most cases time and the use of heat and resting the shoulder will cause absorption.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

AS I TURNED to meet Katharine's accusing gaze, there was an all-gone feeling inside me. I had not expected her for hours yet and her movements as always were so noiseless, the result of her rigid training as a nurse, that none of us had heard her come in.

I had been eager to tell her the truth about the letter she believed to be from her husband, but I had expected to lead up to the disclosure gradually, not blurt it out under the handicap of having her know first that I had deceived her.

But my father stepped nobly into the breach. With stately old-fashioned courtesy he seated her in an armchair opposite mine.

"This is all my doing, Katharine, not Margaret's," he said. "I imposed secrecy on her for Jack's sake—and for yours."

"You would not have believed the truth if we had told you about it when you first came to the hotel."

Tells of Seeing Jack

She flamed into agitated speech. "You have heard from Jack? You know where he is?"

He hesitated ever so slightly, then said, "No, I do not know where he is now. But I saw him less than twenty-four hours before you arrived, and had a report of his whereabouts and his safety from a most trustworthy source just a little while before you reached here. "It was a physical impossibility for the letter you received to be genuine. It was forged, beyond a doubt—and we have a pretty good surmise now as to the identity of the forger."

She shivered slightly, then lashed out at me.

"And you let me search all these weary, heart - breaking hours!" she said, her voice almost a shriek. Then her self-control and her sense of justice returned together, and she put out pleading hands to me.

Spencer Takes the Blame

"Forgive me, Madge!" she said. "You know I did not mean that. You tried so hard to tell me that letter was forged, but I would not listen. But—" she faltered—"if you had told me this—"

"I forbade her to do that, Katharine," my father struck in, "and like a good soldier she obeyed me. But now I have released her from her promise about that—and other things. You are at liberty, Margaret, to tell her the whole story, beginning with your trip to Connecticut."

He had been standing while he talked, and now turned to Ronald. "Come, lad," he said. "We'll go over to the other suite."

As they made their way to the concealed door leading to the communicating suite, my father sent back a reassuring last message.

"If you need us, tap on the door," he said.

Then Katharine, usually so poised and well-controlled, was standing over me, her hands gripping my shoulders. I almost expected her to shake me.

"Please do not keep me waiting, Madge," she pleaded. "Tell me quickly. I—I can't stand much more."

"I know, dear girl," I said, "but it is a long story. Sit down and I'll give you the vital points first, then I'll tell you the rest."

She snatched up my lavender aromatic salts, took a deep whiff of them, then corked the bottle and laid it down again.

"I'm all right now," she said, as she settled into her chair. "But tell me again. "You're sure Jack is safe?"

For Thursday, July 23

A PARTICULARLY lively and enterprising day is read from the ruling planetary aspects. While there may be bold and audacious moves in launching such programs, yet they could be easily nullified or bungled by rash, hasty and impetuous moves, or with erratic or irregular impulses. With well-organized plans and properly thought out actions there should be real success and satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to enjoy a progressive and profitable year, with much enterprise and initiative, provided they exercise precaution and restraint, as there is a sign of impetuous, erratic and possibly violent impulses and emotions. Ambitious programs should attract the friendly support of those in high places, especially if public or community interests are at stake.

A child born on this day although disposed to be rash, impetuous and carried away by its erratic impulses, may be well-endowed for a successful and popular career, possibly in public service.
